POLICEMAN ACCUSED OF BLACKMAIL

E. C. Bettencourt of Oakland Force Held for Investigation On Charge That He Extorted $25 From Driver

Marked Bill Is Alleged to Have Been Paid As Bribe to Officer Not to Make An Arrest; Evidence in Couch

Charged with extorting $25 from Joe Borba, a truck driver, by means of blackmail, Policeman E. C. Bettencourt is being held today and will be subjected to an investigation by Acting Chief of Police J. Frank Lynch.

A marked $10 bill, declared to have been paid Bettencourt by Borba, is being held by the police as evidence against their fellow-officer.

According to the charge, made by Borba, who lives at 621 Oak street, Bettencourt stopped him at 4:30 on the morning of June 5 as he was driving a truck for the Homer Draying Company, and accused him of having committed a statutory offense.

POLICEMAN TOOK DRIVER'S MONEY, CHARGE.

The policeman asked him, Borba says, how he would like to spend several days in the city jail, and when Borba replied that he would not like it at all, told him that for $30 he could "fix it up" for him.

Borba had only $15 with him at the time, he said, and this, he declares, he gave to Bettencourt, who said he would return the following day for the remaining $15.

Borba immediately told of the affair to his employers, Dwight and Homer Rue, who advised him to pay the policeman in marked money the next time, and then to have him arrested.

SAYS MARKED BILL IS GIVEN TO BETTENCOURT.

Borba did not see Bettencourt again until this morning, he said. Bettencourt asked him for the rest of the money, he declares, and he took the policeman to his home and gave him a $10 bill which he had previously marked with a blue pencil. He then called Homer Rue on the telephone, and Rue notified police headquarters.

Police Sergeant A. B. Smith and Inspectors Robert Goodwin and Louis Kirsch arrested Bettencourt at Second and Oak streets, on a description furnished by Borba, who said the policeman was dark complected and wore star number 230.

At the city prison Bettencourt was left sitting on a couch for a few minutes before being searched. When he was searched no marked money was found on the policeman, but search of the couch revealed a marked $10 bill, identified by Borba as the one he had given, under the cushion, the police say.

Convicts Make Own Booze; Sent Back to Cells

REDDING, June 8.—(By United Press.)—Eight convicts from Folsom prison working at the Big Bar highway camp, figured out the laws to a fine point. They believed that since they were prisoners the ethical necessity for their obedience of the prohibition law was non-existent. So they fixed up a still and discovered that under the spell of the cup that cheers "stone walls do not a prison make nor iron bars a cage."

But their guards and the prison regulations got 'em. Now they're back at Folsom with the privilege of swinging a pick on a highway in the fine free air removed and all their other credits cancelled.

S. F. GIRL SLAIN; SUITOR ARRESTED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Shot down by a man believed to be her sweetheart, as she sat eating her breakfast in the Panama Grill, 190 Fourth street, this morning, Miss Marilynn Young, 22 years old, is dead, and Dimitris Ariston, arrested a few minutes later at his rooming house, is in the city prison charged with murder.

Ariston, several witnesses claim, entered the restaurant flourishing a heavy calibre revolver. He walked toward the table where the girl was eating and fired, the bullet striking her in the breast.

As the victim fell to the floor, the gunman turned and ran from the cafe.

Patrolman James Murphy of the Southern Station learned that the alleged slayer resided at 319 Third street. He went there and was searching the man's room when the suspect appeared. The officer took him into custody and returned him to the cafe, where he was positively identified by several witnesses including Vassilios Pagonis, the proprietor.

At the city prison, the man first gave the name of James Parases, but later stated he was a Greek, and that his correct name was Ariston. He was immediately booked on a murder charge.

Miss Young, whose home is in Folsom, California, was employed as a waitress at the restaurant. She is the step-daughter of Dr. A. Hill, 630 O'Farrell street, this city.

The man has been annoying her for the two weeks she had been employed at the place, according to the proprietor.

Jealousy was given by detectives as the motive for the killing.

Searching the girl's clothing, police found a note in a coat pocket which read as follows:

"Dear Marylynn: Meet me tomorrow morning. Mike."

OAKLAND TO GET POSTAL FACILITIES

Station Which Will Provide 40,000 Square Feet of An Additional Floor Space Will Relieve Congestion

Department Calls for Bids On New Building to Meet Present Requirements of This City and Bay Region

Oakland's year and a half battle to secure a new postoffice station, which will provide 40,000 square feet of additional floor space and alleviate present congested mail distributing facilities, was apparently won today, according to word received from the postoffice department at Washington.

Bids for new postoffice buildings, to be constructed from private capital and leased by the government, have been called for by the department, a telegram received at the office of Congressman James MacLafferty, stated.

The telegram which was from C. B. Dodds, secretary to Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, addressed to MacLafferty, was opened by the latter's secretary. The congressman is at present in Alaska. The wire follows:

"Postoffice department has reconsidered and has called for bids for postoffice buildings on ten-year lease with option to renew for second ten-year period at both Oakland and San Francisco

"C. B. DODDS."

TEN-YEAR LEASE PLAN IS CHANGE.

The ten-year lease plan mentioned in the telegram, it was pointed out by local postal authorities, is a change from the original proposition submitted, which called for a twenty-year lease, but gives the government opportunity to continue the proposed facilities another ten years if they are found desirable.

The telegram refers to the "warehouse" type of postoffice, similar to that in Los Angeles and other cities in the country, which would be located in the vicinity of a railroad station where all incoming and out-going mail could be easily handled and sorted, preparatory to delivery and shipment.

The telegram was taken by Assistant Postmaster W. W. Robson, who is in charge of the local office in the absence of Postmaster Joseph J. Rosborough, as positive assurance that the proposed station would be erected

"This is certainly good news" said Robson. "We have been waiting for it for a long time. It means that the local office will have 40,000 more square feet of floor space and that the facilities for handling the mail, which at present are so deplorable, will be greatly improved. It is the plan to have the new building in the close vicinity of the Sixteenth street station where the mail can be handled with rapidity the moment it arrives on trains."

WAREHOUSE STYLE IS DECLARED MODERN.

Robson also gave out details of the plan for the "warehouse" type of building which has been so strongly advocated by Postmaster Rosborough as the only really modern efficient method for the handling of mail in large cities. The new building, according to the plan, will be constructed from private capital, or money raised by public subscription and rented or leased to the postoffice department for a period of ten years.

At the end of this period, the government has the option of re-leasing it for another like period, and at the end of the second rental, the building can be sold or used for any purpose.

PROMISES TO SOLVE PRESENT SITUATION.

While not elaborately constructed the building which will be built along warehouse lines but out of better materials and with more improvements, according to Robson, will solves the present situation that has been growing steadily worse during past years while the city has been rapidly expanding. As far as offices are concerned, the station will have no effect on the present building on Broadway near Seventeenth street.

With the acquisition of the new building, however, the present building will be used only for offices, stamp sales and information purposes.

The new station, which the government is also planning for San Francisco, according to the telegram, will take the place and provide more room for the work now being done in the Ferry building in that city.

'WAR CHEST' PLANNED FOR DRY DRIVE

Anti-Saloon League to Sound Rallying Call to Supporters to Contribute to Big 1924 Fight Against Booze

Wets Also Girding Up Loins for Contest Which Will Take Form of National Prohibition Referendum

By LAWRENCE MARTIN,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright 1923, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Millions of dollars will be spent in two gigantic campaigns of publicity and organization to line up all the voters in the country on the one side or the other of the new prohibition struggle.

The result will be a national referendum in 1924 on the question of modifying the Volstead law to permit manufacture and sale of beer and light wines.

Under the leadership of the Anti-Saloon League, the dry will shortly sound a rallying call to dry supporters everywhere to contribute to a 'war chest' and to revive all prohibition organizations to prevent amendment of the Volstead act and to force congress by a show of public opinion to appropriate more money for enforcement.

WETS ALSO PLAN ORGANIZATION DRIVE.

Headed by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the wets will make a similar organization drive, urging all with wet sympathies to became open active advocates of a more liberal enforcement plan and of amendment of the Volstead act and to permit beer and wine.

Congress will be "too busy" this winter to make any changes in the Volstead law affecting the status of beer and wine. It is extremely unlikely to amend the enforcement law, even to clarify the international situation created by protests of seven maritime powers against new American regulations barring ship's stores of liquor.

WHOLE QUESTION MAY GO TO PEOPLE.

The whole matter is to be referred back directly to the people before the politicians in congress attempt any tinkering. The congress elected in 1924 may bring back beer and wine. The one that will convene in December, 1923, will not even take a step in that direction. That is why dry leaders here are not greatly disturbed by developments in New York, Wisconsin, Illinois and other states where repeal of the state enforcement laws has occurred or is being considered. They declare the referendum will support a "100 per cent dry", enforcement of the Volstead act just as it stands

The 1924 referendum will be the broadest test of public sentiment of prohibition this country has ever been afforded. Every candidate in 1924 from presidential down will be measured by the wet and dry vote.

LABOR FAVORS VOLSTEAD MODIFICATION

DENVER, Colo., June 8.—Modification of the Volstead act and the return to light wines and beer were favored in a resolution adopted at the closing session of the annual convention of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, according to President Earl Hoage of Denver, who returned last night from LaJunta, where the convention was held.

The resolution reaffirmed the stand taken by the federation at its annual convention last year, and pointed out "manifest evils" in present prohibition enforcement, according to President Hoage.

MADISON, Wis., June 8. — Dry leaders in the state senate today were confident of defeating the [illegible] prohibition enforcement act, should the bill come before the upper body. The assembly yesterday engrossed the bill by a vote of 48 to 43 and wet adherents predicted that their forces would remain intact when the measure comes up for final passage in that body.

LONDON—German note favorably received. British believe it a step toward ultimate settlement.

CHINA DEMANDS JAPAN'S APOLOGY

Indemnities and Punishment for Shootings in Hunan Province Asked.

PEKING, June 8.—(By the Associated Press). — The Chinese Foreign Office today sent a note to Tokyo demanding an apology, indemnities and the punishment of the Japanese commander and his marines who shot down Chinese supporters of a Japanese boycott at Changsha, province of Hunan, June 2.

The note demands the withdrawal of Japanese gunboats from Changsha, which is a treaty port on the Siang river; punishment of the Japanese commander and marines from the gunboat Fushimi; indemnification for the families of Chinese who were shot down during the disorders; an official apology from the Japanese government, and guarantees from Tokyo that there will be no recurrence of such affairs.

The rioting at Changsha June 2 and at Shasi, province of Hupeh, May 15, was the result of the movement that has swept China during the past few months for a boycott of all things Japanese in retaliation for Japan's refusal to abrogate the famous "twenty-one demands" treaty of 1915.

At both these places Chinese students and other demonstrators attempted to search Japanese vessels for Japanese goods consigned to Chinese merchants. Rioting ensued, Japanese marines were landed, and a number of Chinese were killed and many wounded in the subsequent clashes.

At Changsha the Chinese mob roamed the streets destroying Japanese property, and the Japanese consular staff was forced to flee for protection aboard the gunboat Fushimi.

PARIS, June 8.—Premier Poincare, acting for the interallied council of ambassadors, today handed a note to the German charge d'affaires stating that the council had virtually agreed that the interallied control commission should resume its function in Germany forthwith. Germany was threatened with fresh penalties if officials at Berlin and elsewhere obstruct General Nollet, head of the commission.

BRUSSELS, June 8.—(International News Service.)—Belgium will concur in any action taken by France toward the new German reparations offer, it was stated today.

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, June 8.—Premier Poincare's views upon the German reparations offer reached the British government this afternoon and they show a wide divergence of opinion between Great Britain and France. The French regard any guarantees not controlled by the allies as inadequate. Furthermore, they deeply resent Germany's failure to promise cessation of passive resistance in the Ruhr.

By FRANK E. MASON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, June 8.—French officials and newspapers reflecting the viewpoint of the government were unanimous today in declaring the new German reparations note as unacceptable. Officials close to Premier Poincare quoted him as saying the memorandum is "absurd and ridiculous and does not merit consideration" because it does not promise cessation of passive resistance against French occupation of the Ruhr.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—An official text of the new German proposal to the allies on reparations was before state department officials yesterday, transmitted by the German ambassador, Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, as a matter of information. While official comment was withheld, there can be no doubt that the clause in the German note declaring that a method of payment could be determined only by "direct consultations with those who are to receive payments" attracted wide attention in official circles.

U. S. MAY TAKE PART IN PARLEY

BERKELEY CITY MANAGER MOVES INTO QUARTERS

Study of Budget Estimate to Be Commenced Next Monday.

BERKELEY, June 8.—City Manager John N. Edy was today installed in a temporary office in the quarters occupied by the health department in the city hall, where he will devote himself to a study of the city's problems during the remainder of the month. On July 1 he will go to work officially as the city manager and will occupy the offices hitherto reserved for the commissioner of public supplies and to be vacated on that date by E. T. Harms.

Detailed study of the budget estimates for the coming year will be started Monday by Edy. He has already been provided with financial reports for past years and rough drafts of a budget for next year by members of the new city materials at hand he will proceed at once to the building of a budget for the coming fiscal year.

CO-OPERATION ASKED.

"Just now I am particularly concerned with establishing intimate personal relations with all of the city's employees," Edy said today. "I want to know exactly what each man is expected to do and just what is being done. Co-operation is everything and I hope to have it with all departments and between all departments.

"As soon as I go to work officially I will establish regular office hours for consultation with whomsoever has an interest in the city's problems. I shall reserve some of my time for inspection of the city's works myself for I believe that no business can be efficiently managed from an arm chair entirely."

CHANGES PLANNED.

The change in the city's government attendant upon adoption of the city manager plan will necessitate some change in the arrangement of offices in the city hall, it was said today. The office occupied by Councilman Carl Bartlett will probably be devoted to an extension of the offices occupied by the city assessor, Harry Squires.

Councilman Charles D. Heywood, who staged a strenuous fight against the city manager form of government during the recent campaign, today offered to support the change voted overwhelming by the Berkeley residents. He declared today that while he is still opposed to the city manager plan, power to make it a success since he would do everything in his it had been adopted. He started out today on his co-operation program by providing the city manager's desk with a large bouquet of roses.

Oakland Man Sued For $43,000 Damage

Making Charles Butters, general manager of a local aluminum powder plant, defendant in an action for $43,000, C. W. Davenport, Los Angeles capitalist, has filed suit in the local superior court.

The complaint charges Butters with failure to complete payments for purchase of Davenport's interest in the San Albino gold mine at San Albino, Nicaragua.

Butters and Davenport were joint owners of the mine until April 22, 1922, when Butters agreed to buy out his partner at the price of $47,000, it is claimed, payments to be $400 a month until a mill was constructed, when payments were to be on the basis of $1 a ton of all ore milled.

Payments were made for ten months and then Butters shut down the mine and since last February has refused to make further payments, the complaint alleges.

The week-end and Monday is to be a season of outdoor festivities in Redwood Canyon. All of the resorts along the Sacramento Short Line have been engaged.

Tomorrow (Saturday) there will be two big picnics. The Standard Oil company, Oakland division, is to foregather for a night dance and picnic at Canyon Park. Arrangements have been made for a special train leaving the Fortieth street and Shafter avenue depot at 4:30. Returning, the merrymakers will leave the canyon at 11:30 p. m.

Oakland First Baptist Church will picnic tomorrow at Pinehurst. The picnickers will leave at 10:10 a. m. and spend the day in the woods. They will leave Pinehurst for home at 4:30 p. m.

The Protestant Orphan Asylum will picnic tomorrow at the Camille avenue grounds. A program of games and sports has been arranged for them.

Sunday three picnics are scheduled for the canyon parks. The Sciots will hold their annual outdoor gathering at Pinehurst; Monte Verde and Volta Grove of Druids will gather at Madrone Park; the employees of the First National Bank of San Francisco will hold their annual outing at Canyn Station Park.

Usual diversions will be indulged in at all the picnics. There will be games, athletic sports, music, dancing, rambles in the woods. Basket lunches will be taken. Ample train accommodations will be provided.

VIOLINCELLO SMASHED BY CAR VALUED AT $1000

The value of a violincello, alleged to be $1000, which was smashed when Otto B. Schmidt and his wife, Ida J. Schmidt, were struck by a machine while crossing Lakeshore boulevard, near Lake Park avenue, it is claimed, is included in a suit for $11,360 damages filed against Dr. Austin L. Clark.

The complaint says that Austin L. Clark Jr., son of the physician, was driving the machine when the accident happened on December 30, last. Schmidt and his wife each ask $5000 for injuries received, $1000 for the loss of the violincello and the balance for medical expenses.

Widow Files Letters In Scott Estate

Michael P. Scott, chief deputy sealer of weights and measures, who died May 21, failed to leave a will disposing of his small estate, according to a petition for letters of administration filed on behalf of Mrs. Pansy S. Scott, 9301 Birch street, the widow. The estate consists of an automobile, $116.55 due in salary, and an equity in a home on Ninety-second avenue, worth $620.

Relatives who will be entitled to half of the estate, according to law, are Astrophe Schieppa-Pietra, San Francisco, a brother, and two sisters, Minnie Danner, San Francisco, and Edith Barbe, Detroit.

OAKLAND GOOD CITY FOR HOMES, ARONOVICI SAYS

Development of Neighborhood Interest Urged in Building.

Oakland has unusual opportunities for developing homes and there is no reason why its people should be stored in apartment houses and "bungalets," in the opinion of Dr. Carol Aronovici, city planning expert, who addressed the Business and Professional Women's Club at luncheon yesterday. Dr. Aronovici urged homes "where the whole family can get in without stepping on each other's toes." He said, in part:

"Aside from the architecture of the home itself there is the matter of surroundings. You cannot develop neighborhood interest in home surroundings without first guaranteeing that the city will do its duty in the conversation of the natural or artistic resources of the city, and in the prevention of encroachment on all sides by unsightly objects, stores, garages and undertaking parlors, I would say the City of Oakland has the opportunity of building the finest type of home and developing the finest type of surroundings, both as to immediate environment and asto view; and the only way that can be done is through what is commonly called zoning."

"And it is not expensive— or it shouldn't be—because we have all the hills, and hill-climbing is not nearly as bad as one thinks. I believe we have got to take to the hills and plains to get room for the homes and expand them as far as we possibly can.

"There is no reason why we should be stored in apartment houses, 'bungalets' or 'bungling courts.'"

The program was in celebration of "Better Homes Week." Mrs. Minna McCauley, chairman of the local committee, was a guest of honor. The clubwomen displayed stocks contributing to more beautiful residences. Community singing was led by Miss Zannette Potter. Mrs. J. Eubanks Edwards was the soloist.

A home cooked chicken dinner prepared by the clubwomen is being given tonight in the Broadway quarters in further celebration of the Better Homes Week.

Husband Issues 100 Invitations To Divorce Case

BERLIN, June 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The German press and public usually show little interest in divorce trials and a Berlin judge therefore was rather surprised to find his courtroom packed with visitors. Counsel for the defendant wife requested exclusion of the spectators, whereupon it was revealed that her spouse, the plaintiff, had issued 100 formal invitations printed on gold bordered cards and sent to his neighbors and friends. The cards read:

"I have the honor to invite you to attend my divorce before the Civil Court and to listen in on the failings of my wife."

Immediately the judge cleared the courtroom and five minutes later sent the marital ligitants on their respective ways, divorced.

Victim Laughs at Bandit, Jaw Broken

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—James Douglass laughed when a bandit held him up and obtained only $4.

WOMAN GIVEN ATTORNEY'S FEES

"This woman has committed perjury and bigamy," declared Attorney T. H. Nicholls to Superior Judge J. S. Koford today in the course of resisting the petition of Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholls, for attorney's fees in the suit for annullment of marriage filed against her by Robert A. Nicholls, of Berkeley.

Attorney Nicholls declared that Mrs. Nicholls had married Robert A. Nicholls when she had a former husband living, from whom she had never been divorced.

"We are forced to pay her $15 a week for her support and she certainly is not entitled to anything more from the court," declared Attorney Nicholls.

Judge Koford, however, granted Myron Harris, attorney for the woman, $100 on account of fees.

Nicholls sued his wife, declaring that although she married him June 16, 114, she was at that time the wife o fJohn Vincent Berry, whom she married February 15, 1913. He alleges that she fraudulently told him she had never been married but finally admitted that while she had been married she was a divorced woman. This he claims was untrue.

Nicholls alleges that since the marriage he has purchased two pieces of Berkeley property out of his separate earnings and money and that Mrs. Nicholls persuaded him to deed the property to her. He asks tht he be awarded the property in question.

WOOLWINE QUITS AS PROSECUTOR

Special to the TRIBUNE.

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Asa Keyes, formerly chief deputy district attorney, assumed charge of the office today, replacing Thomas Lee Woolwine, whose resignation was accepted by the board of supervisors yesterday.

Following his unsuccessful campaign for gubernatorial honors, Woolwine's health failed and he recently took an extended vacation at his old home in Nashville, Tenn. Woolwine was elected to the office of district attorney in 1914.

During his tenure of office Woolwine engaged in many criminal prosecutions of nation-wide interest. Principal among these were the Schmidt and Caplan dynamiting case, the Woodman case and the Harry New, Mrs. Peete, Burch, Obenchain and Clara Phillips murder cases.

He also achieved publicity through his prosecution of the "bread trust," "sugar trust" and "milk trust" cases as well as the Ku Klux Klan prosecution.

Stirring Days Of '49 Told in Sunday Tribune

FURTHER pictures of the stirring days of California's early history are presented in Harry C. Peterson's next article on the Great West, which appears in next Sunday's TRIBUNE Magazine. The title of this instalment of Peterson's series is "Old Bill Harden and the Days of Forty-nine." One of the most picturesque of Harden's reminiscences as set down by Peterson is his description of the old Long Tom Saloon, one of the most famous of the old gambling places and dance halls.

Other features in the Sunday TRIBUNE Magazine will be: "Why Trout Turned to Gold," by Louis Allen; "Blood for Sale," by Mura Maclay; "Merely Mr. Burro," by Jack Bell; "Raps, Shillabers and Saps," by George C. Henderson; "Irvin S. Cobb's 'Stickfuls'"; "Atolls of the Sun," by Frederick O'Brien; "Throwing the Face," by Thomas S. Miller; "Geraldine on Flappers;" "When Chinatown Moved," by Ah Choy; "Timpanogos: Wonder Cave," by J. W. Hammond; and "A Block from Broadway," by Jack Burroughs.

PACT REPORTED SIGNED TO FREE BANDIT CAPTIVES

Shanghai Learns Brigands to Release Victims at Daybreak Tomorrow.

By EDNA LEE BOOKER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SHANGHAI, June 8.—An unverified report reached here last night that an agreement had been signed between the Paotzuku bandits and negotiators for the release of all prisoners still held, including several Americans. A report reaching here said the prisoners were to be released by daylight tomorrow morning.

Earlier reports of excellent progress in the negotiations encouraged local friends of the captives to hope that release is finally in sight for the captives who have been held by the bandits in the Shantung stronghold since the wrecking of the Shanghai-Peking express Sunday, May 6.

GOVERNOR WILL DRAW ALL LINES TIGHT ON PARDON

Richardson Tells District Attorneys That He Is "No Sob Sister."

YOSEMITE, June 8.—"A man who wants a pardon must show me what the judge, the prosecuting attorney and the individual jurors think of the case," declared Governor Friend W. Richardson in telling the District Attorneys Association convention here the only basis on which he will consider pardoning criminals.

"I won't pay any attention to petitions signed by all the jurors on the same piece of paper," he continued, "because some men are so weak they will sign anything out of sympathy even after they voted for conviction. My secretary has standing instructions to get individual expressions from each juror in such cases."

The convention applauded the governor enthusiastically when he assured them he was "no sob sister."

Attorney General Webb told the convention that a recent court decision compelled them to continue their work without an increase in help despite increased volume of work and urged them to do the best they could despite this handicap.

speakers at the opening session of the convention.

"So-called good citizens who dodge jury service and leave the important work to professional hangers on around the courts," declared Henry W. McGowan of Glenn county, "are doing all they can to encourage criminals. Sentimental persons who howl for conviction and then sign petitions for pardons for notorious criminals are literally inviting these offenders to repeat their misdeeds."

Pick over the currants, do not remove the stems. Put in a preserving kettle, mashing them to provide juice for them to cook in, or add just a little water. Cook slowly until the currants are white. Add an equal quantity of heated sugar, boil three minutes, skim, and pour into sterilized glasses. Let stand in sun for twenty-four hours. Cover with paraffin, and store in a cool dark place.

ECONOMY URGED TO LOWER COST OF GOVERNMENT

Harding Tells of Mounting Expenses of Nation and Municipalities.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—(By Associated Press.)—Every means possible should be employed to insure against any unnecessary increases in the cost of government, declared President Harding in a letter to Professor M. B. Lamble of the University of Minnesota, made public today.

Professor Lamble is secretary of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, which will hold its annual convention at Faribault, on June 20 and 21. The letter complimented the league on its choice of taxation as a principal topic at the convention.

"There is no more important duty confronting public officials everywhere than the enforcement of the utmost measure of economy consistent with good administration," wrote President Harding.

"This has been a fundamental of the national administration's policy. I cannot too strongly endorse every effort that your league may support to carry a like policy into the realm of municipal administration."

TAX BURDEN GROWS.

The national burden of taxation said the president, "is a direct and most onerous charge against the national income; it bears heavily upon every kind of business and production."

Continuing, the president wrote: "Within the past few days the census bureau, at my request, has furnished some figures which seem to me to impress as nothing else could, the necessity for the most careful administration in every governmental unit. They state, for example, that revenues from all sources of the state governments in 1913, aggregated $368,000,000, and in 1921 $959,000,000, an increase of 161 per cent. Expenditures arose from $383,000,000 in 1913 to $1,005,000,000 in 1921, an increase of 163 per cent. Indebtedness increased from $423,000,000 in 1913 to $1,012,000,000 in 1921, an increase of 139 per cent. These figures hardly require comment because they demonstrate so conclusively, it seems to me, that costs of state government are rising at a rate which at least justifies the most serious consideration.

COST STILL INCREASING.

"Along with the foregoing data regarding cost of state governments, the census bureau has furnished some figures on the increase in cost of city governments. These figures are based on the returns of the governments of 227 of the largest cities in the country. It is shown that for cities in this group revenues in 1913 amounted to $890,000,000, and in 1921 $1,567,000,000, an increase of 76 per cent. For the same group expenditures were $1,010,000,000 in 1913 and in 1921 $1,726,000,000, an increase of 71 per cent. Aggregate indebtedness of 1913 was $[illegible] and in 1921 $4,334,000,000, an increase of 49 per cent.

CLUB PROPOSES LAKE FOUNTAIN

Taking the initiative in the project to construct an electrical fountain in Lake Merritt, the Mutual Business Club, at luncheon in Hotel Oakland, yesterday appointed a ways and means committee to organize the movement. This committee is composed of Lew Galbraith, W. A. Doctor, J. J. Stegge, Arthur Wheelock and Ray Salisbury.

The club has started the movement in the hope that the community as a whole will get behind the project so that a fund will be provided to construct an electrical fountain that will add to the beauties of Lake Merritt. The Mutual Business Club takes credit for being the first organization to take up the project of building a tube under the estuary.

The club also appointed Ray Salisbury and C. A. Fleweger as a committee to cooperate with the war veteran organizations in organizing a parade for the Fourth of July.

What's Happening in the MotorWorld

by Jim Houlihan

The supervisors of Contra Costa county are not unalterably opposed to the granting of a franchise for the erection of a second bridge across Carquinez straits, according to a statement made by Chairman Buchanan of the Contra Costa board, and two companies are going ahead with plans to seek such a franchise. Additional franchises were refused by the Contra Costa supervisors last Monday, but it was made plain at that time that the action was taken without prejudice.

The Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry Company was granted a franchise four months ago to build a bridge across the straits from Morrow Cove to Valona. It opposed the granting of a second franchise, the attorney for the Ferry company saying such action would interfere with the financing of his company's bridge project.

The Dillon Point Development Company withdrew its application for a franchise and the applications of the San Francisco Transit Company and the Crockett Land and Cattle Company were denied after a hearing, but it was stated they might again be considered at a later date. Both the Transit company and the Crockett company gave notice they would continue with the plans to build a bridge. Dr. O. G. Freyermuth, president of the Transit company, announced that the legal department of his company was considering proceedings by which the company hoped to obtain within three months the legal right to build a bridge across the straits.

IS FULLY FINANCED.

Dr. Freyermuth, in a sworn statement to the supervisors, said the Transit company was fully financed to build the bridge and he pledged the company would offer no bonds or stock for public sale. The company was also prepared to connect the south bridgehead with the Franklin canyon road and the north bridgehead with the Benicia road, building a causeway across the Southampton bay marsh. His company, he said, was ready to start construction work within four months and by this he stipulated that all lands and surveys would be obtained and completed, all plans be finished in detail, all contracts awarded, all finances provided and the bridge could be completed within fifteen months.

WOULD CUT TOLL CHARGE.

Freyermuth said a bridge from Dillon Point to Eckley, the site chosen by the Transit Company's engineers, could be built for $2,000,000, or $2,500,000 less than the cost of a bridge at the Morrow Cove-Valona site, the Morrow Cove site requiring 2000 feet more of bridge construction. The bridge at the Eckley site could be operated, he said, with automobile tolls of 40 to 45 cents and tolls for trucks and stages of $1. The Morrow Cove bridge, he said, would be forced to charge automobile tolls of from $1.05 to $1.10 and $1.50 for trucks and stages. The [illegible] bridge would save $468,351 annually to the traveling public.

It was pointed out by Freyermuth that the proposed Morrow Cove bridge would have the highest tolls of any bridge in the United States. There are 72 toll bridges in the country, he said, and the highest toll now charged is 75 cents for a bridge at Nebraska City, Neb. A bridge at Havre de Grace, Md., charges 60 cents, bridges at Long Beach, N. J., and Hannibal, Mo., charge 50 cents, bridges at Brunswick, Md., and Quincy, Ill., charge 40 cents, three other bridges 35 cents, four charge 30 cents and the others have charges ranging from 25 to [illegible]

"The bridge at Morrow Cove would have the highest tolls in the United States and [illegible] injustice on the traveling public," said Dr. Freyermuth. "The bridge at Eckley would be among the higher tolls, but not excessive, and would save nearly a half million dollars annually for the autoists."

Freyermuth said the population of Contra Costa county represented only 1.56 per cent of the people of the state and he charged that the supervisors by favoring the Morrow Cove site were levying an [illegible] on the remaining 3,800,000 people of California.

"Low tolls will stimulate travel and give renewed impetus to development of the northern counties," said Freyermuth. "For these economic, as well as geographic reasons, we know the Eckley site to be the best and we will proceed to obtain the legal rights to build at that point."

FOUR HELD ON BEATING CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Four men were arrested yesterday on charges they were members of a masked group that Tuesday night took Frank Sanceri, 21 years old, from his home and into the Hollywood hills and beat him with a wire cable until he became unconscious.

The men were: T. W. Jolley, father of a girl Sanceri is accused of having assaulted; Arthur W. and S. L. Jolley, her brothers, and H. E. de Valle, an insurance agent.

They were booked on charges of attempt to commit murder and held without bail.

CITIZENSHIP IS SUBJECT.

Donald McClure, Oakland attorney, will address a meeting of Sons and Daughters of Washington tonight at their headquarters, 568 Eighteenth street. "Citizenship Through Self Culture," will be his subject.

NEW GEMS by O. HENRY

Treasure-Trove of Humor from Newly Discovered Writings

AN EASY WINNER.

After the performance of "In Old Kentucky" Friday night three old cronies went into a saloon with the inflexible determination of taking a drink. After doing so, they added an amendment in the shape of another and then tacked on an emergency clause.

When they got to feeling a little mellow they sat down at a table and commenced lying. Not maliciously, but just ordinary, friendly lying, about the things they had seen and done. They all tried their hand at relating experiences, and as the sky was clear, there was no matinee performance of the Annanias tragedy.

Finally the judge suggested the concoction of a fine, large julep—a julep that would render the use of curling irons necessary and the one who told the most improbable story should be allowed to produce the vacuum in the straws.

The major and the judge led off with a couple of marvelous narratives which were about a tie. The Colonel moistened his lips as his eye rested on the big glass filled with diamonds and amber, and crowned with fragrant mint. He commenced his story:

"The incident I am about to relate is not only wonderful, but true. It happened in this very town on Saturday afternoon. I got up rather early Saturday morning as I had a big day's work ahead of me. My wife fixed me up a rattling good cocktail when I got up and I was feeling pretty good. When I came down stairs she handed me a five dollar bill that had dropped out of my pocket and said:

"'John, you must really get a better looking housemaid. Jane is so homely, and you never did admire her. See if you can find a real nice looking one. And John, dear, you are working too hard. You must really have some recreation. Why not take Miss Muggins, your typewriter, out for a drive this afternoon. Then you might stop at the milliner's and tell them not to send up that hat I ordered, and—'"

"Hold on, Colonel," said the judge. "You just drink that mint julep right now. You needn't go any further with your story."

When George W. Hatch, president of the board of education, presents the diplomas at Technical High school Friday night, June 15, 250 students will receive their "sheepskins." Of this number, 52 wear the Gold T, the emblem awarded for highest scholarship; 34 others have earned the Silver T.

The student with the highest scholarship record will not be determined until the final marks are in for this semester. At the present time, Charles Cushing, Cotta Hillerman, Marjory Mallon, Anne Powell, Lorelei Rothberg, Mildred Ross, Elizabeth Sargent and Hildegard Waasa are candidates for that honor.

Hildegard Waasa, who is to be one of the valedictorians, has completed her course in three years, and has a brilliant scholarship record. Robert Rollins, the other valedictorian, has 17½ units to his credit, the required number being 16.

The valedictorians were chosen this term by means of tryouts. The judges wish honorable mention given to Alice Richards, Lillian Force and Charles Mynard, the other three who were eligible as class speakers.

Several students, whose work has already been recognized outside of the school, are graduating this term. Joziena Vander Ende, 'cellist, has led many high school concerts, as has Charles Cushing. The latter is well known for his work in arranging and composing pieces. [illegible] part in the graduation program. Andrew Perry, the lieutenant-colonel of Tech's R. O. T. C., sends his high school career this term.

It was decided this semester to allow the girls of the graduating class to wear crepe-de-chine dresses in pastel shades, with black shoes and stockings. The boys will wear dark suits, as usual. Bouquets will be made up of ophelia roses.

As has been the custom with past graduating classes, this term's class will presetn a gift to the school. This time it will be a handsome oak trophy case, to be presented by Gordon Huber, the class president.

FEDERAL OFFICER FACES CHARGE IN CITIZEN SCANDAL

U. S. Commissioner On Way to S. F. to Ask Indictment of Local Aide.

Raymond F. Crist, United States commissioner of immigration, is en route from Washington, D. C., to San Francisco, to seek a grand jury indictment of a prominent federal official, alleged to have conspired with F. N. Littleton, of Alameda, United States naturalization examiner, in the alleged frauds for which Littleton already is under indictment. Crist will appear before the federal grand jury Tuesday.

The name of the federal official is being withheld. New evidence in connection with the alleged frauds were uncovered a week ago by department of justice officials, and it is said, that the recent disclosures will entangle at least one man who is well known in government service on the coast. The information was telegraphed to Crist five days ago and his departure for California followed.

It was learned today that many of the permanent records in the naturalization office have disappeared. Evidence that the conspiracy began more than eight years ago and that more than 10,000 foreigners, not entitled to become citizens, secured naturalization papers in California and Nevada, will be laid before Commissioner Crist when he arrives in San Francisco Monday.

Edison Co. Gets Foundation Award

NEW YORK, June 8.—The Southern California Edison Electric company of Los Angeles last night was awarded the Charles A. Coffin Foundation's gold medal for signal achievement in the development of electric light and power during 1922, at a meeting of the public policy committee of the National Electric Light Association. The award was the first conferred by the foundation and was given the California company for its inauguration of electric transmission at 220,000 volts over a distance of 240 miles, the highest commercial voltage in the world. A check for $1000 also was presented to be applied to the employees' benefit fund of the company.

Seven research fellowships were awarded to the following men for outstanding work in electrical science: Edward Lawrence Ross, Pasadena, Calif.; Ralph A. Beebe, Monson, Mass.; George Lynn, Lawrence, Kan.; William L. Fink, Detroit; Elmer Hutchinson, Cleveland; Henry N. Beets, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Alfred L. Dixon, Champaign, Ill.

The foundation was established last December by the General Electric company in honor of Charles A. Coffin, one of the founders of the company. It has an endowment of $400,000, the income of which is used annually for various awards.

Why This Doctor Advises HOKARA

Says It Gives Instant Relief in Many Skin Troubles

It is not often that a doctor comes right out and endorses any preparation but when he does you may be sure it is something out of the ordinary. Read what Dr. Johnson, skin specialist, says about Hokara, the antiseptic, astringent, greaseless Cream:

"For over twenty-five years in my practice I have used many kinds of preparations called "skin foods" but never until I found Hokara did I see such beautiful and satisfactory results. I use it on my own patients. It cleanses the skin and makes it soft and fresh looking, producing firmness and giving power to the tissues. All those to whom I have recommended it are delighted with its use."

If you suffer with skin trouble so that the itching seems almost unbearable and the skin is so broken out that you are sensitive about your appearance, don't think it necessary to use some greasy vile smelling ointment or salve. Just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Hokara. It is sold on a positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back.—Advertisement.

TIRED, TENDER FEET—

JUST take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead — all tired out — just try "TIZ." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisons and acids which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

FENCING EXPERTS MEET IN LONDON NEXT MONTH

New Regulations for International Contests Have Been Accepted.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(By The Associated Press.)—New regulations and conditions for the international fencing matches in London, July 20, 2- and 23, between British and American teams for the Robert M. Thompson trophy, land down by the Amateur Fencers' association of Great Britain, have been accepted by the American Fencers' organization. The new conditions were made, the British association announced, in an effort to prevent a recurrence of the unsatisfactory outcome of the 1921 international matches held in this country and won by the United States.

In 1921 America won the foils match, and the epee match went to the English swordsmen. The saber match was a tie in bouts, but the British team scored the greatest aggregate number of touches. America, however, w awarded the trophy on bouts under the rules. The American rule permitting frequent substitutions also did not meet with the approval of the British team.

This year the foils and saber bouts will be decided by the greatest number of hits in nine, and the epee by one touch. Each team will consist of six swordsmen, four of whom fence. Substitutions will be allowed only in cases of accident or illness. The decision will be by matches instead of by bouts, as in 1921. In case of a tie in matches the decision will be by bouts, and in event of a tie in bouts, by touches.

BAY SCENERY IS NOT ADMIRED

"Hello, Jack! Why the cheery whistle? You seem to be gay as a lark this morning. Wish I felt the same way. With all those reports to get out, my disposition is 'way below par."

"Well, old man, you didn't see what I saw coming over on the boat this morning. Oh, boy! what a vision."

"Yes, I know—the scenery on the bay is wonderful these days. But it would take more than scenery to make me tackle those reports with joy."

"Scenery, nothing! I'm talking about a girl—a vision, I'm telling you. Blue eyes—some sort of blue dress and hat to match. Never in my life was I hit so hard."

"Well, that's tough, old man. Probably you'll never see her again. Why don't you console yourself with the thought that maybe her voice is something terrible? Enough to drive a man wild, probably."

"Oh, but I heard her voice—it's charming. She was with that Smith girl that I never could stand. I'd have gone over to speak to her on the chance of an introduction, anyway, if I wasn't ashamed of my appearance."

"Well, if your friend knows her, you can get acquainted with the beauty easy enough. But what was wrong with your appearance?"

"Oh, say, now—run over to Cherry's at 528 13th street and buy one on credit. Jazz models—just the thing to go courting in. Six months to pay at Cherry's. Then tell your friend about the Ladies' Store at 515 13th street."—Advertisement.

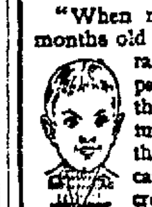
ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advertisement.

Cuticura Heals Rash Over Baby's Face And Body



"When my little girl was nine months old she broke out with a bad rash over her face and part of her body. At first the rash was red, but later turned to white blisters that itched and burned, causing my baby to be cross and fretful. It got worse and she could not sleep on account of the irritation.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and when I had used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment she was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. C. R. Dusenberry, Motor R. A., Box 30, Fowler, Colo.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health, often when all else fails.

'APE MAN' SEIZES GIRL NEAR HOME

Ushers Chosen By New Method For Fox House

Adopting an entirely new system of selecting girls for employment as pages and ushers in the new Fox Oakland theater an unusual test was held at the theater this morning between 10 o'clock and noon at which both pulchritude and personality will be sought among applicants for these positions.

For the purpose of selecting applicants that meet with the varied requirements a committee composed of Managing Director S. Barret McCormick, Art Director Frank J. Zimmerman, Hugh Brackenridge, artist and designer of costumes and a psychology expert will interview applicants.

While personal beauty is one of the chief requisites, personality, poise and judgment are to be considered of equal importance for this exacting type of work. According to McCormick it is vitally important that girls of a courteous type who possess the proper personality be selected for these positions.

In making the selections Zimmerer and Brackenridge will judge applicants from the standpoint of personal beauty, the psychologist will consider them from the angle of aptitude for their work, and McCormick will judge their abilities. Special costumes of an unusual design have been created by Brackenridge for the use of ushers and girls of about five feet to five feet five inches in height and whose weight is approximately 100 to 115 pounds are required.

TEACHER PUT ON TRIAL AFTER SERVING 50 YRS.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Miss Mary H. Smith, 68, for 50 years a teacher in the public schools, who was suspended nine months ago as principal of Peabody school, was on trial yesterday before the board of education on charges of inefficiency. 'ISLAND OF OZ' OFFERED CITY FOR JULY 4TH

Labor Temple Tenders Use of Pageant Arrangements for Big Celebration.

The Isalnd of Oz, which the Labor Temple Association of Oakland is to construct in Lake Merritt in connection with their big show and pageant, was yesterday tendered to the Mayor's Fourth of July committee as the site for the official Fourth of July exercises. It is the plan of the Labor Temple Association to stage all of its acts and attractions on the isiaand, which will be located approximately 100 feet from the new Harrison boulevard and will face a grandstand built to accommodate 5000 people.

"We are very glad to extend to you the use of our island and our grandstand," explained State Senator Hurley, in making the offer. "The island will be particularly attractive from a scenic standpoint and we believe it will add materially to the impressiveness of the program which the mayor's committee has arranged."

In addition to tendering the use of the island and grandstand, the Labor Temple Association has placed at the disposal of the Fourth of July committee its entire technical staff of artists, stage mechanics, electricians and experts for the purpose of assisting the mayor's committee in working out the details of the program.

The association will also have a complete division in the parade representing the performers in its big show.

The scenario for the pageant, which will be staged on the island, calls for the services of 500 people, including a ballet of diving girls. These girls are worked in and out of the story as nymphs. Among the members of the ballet are Vivian Dolores, Violet Gray and Ethel Mercedes.

CLUB TO GIVE FANTASY.

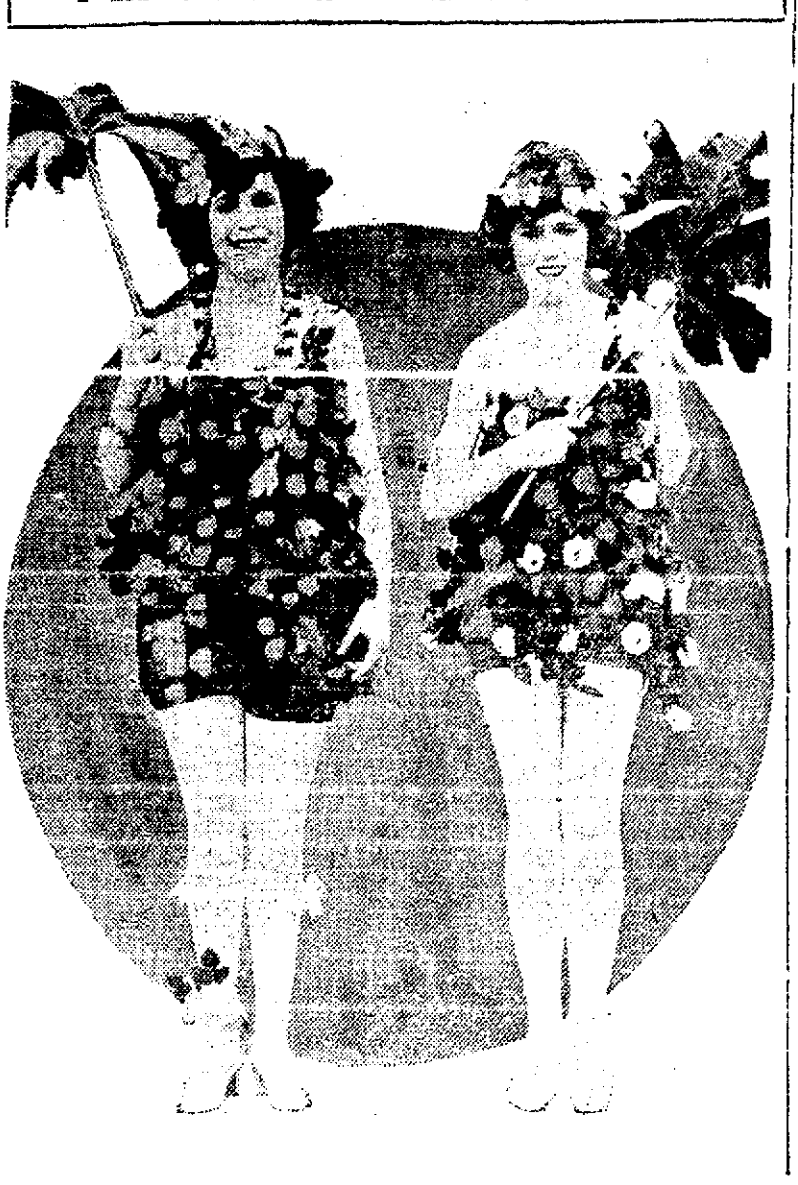
An Adamless Eden in Oz



In the Island of Oz, as depicted in the pageant of the Labor Temple Association, the maidens are attired in true paradise fashion, poison ivy, banana leaves, and whatnots. Two of the Adamless Eves, of the fantastic land, are shown here. They are VIVIAN DOLORES and VIOLET GRAY of the diving ballet.

RICHMOND, June 8.—George O. Meese, county tax assessor, and chairman of the Elks' picnic committee, announced yesterday that everything is in readiness for the annual gathering of the lodge in Ramona Park on next Sunday.

BUSINESS WOMEN HOLD EXHIBIT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Plumbing supplies, piston rings, asbestos mats and floss mattresses crowded complexion creams, hats, jams and costumes at the Industrial Exhibit in the Palace Hotel yesterday, when 33 women of the city demonstrated their businesses as a feature of "California Women in Industry" luncheon given by the California Development association.

Sixty-one thousand women are engaged in industry in San Francisco, according to Miss Margaret Mary Morgan, county supervisor, who acted as chairman of the day. The displays were largely from the fields of business considered uncongenial to women. Mrs. L. F. Chalmers represented a large wholesale grocery firm. Miss L. B. Carpenter presented a collection of piston rings for which she is agent. Miss Eugenia Hoey represented the mattress manufacturer. Miss Grace Perego showed a miniature skyscraper, model of one built under her direction. Miss Ethel Lean offered samples of building materials put out under her supervision. Miss Marie Martin contributed abestos table mats. The usual feminine industries were well represented.

Women of California will unite this fall in a drive to be known as the Million Letter Campaign, according to the announcement of Mrs. D. E. F. Easton. Its purpose will be to advertise the community in which the sender lives. More than 100,000 women will be recruited to manage the drive.

"Women as Builders of Business" was the subject discussed by Miss Lillian Palmer, the principal luncheon speaker. She gave tribute to the "silent, efficient, loyal and usually underpaid secretary when a woman, to whom the successful business man owes achievement."

Picturing Oakland as "The Goal of the Ages," the local motion picture, which was filmed under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce for municipal advertising purposes, was given its first presentation today at the Century theater. The audience consisted of members of the chamber and of the Oakland Real Estate Board, together with scores of other men and women residents.

The scenario is based upon the idea that Oakland represents the goal toward which humanity has been striving for hundreds of years, in its continuous westward march first across Asia, then Europe, then across the American continent.

"I want you to know, if you do not know it already, that in the first five months of 1923 we have been telling the world about Oakland as it has never been told before," he said. "In these five months we have spent nearly $20,000 in selling Oakland to prospective settlers, industrial, commercitl, residential.

"When the first six months of 1923 expire, we shall furnish you," he said, addressing the hundreds of chamber of commerce men in the audience, "with an itemized statement of our sources of income, wherein our subscribers will be arranged by their business classifications and the amount of each subscription set forth. Under the same classification we shall publish our list of prospects, which will include those concerns which ought to belong to the chamber of commerce but for whose persuasion in that regard we need your help."

Five Battleships and Destroyers to Remain

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Because of the requests of other ports for battleships or destroyers to help them celebrate the Fourth of July, only five battleships and two destroyer divisions will be available on that date for the festivities in the San Francisco bay cities. The remainder of the Pacific fleet now concentrated in this harbor will be scattered along the entire Pacific coast, according to insructions of Admiral E. W. Eberle.

The vessels assigned to the local waters are the U. S. S. California, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, U. S. S. Mississippi, U. S. S. Nevada, U. S. S. Altair, and the destroyer divisions 34 and 36. Five battleships are assigned to Seattle, and one battleship and all available vessels of destroyer division 33 to Tacoma. Port Angeles, Port Townsend and Everett, Wash., are given one vessel each, while Marshfield, Coos Bay, Ore., is given four destroyers.

WILL VISIT PACIFIC CITY.

The next event planned for the entertainment of the sailors of the fleet during heir visit in San Francisco bay is a trip to Pacific City on Sunday. Ten street cars will convey the bluejackets from the Ferry building to the amusement center, where there will be a bathing girl revue and other entertainment. The Chamber of Commerce and the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce are helping to arrange the progra.

Admiral R. E. Coontz, who is to succeed Admiral Hilary P. Jones as commander-in-chief of the United States fleets on July 1, plans to divide his time between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, it was announced at naval headquarters yesterday. He will remain on the Pacific coast until November 1, when he will return to the eastern seaboard.

ASSIGNED TO COMMANDS.

Rear Admiral George W. Williams, chief of staff of Admiral Jones, has been assigned as commandant of the sixth naval district and the Charleston navy yards. Rear Admiral Ashley H. Robertson, assistant chief of naval operations, has been transferred to the 16th naval district at San Diego.

Visitors will not be permited aboard the war vessels stationed in the harbor today nor will many of the sailors be given liberty, because the day will be spent cleaning up the fleet in anticipation of the inspection by citizens tomorrow afternoon and Sunday. General visitors are permitted to visit the battleships on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, while those wishing to visit particular members of the commissioned or enlisted personnel are allowed on board on other afternoons.

'ISLAND OF OZ' OFFERED CITY FOR JULY 4TH

Labor Temple Tenders Use of Pageant Arrangements for Big Celebration.

The Isalnd of Oz, which the Labor Temple Association of Oakland is to construct in Lake Merritt in connection with their big show and pageant, was yesterday tendered to the Mayor's Fourth of July committee as the site for the official Fourth of July exercises. It is the plan of the Labor Temple Association to stage all of its acts and attractions on the islaand, which will be located approximately 100 feet from the new Harrison boulevard and will face a grandstand built to accommodate 5000 people.

"We are very glad to extend to you the use of our island and our grandstand," explained State Senator Hurley, in making the offer. "The island will be particularly attractive from a scenic standpoint and we believe it will add materially to the impressiveness of the program which the mayor's committee has arranged."

In addition to tendering the use of the island and grandstand, the Labor Temple Association has placed at the disposal of the Fourth of July committee its entire technical staff of artists, stage mechanics, electricians and experts for the purpose of assisting the mayor's committee in working out the details of the program.

The association will also have a complete division in the parade representing the performers in its big show.

The scenario for the pageant, which will be staged on the island, calls for the services of 500 people, including a ballet of diving girls. These girls are worked in and out of the story as nymphs. Among the members of the ballet are Vivian Dolores, Violet Gray and Ethel Mercedes.

CLUB TO GIVE FANTASY.

The fantasy, "A Garden Cinderella," will be presented Saturday night at 8 o'clock under the direction of Miss Alice Zwillinger at the Home Club. Principals in the cast are: Lisle and Verna Anderson, Margie Bennett, Dorothy Crum, Mary Jane Wagner, Emily and Gertrude Smith and Ruth Engledow.

An Adamless Eden in Oz

In the Island of Oz, as depicted in the pageant of the Labor Temple Association, the maidens are attired in true paradise fashion, poison ivy, banana leaves, and whatnots. Two of the Adamless Eves, of the fantastic land, are shown here. They are VIVIAN DOLORES and VIOLET GRAY of the diving ballet.

All In Readiness For Elks' Picnic

RICHMOND, June 8.—George G. Meese, county tax assessor, and chairman of the Elks' picnic committee, announced yesterday that everything is in readiness for the annual gathering of the lodge in Ramona Park on next Sunday.

BUSINESS WOMEN HOLD EXHIBIT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Plumbing supplies, piston rings, asbestos mats and floss mattresses crowded complexion creams, hats, jams and costumes at the Industrial Exhibit in the Palace Hotel yesterday, when 35 women of the city demonstrated their businesses as a feature of "California Women in Industry" luncheon given by the California Development association.

Sixty-one thousand women are engaged in industry in San Francisco, according to Miss Margaret Mary Morgan, county supervisor, who acted as chairman of the day. The displays were largely from the fields of business considered uncongenial to women. Mrs. L. F. Chalmers represented a large wholesale grocery firm. Miss L. B. Carpenter presented a collection of piston rings for which she is agent. Miss Eugenia Hoey represented the mattress manufacturer. Miss Grace Perego showed a miniature skyscraper, model of one built under her direction. Miss Ethel Lean offered samples of building materials put out under her supervision. Miss Marie Martin contributed abestos table mats. The usual feminine industries were well represented.

Women of California will unite this fall in a drive to be known as the Million Letter Campaign, according to the announcement of Mrs. D. L. F. Easton. Its purpose will be to advertise the community in which the sender lives. More than 100,000 women will be recruited to manage the drive.

"Women as Builders of Business" was the subject discussed by Miss Lillian Palmer, the principal luncheon speaker. She gave tribute to the "silent, efficient, loyal and usually underpaid secretary when a woman, to whom the successful business man owes achievement."

Refiners Win Game From All Standards

RICHMOND, June 8.—The Refiners romped all around the First street pasture yesterday afternoon and took the game from the All Standards by a score that made William Jennings Bryan famous in 1896. It was "16 to 1." "Lefty" Cothran had allowed three hits. The Refiners got ten hits off Kersten, Downer and Mann, three of them being home runs by Schulte, Roberts and Autrey.

Picturing Oakland as "The Goal of the Ages," the local motion picture which was filmed under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce for municipal advertising purposes was given its first presentation today at the Century theater. The audience consisted of members of the chamber and of the Oakland Real Estate Board, together with scores of other men and women residents.

The scenario is based upon the idea that Oakland represents the goal toward which humanity has been striving for hundreds of years, in its continuous westward march first across Asia, then Europe, then across the American continent.

"I want you to know, if you do not know it already, that in the first five months of 1923 we have been telling the world about Oakland as it has never been told before," he said. "In these five months we have spent nearly $[illegible]0,000 in selling Oakland to prospective settlers [illegible] commercial [illegible] residential.

"When the first six months of 1923 expire we shall furnish you," he said, addressing the hundreds of chamber of commerce men in the audience, "with an itemized statement of our sources of income wherein our subscribers will be arranged by the business classifications and the amount of each subscription set forth. Under the same classification we shall publish our list of prospects which will include those concerns which ought to belong to the chamber of commerce but for whose persuasion in that regard we need your help."

Five Battleships and Destroyers to Remain

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Because of the requests of other ports for battleships or destroyers to help them celebrate the Fourth of July, only five battleships and two destroyer divisions will be available on that date for the festivities in the San Francisco bay cities. The remainder of the Pacific fleet now concentrated in this harbor will be scattered along the entire Pacific coast according to instructions of Admiral E. W. Eberle.

The vessels assigned to the local waters are the U. S. S. California, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, U. S. S. Mississippi, U. S. S. Nevada, U. S. S. Altair and the destroyer divisions 34 and 26. Five battleships are assigned to Seattle and one battleship and all available vessels of destroyer division 33 to Tacoma, Port Angeles, Port Townsend and Everett, Wash., are given one vessel each, while Marshfield, Coos Bay, Ore., is given four destroyers.

WILL VISIT PACIFIC CITY.

The next event planned for the entertainment of the sailors of the fleet during their visit in San Francisco bay is a trip to Pacific City on Sunday. Ten street cars will convey the bluejackets from the Ferry building to the amusement center where there will be a bathing girl revue and other entertainment. The Chamber of Commerce and the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce are helping to arrange the program.

Admiral R. E. Coontz, who is to succeed Admiral Hilary P. Jones as commander-in-chief of the United States fleets on July 1, plans to divide his time between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, it was announced at naval headquarters yesterday. He will remain on the Pacific coast until November 1, when he will return to the eastern seaboard.

ASSIGNED TO COMMANDS.

Climate--Unusual

Two words typical of California, so Easterners say.

The past few weeks have shown us that the "Climate" has been very "Unusual"—Also, it has shown us that we must be prepared to have heat quickly—

JUST PRESS THE BUTTON— FLOOD YOUR HOME WITH PURE WARM HEATED AIR.

Gleewood Gas Furnace

The Gleewood is always ready to flood your home with pure fresh heated air. This air never comes in contact with the gas—this eliminates all chances of gas fumes in the home.

Compare the conveniences offered by the Gleewood Gas Furnace with other furnaces that use hard substance fuel.

No shoveling heavy and dirty coal—
No carrying out ashes—
No fussing with sticky oil burners—
No dirt or grease—
No dust sifting up through the registers.

HEAT YOUR HOME NOW— DIVIDING THE COST IN MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

There are many days during the summer months that heat is very desirable and you will appreciate the Gleewood more by the time the real cold weather starts.

"71% of all the automobiles manufactured today sell for $1,000 or less. Only 6% sell for $2,000 or more." —From W. S. Cousins.

LARGE production is the first essential to the earning of large profits in the manufacturing industry. Large production and low price go hand in hand.

In the Automobile industry especially, large profits have invariably been returned to the stockholders of companies manufacturing low and medium priced cars.

Statistics show that there are in use today, aside from all Fords, 4,265,000 cars which sold for $2,000 or less, against 235,000 which sold for more than $3,500.

THE STEAM CAR ENTERS THE FIELD

With the STEAM automobile the story will be the same. Steam cars manufactured to sell in the $1,000 class will find ready sale and manfacture will climb to large proportions. This means big profits for stockholders.

COATS master STEAMER is the pioneer in the $1,000 class—the touring model listing at $1,085 at the factory.

GIRL OF ALAMEDA IS HONOR PUPIL FOR GRADUATION

Miss Barbara Eubanks Will Be First Essayist on Night of June 14.

ALAMEDA, June 8.—Miss Barbara Eubanks, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Eubanks, 1107 Oak street, has been accorded the honor student of the June graduating class of the Alameda high school according to an announcement of Dr. George Thompson, principal. This rating will give her the distinction of being first essayist at the graduating exercises of the class to be held in the auditorium of the Porter school, Thursday night, June 14.

During her high school course Miss Eubanks has been active in many school affairs. She participated in dramatic and dancing productions, served on committees connected with student activities and is a member of the Scroll and Key honor society of the institution.

Recently she was given honorable mention in the state Shakespearean contest which was held in the University of California. Miss Eubanks recited the Ophelia "mad scene" from "Hamlet."

At the opening of the fall school term the young student plans to enter Stanford university.

Spouse Put Father Out, Charges Wife

Charging that on one occasion when her husband came home intoxicated he seized her father and threw him out of their home, Mrs. Gwendolyn M. Carr yesterday was granted a divorce from Andrew C. Carr, cattleman and wholesale butcher of Livermore.

Mrs. Carr was granted custody of a minor child, $100 a month alimony and community property valued at $10,000. The couple married September 21, 1914, and separated December 24, 1921.

Wife Wins Divorce On Desertion Charge

Olga Faight today has a decree of divorce from Edward C. Faight, Oakland butcher who, she told Superior Judge Dudley Kinsell, deserted her in September, 1920.

Faight sued his wife, alleging desertion early in the year 1920. Mrs. Faight replied with a cross complaint in which she alleged desertion, placing the date much later in that year. She was granted custody of a minor son.

The couple were married December 30, 1909.

'Master of Romance' Divorced By Wife

Although when she filed her divorce suit against William A. Nichelini, Mrs. Doris M. Nichelini charged him with deserting her after two months of married life and going to live in an apartment with another woman, when the case came to trial yesterday this allegation was dropped and Mrs. Nichelini contented herself with testifying to acts of cruelty. Her testimony was sufficient to win a divorce, the decree being granted by Superior Judge J. S. Koford.

In her complaint Mrs. Nichelini described her husband's actions in leaving her as "taking up the duties of master in a new romance."

No explanation was given by attorneys in the case as to why the infidelity charges were withdrawn

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Iverson Smart of Parker street, Berkeley, was the setting for a charming wedding ceremony Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Clarabelle Smart became the bride of Leslie Barton Foster of Berkeley. The rooms were filled with pink and white sweet peas. The ceremony was read by Rev. By EDNA B. KINARD.

Princess Santa Borghese, Ph.D., eldest daughter of the Sciapione, head of the famous Roman family, is announced as a speaker before the American College Club in the concert hall of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Monday afternoon, June 18. "Italy's Social and Economic Life in 1923" will be the subject for her address. Following the lecture, Princess Borghese will be complimented at an informal reception presided over by officers of the club.

The brilliant Italian woman who will be a mid-summer visitor to California, received her education principally in her native land. She won her baccalaureate in the public classical school in Rome. When she was 18 she entered Oxford and for two years specialized in English literature in Lady Margaret's Hall. Later she obtained her degree diploma from the University of Rome, entitling her to teach English in Italian high schools. Her degree of Philosophy she took in the ancient University of Bologna. BOARD FAVORS HIGHER WAGES FOR TEACHERS

Steps Are Taken to Insure Salaries for Full 200-Day Term.

The board of education, at its monthly meeting last night, by resolution reaffirmed its policy of a professional wage for school teachers, stood for a uniform increase in salaries when increases come and took steps toward setting aside a sufficient sum to insure salaries for the full 200-day school term

Several ideas for unifying salary-standards in various departments were taken at the suggestion of the superintendent of schools They were

1—That all junior high school certified teachers, for the ninth grade and above, shall be rated with the salaries of high school teachers

"This seems to be a burden," said Superintendent Fred M Hunter, "especially with the opening of new junior high schools, but it will be economical ultimately because the cost of automatic increases in teachers salaries will have to be provided in the budget anyhow There is no other way to unify the salaries of junior high school teachers"

2—That the head of the physical education department in each high school shall receive the maximum salary for that rank Teachers assisting in this work regularly, after school hours, shall be compensated by $300 per annum.

LOSING TEACHERS.

"The work has been a burden on Teachers," said Hunter, "and we have been losing instructors in physical education because of the present Oakland wage system."

3—That the maximum salary for teachers in evening high schools shall be $2600 per annum

4—That the assistant superintendent of attendance shall receive $1800 per annum

5—That the position of supervisor of [illegible] Technical High school be abbolished. The position is now held by George Thilor

Resolution dismissing substitute teachers at the end of the present school year was adopted and a list of high school text-books for the coming high school year selected Superintendent Hunter said there is no objectionable propaganda" in any of the histories chosen

BOARD'S RESOLUTION.

The resolution voted by the board at the suggestion of the superintendent's council concerning the professional wage for teachers was as follows

"1 That as a salary committee we reaffirm our policy of a professional wage for a professional service

"2. That in case of an increase in salary, we stand for a uniform increase applying alike to all groups and classes of teachers principals and supervisors

"3 That the Oakland Teachers' Association request the Board of Education to set aside each year sufficient funds to guarantee the payment of teachers salaries for the full year of two hundred days"

Little Church Pastor Gives Marital Views

By JACK CARBERRY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 7.—June—the bride's own month—held promise today of breaking all records for number of weddings in the history of New York

Dr Randolph Ray, new, handsome, youthful pastor of the historic marrying church'—the Little Church Around the Corner—is authority for the statement

'First—Be sure love exists," Dr Ray said 'Mere physical attraction, or mental attraction alone is not sufficient Real love requires a combination of both.

'Second—Remember love is a partnership and marriage is a democracy The husband is no longer 'king of the home'

'Third—Have a financial understanding, keeping a joint checking account The old custom of putting the wife on an allowance is just another way of saying she is on the salary list

"Fourth—Be prepared to sacrifice Marriage means giving up of much.

'Marriage has withstood all the attacks of the experimentalists Marriage is about as popular today as ever in history"

The Little Church Around the Corner has adopted a new policy Under Dr Ray there will be no secret marriages Run-aways cannot find sanctuary there.

U. S. RELIEF FOR NEAR EAST RATED AID FOR TRADING

Balkans Still "Tinder Box of Europe," Declares Pasadenan

The relief work in the Near East is the greatest factor in paving the way for friendly relations between this country and the Balkan states and for opening world markets for American products.

This was the message delivered to the Rotary Club in Hotel Oakland yesterday by Guy Talbot of Pasadena, Near East relief worker, who depicted the conditions of famine and pestilence prevalent in Turkey, Greece, Silicia, Messopotamia and the Balkan states.

"The success of the Lausanne conference depends upon an amicable settlement of the Mosul oil fields problem, the Baku oil fields and other oil and mineral exploitations," declared Talbot. "If an agreement on these problems fails there is grave fear of a war greater than the last world conflict.

WARNING SOUNDED.

"Jugo-Slavia, Roumania, Bulgaria and Turkey have come back due to settlements since the last war but the old hates, antipathies and religious prejudices remain and it will take but a small firebrand to set aflame another world-wide conflagration. The Balkans are the tinder box of Europe."

"The present war in Turkey," continued Talbot, "has as its slogan 'Pan-Islamism' with its object the union of all Mohamedans against the Christian infidels, namely Europe. Turkey has already nearly brought Europe to its knees. We are a long way from there but the conflagration, once started, may reach us."

Talbot then went on to describe the conditions prevailing in those countries with 100,000 Christian girls sold into slavery, the 75,000 humans killed in the Smyrna massacre and the millions who are dieing from want. He described seeing the whitening bones of the murdered and those who died of starvation strewn over the lands at the foot of Mt. Ararat.

RELIEF DESCRIBED.

[illegible] lief work being done by American agencies.

"The United States means Heaven to those people," Talbot declared. "Not that they desire to come here but they look to us to point the way out of darkness. Their gratitude for our relief work is beyond conjecture. In Alexandropole I saw hundreds of children in parade each carrying a home made American flag, with a company of Boy Scouts at their head."

Paper Money May Raise Above Gold

STOCKHOLM, June 8.—(By The Associated Press)—When the dollar began to rise in London recently the Swedish State Bank continued to sell dollars in order to keep the Swedish crown on par with the American currency, but the dollar went up to 3.755 from 3.74. The State Bank at the beginning of this year had a portfolio of foreign currency amounting to 160,000,000 crowns but this has now been reduced to 62,000,000.

According to the experts the bank would be in a position if parliament rejects the proposal for a further postponement of a return to a gold footing, of raising its paper crown higher in value than the corresponding number of crowns in gold.

"Grand to Have Your Health" says Mrs. Jenny Evans of Detroit, Mich. Few of us appreciate our health until we lose it. Mrs. Evans worked in a factory but owing to a weakness, and pains in her back she was forced to give up work. She says: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me well. It is grand to have your health, to feel well all the time and to go around like other women without that awful torture of female troubles." Women who are suffering from such troubles should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the tried and true medicine now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for female ills.—Advertisement.

Where One Is Safe, Four Others Pay
Bleeding gums—the telltale sign

Tender, bleeding gums should not be neglected. They mean that Pyorrhea is on its way. Surely, you can't afford to take chances when four persons out of every five past forty, and thousands younger, contract it.

The best preventive is Forhan's For the Gums. If used consistently and used in time, it will check Pyorrhea's progress, keep the teeth white and clean, and the gums firm and healthy.

FALL SPECTACLE DIRECTORS NAMED DONS OF PERALTA

The name—Dons of Peralta—is singularly fitting for Oakland's festival committee, as Oakland and Alameda county are inseparably linked with the Peraltas.

Don Luis Mario Peralta, born in the Presidio in San Francisco, about the time the patriots of New England were fighting against English rule, had the distinction of being the only Spanish grandee to receive a California land grant from the hands of the Spanish king.

One of the sons settled in Temescal, which was really the original site of Oakland. The Peralta grant extended from what is now Fifty-sixth street down to the estuary, embracing Lake Merritt and swung south and east below the furthermost boundaries of what is now San Leandro.

Peralta herds for half a century grazed on the present site of Oakland, Piedmont, Fruitvale, Melrose, Elmhurst, San Leandro and the Peraltas were monarchs over this vast tract.

Descendants of that noble Spanish family still live and it is the plan of the order of the Dons of Peralta, directors of Oakland's fall festival, to bring these descendants together each September during the festival week.

On the death of Don Luis Mario Peralta, the Rancho del Alameda was divided among his four sons.

Miss Evelyn Shermantine delved into the history of Alameda county and found the name Peralta so closely associated with Oakland and the county that she made it her first choice of a name for the festival committee.

Her second choice was Braves of Temescal, after the Indians of that picturesque name who ruled and lived in Oakland, prior to the coming of the Spanish conquistatores.

Up until last night neither of the winners of the title contest had met nor knew of the other.

Miss Carr sent in her suggestion early in May. Subsequently she became the bride of I. H. Spiro, president of the Merchants' Exchange and head of the Pioneer Soda Works.

ANDRE CHARLOT, one of the most distinguished producers of revues in Europe, arrived in New York this week for a two weeks' conference with the Selwyns who will next season present his London Revue of 1924.

The introduction of the Charlot Revue will afford the theater-goers of New York something in the way of novelty as it is totally unlike anything ever presented in this country.

Americans have been accustomed to the lavish scenic investiture of the Follies type of revues but for ten years Charlot has been showing in London a revue in which the spectacular has played but a small part. Simplicity is the keynote of his productions.

> ### TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Although now a British citizen, Charlot is French by birth. He was born in Paris in 1882 and educated there. He became associated with the theater in his early twenties as a press representative and later became business manager and then manager of such well known playhouses as the Chatelet, the Palais-Royal, Femina, Follies-Bergere, Ambassadeurs and Alcazar.

At thirty Charlot went to London to become associate manager of the Alhambra in Leicester Square and eventually became managing director of that famous establishment. He remained there for three years producing the Charlot Revues and then took them to the Vaudeville theater where they have been the order of the day ever since.

When the Selwyns present his revue here it will be with Gertrude Lawrence and Beatrice Lillie heading the British company. They have been identified with Charlot's offerings for the last six or seven years.

> ### Selwyns Plan Busy Season For Cowl

While on the subject of the Selwyns it would not be out of place to announce the rather pretentious plans they have made in conjunction with Adolph Klauber for Jane Cowl, who is still dying faithfully as Juliet at the Henry Miller theater, having scored the triumph of her career in the Shakespearean role after Ethel Barrymore failed in the part.

In another two weeks Miss Cowl will close her engagement in New [illegible] more than 150 consecutive times. She will take a four weeks' vacation and then come to the coast for a series of special appearances in "Romeo and Juliet." San Francisco, Oakland and the Greek theater in Berkeley are included in the brief tour.

After this engagement Miss Cowl [illegible] for the presentation in the fall of "Antony and Cleopatra." Preliminary work on this production has already started. Immediately this is formally launched she will prepare for a brief season in "Twelfth Night" or one of the other Shakespearean comedies.

During her New York appearance next season she will also be presented in a series of modern plays at special matinees. In a [illegible] she will be about the busiest actress on Broadway.

> ### EXITS AND ENTRANCES

Affiliation with the British and Australian Actors' association to prevent importation of talent in event of an actors' strike will be attempted by the members of the Actors' Equity association, according to announcement made this week. John Emerson, president of Equity, said that the society would not abandon its equity (closed) shop policy.

At the meeting at which this action was decided upon, Ethel Barrymore and Grant Mitchell were elected vice-presidents; Grant Stewart, recording secretary, and Frank Miller, treasurer.

Ivan Miller, who was juvenile at old Ye Liberty, but who has since grown up and become a leading man, goes into the Majestic in Los Angeles replacing Holbrook Blinn whose season is completed. Miller opens in "The Man of Action." He has been under the Wilkes' management for some time.

Eleanor Duse began a series of six matinee performances in London yesterday. Her first offering was "Ghosts," with "The Lady of the Sea" to follow. She has not appeared in England since 1906.

Prior to starting on his Canadian tour, Bransby Williams will try a difficult feat. He will appear in "David Copperfield" playing Peggotty and Mrs. Micawber.

"Officer 666" is being done in French in New York by the Silvernail Players, who hope to take it to the Femina theater in Paris next season.

Comes now Josephine Turck Baker, accredited author of "The Apache," to deny vociferously that she is the author. She writes the New York Times averring that someone tampered with her play which was very good and made it into "The Apache" which, to say the least, is not so good.

7 HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS; CAR HITS 2 WOMEN

Seven persons were injured in automobile accidents in Oakland last night.

Mrs. Annie Dunn, 4432 Calavaras avenue, was run down and seriously injured while standing with a party of friends and her husband at Eighty-sixth avenue and East Fourteenth street, by an automobile containing three youths said by witnesses to be under the influence of liquor. The driver of the machine did not stop, but drove away with increased speed. According to members of the party who were with Mrs. Dunn, the motorist turned out his tail light as soon as he struck the woman to prevent witnesses from getting his license number. Mrs. Dunn is suffering from a broken hand, possible internal injuries, and cuts and bruises.

The same automobilist ran down and injured Ethel Chisom, just a few seconds after striking Mrs. Dunn. Miss Chisom, 1332 Eighty-seventh avenue, was crossing the street at the same corner where Mrs. Dunn was hit, when she was struck by the car. Her condition is said to be serious.

Joseph Blanino, 21 Middle street, San Francisco, driving an automobile, was badly cut and bruised last night when at Forty-fifth and Webster streets he collided with a machine driven by H. E. Cary, 573 Shafter street, Berkeley. Cary is chauffeur for Mrs. J. J. Tyson, 150 Central avenue, Alameda.

Thomas and Yukite Kilashala, 253 Eighth street, received cuts and bruises when the automobile driven by their father last night collided with another machine at Eighth and Fallon streets.

R. B. Farrar, a real estate dealer, 458 Fairmont street, and Mrs. Margaret Singen, 665 Thirty-eighth street, suffered minor injuries when they were struck by an automobile last night. Farrar and Mrs. Singen were about to enter an automobile on Broadway between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets when they were struck by a passing automobile. Farrar received a contusion on the right leg, and Mrs. Singen received bruises and lacerations on the arms and shoulder. Farrar drove his own automobile to the Emergency hospital, where he and Mrs. Singen were given treatment. The [illegible] of the automobile which struck them was [illegible] the police.

Soft Drink Licenses Revoked By Council

The licenses revoked were: Michael O'Connell, 469 Tenth; Mrs. K. Bubler, 727 Washington; F. Burnett, 608 Washington, and J. Franchini, 220 Broadway.

'OH, OAKLAND!' IS WITTY, COLORFUL EXTRAVAGANZA

Spectacle Augurs Well for Success of Big Festival Planned for Fall.

By WOOD SOANES.

"Oh, Oakland" lived the life of a butterfly at the Auditorium Theater last night.

The extravaganza, written and produced to serve as an introduction to Oakland's Fall Festival, emerged from the cocoon in the usual grubby fashion, found its strength in the second phase and then darted to a triumphant and colorful end.

Like the butterfly, however, its span of life was all too short. It seems a pity that so much worthy effort should be expended on an offering to be viewed for one night only, and yet it would have been more a pity to have missed it.

To George Cummings, delegated by the Oakland Advertising Club to prepare this substitute for his Ad Masque, goes the honor of doing his work in a masterful manner—of visioning an adequate offering and of producing it with a hundred or more amateurs who were nearly as competent as professionals would have been on a first night.

RECEIVED WITH ACCLAIM.

There was little to find fault with in "Oh, Oakland" and last night's audience came prepared to enjoy itself and, if applause can be taken as a barometer, did so to the fullest. The work of the actors was received with acclaim and they in turn responded with an excellent ensemble performance.

And there were individual triumphs aplenty. Of those individuals who covered themselves with glory the most notable was Fred Blanchard, who has appeared in amateur productions before and who was entrusted with the principal comedy role of Saunders, the chauffeur-butler-bootlegger-mummy-king of the Landis household, in which the majority of the events of "Oh, Oakland" take place.

Blanchard proved a hokum comedian of no little ability and showed his versatility by scoring both with the spoken lines, his own interpretation of farcical scenes and his song numbers. Perhaps the most successful of these was "Tell It to the Ducks," a topical number with lyrics dealing with purely local situations. Travesty of a gentle sort was introduced in this number and the singer scored soundly and was forced to an encore. His "Women" number was also productive of mirth and applause.

HAROLD SWEETSER SHINES.

Blanchard was not the only shining light in the production, however. There was the work of Harold H. Sweetser, a recruit from the Press Club of Oakland, who dominated the scene participated in by members of this organization, through the medium of his police reporter assigned by chance to the "covering" of a social event.

Then there was a delightful dance number, the "Indian Dance," which brought to life a bevy of clever and well trained youngsters, including Burdette Spencer, Virginia Canty, Ruth Runner, Madelyn Schultz, Patty Edwards and Leona Schultz, all of whom showed marked ability and whose ensemble work reflected credit on their coach.

Two solo dancers to win attention were Emily Lowry, who appeared as Forget Me Not in the first of a series of flower dances, and Ruth De Witt, who was costumed as Hollyhock. Miss Lowry was the most graceful dancer in the evening's entertainment and the group of Pansies who appeared as her chorus won what amounted to an ovation. They were Dorothy Lossman, Anna Regan, Sylvia Maaerhan, Helen Shallue, Eileen Quinn and Catherine Johnson.

Miss De Witt is a toe dancer of promise and she too had a well trained chorus, including Marjorie Johnson, Elizabeth Hicks, Lucile Schmidt, Martha Levy, Maxine Parjer and Elizabeth Bates, who appeared as Chinese Asters. In the final scene Burdette Sanders scored once more with a Harlequin dance.

STORY OF PLANS.

"Oh, Oakland" told the story on the stage of what the Oakland Festival Association, or the Dons of Peralta as it will be known in the future, plans to do in the fall of this year. The play started with the return to Oakland of a popular millionaire who had conceived a great plan for making Oakland [illegible] idea making the Festival an annual fete.

While the plans are being formulated several romances are in progress and every so often the action is being interrupted for a song or a dance. Thanks to Cummings, these interpolations did not seem incongruous and each one was a part of the picture.

James Ginn had the role of Jack-[illegible] could have been carried with greater success by Cummings, who instead cast himself for Landis, a talkative but rather unessential figure except for the purpose of providing a pivotal point around which the action might revolve.

Others in the cast who made the most of small parts were Clara Stevenson, Madge Bryson, Marjory Dildine, George Taylor, R. W. Cummings, M. Ethel Berlin, Ben Tooley, Margaret King, Grace Rubiola, Charles L. Deeley, Marguerite Blake, Frances Bloom, Hazel Whitmeyer, C. A. Colwell, August Brandes, Walton Larue, Marjorie Schlueter, Earl B. Leonard and numerous maids, pages, guests and others.

The "and others" leads up to the Oakland Real estate Glee Club. For the major portion of the play their role was to create atmosphere but they had their innings and made a profound impression with "Oh, Oakland," the title song, and "Carolina," which took a couple of encores. The club comprises John R. Bowdish, John C. Williams, Zura Bells, James Apostle, Milton Boscacci, Ralph Boscacci, Edward Jones, Earl B. Leonard, Bert R. Shrader and Charles Lloyd, a soloist.

In the Press Club section of the program the players were Zelline M. N. Sanders, B. S. Sanders, Frances Montgomery, Orville E. Jones, Donald E. Cruzan, Bob Raymond, Vincent Flumo and Sweetser.

"Oh, Oakland" was presented in three acts with three scenes each. The most pretentious were the Egyptian room and the Festival Court Ball. All in all the production was most satisfactory and the only regret is that it could not obtain for a longer period. If this is a sample the Festival should be all that its proponents hope for and more.

Survey Is Begun Of City Positions

The recent series of raises given some employees in the city hall today started discussions through the big municipal building, as many minor officials and subordinates did not receive raises, and assert that they wonder if they are left "out in the cold."

In submitting the budget of the civil service board to Commissioner W. H. Edwards of the finance department, Secretary C. C. DeWolf of the civil service board observed that "the new inequalities in the salaries of city employees presents [illegible] for the city service."

ACCUSED OF THREATS.

John P. [illegible], charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was today set for June 21 by Police Judge Tyrrell. He is alleged to have threatened to kill Policeman Walter Garrett, a member of the "dry squad."

Church Prowler Is Betrayed by Alarm; Captured

Betrayed by an electric burglar alarm, which he unknowingly set off while prowling about the interior of St. Mary's church, Seventh and Jefferson streets, early this morning, Frank A. Collins was captured by police and two priests and taken to the city prison, where he is held for investigation.

In a pocket of his coat at the time of his arrest, police say, Collins had a heavy screw driver, which he used to pry open a rear door to the church building and gain entrance.

At about 4 o'clock this morning, Father Thomas Flemming, assistant pastor of the church, was awakened by the ringing of a burglar alarm in his home adjoining the church. Accompanied by another priest, Father Flemming was about to enter the church and investigate when he encountered Patrolmen E. F. Murphy and George Pardee of the Moral squad.

The two officers accompanied the church officials and led the way into the building, where they found Collins crouched behind a seat.

YOUNG WIFE IS DESERTED SOON AFTER ARRIVAL

Mrs. Ida Lichtig, Former Chicago Belle, Says Husband Afraid of His Mother.

Deserted, she claims by her husband of only a few months, who brought her here from the east because he feared that the marriage would meet with the disapproval of his mother, Mrs. Ida Lichtig, former society belle of Chicago, is at her suite in the St. Francis hotel, San Francisco, today in a high rage, while her spouse, Ben D. Lichtig, field manager of a Philadelphia clothing house, remains at the home of his mother in Oakland.

Today Mrs. Lichtig announced that the romance was "all off," and that she would return to the east.

"However," she added philosophically, "it's all in a lifetime."

"But, just think where would I be now if I were without resourses? Why, I'd be on the rocks a thousand miles away from home. Fortunately I am able to travel about and enjoy myself, independent of my husband."

LEAVES ON ARRIVAL.

According to the bride, Lichtig, who left her immediately upon their arrival here and wente to the home of his mother, ostensibly to "break the news," does not even dare to hold a telephone conversation with her for fear of invoking his parent's disapproval. He is 44 years old and has lived away from home for 22 years, except for annual visits.

He has not inquired if his wife needed money, she said, since Sunday when they met for a moment at the home of his brother, Jack Lichtig, in San Francisco.

Lichtig and his wife, who was formerly Miss Ida Raab, Chicago beauty, were married in Ashville, N. C. The trip to San Francisco was to be the last lap of the honeymoon, and they arrived Saturday. The bride expected to spend the evening receiving the felicitations of her husband's family and making friends with the 10-year-old stepson whom she had not yet seen.

Instead, she spent it in her room at the St. Francis hotel—alone.

TROUBLE DUE TO MOTHER.

"I knew my husband for a year before we became engaged," said Mrs. Lichtig. "I never dreamed he had a mother complex. He is well known in the east and holds a responsible position. I knew he loved his mother and so hand admired him for it. When we married he told me his mother would be angry so I offered to stay in the east while he came out here to his family.

"He insisted I should come. When the train pulled in at Sixteenth street, his brother and sister-in-law were at the station. He did not bring them to our compartment but went out and did not return. I went to hi shotel where I have been used to staying on previous trips."

Lichtig declared today that his domestic shipwreck is due to a misunderstanding all the way around. He explained that his mother knew nothing of his marriage and he had avoided telling her because she had always opposed the idea following the death of his first wife, who left a son of nineteen months. The boy lives with Lichtig's mother.

ORCHESTRA TO GIVE PROGRAM FOR TRIBUNE

Dance Musicians Are to Start Radio Concert at 9 O'Clock.

Melvin Pope's dance orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music to be broadcast from Radio KLX, The TRIBUNE'S station, this evening between 9 and 10 o'clock. The orchestra is composed of John Wiekland, banjo; Walter Habelt, cornet; Melvin Pope, pianist and leader; David Espina, saxophone; Fred Habelt, violin, and George Kapps, drummer.

This orchestra has been playing for dances in the bay district and is one of the real jazz organizations, popular wherever it has rendered its services. It will play snappy music, the kind that puts life into dancing parties. The TRIBUNE'S Friday evening broadcasts are looked forward to by many, who plan weekly dances. Two of these dances will be held tonight in Berkeley, and another in Alameda. In Hayward, where a regular Friday night dance is given, from 8 until midnight, the orchestra takes a rest between 9 and 10 and the dance goes on to the tune of the orchestra playing from KLX. The owner of the dance pavilion has installed a radio set with power amplifier and loud speaker.

Beginning next Tuesday the baseball scores will again be broadcast from KLX play by play for two weeks, while the Oaks play at home. Next week the Oakland team will play Seattle at Oakland, and on the following week the Los Angeles team at Oakland.

Fans declare that the broadcasting of the game play by play adds much interest, as they can visualize the game as it is being played and enjoy the tense moments, such as come when there are three on bases, two outs and a pinch hitter goes in. This happened last week when [illegible] slammed out a homer with three on bases just when the Oaks needed the runs the worst way.

Electric Company to Reimburse Patrons

RICHMOND, June 8.—The Western States Gas and Electric company, it was announced today, will reimburse 18 residents of the San Pablo avenue and Alvarado street, San Pablo, for money expended for the extension of electric service to their property. The railroad commission arranged for the purchase of the line by the corporation.

Several years ago the company was requested to furnish service to the residents but under its extension rules it could not put in the line. The residents themselves, therefore, built it at a cost of $1168. Subsequently 14 consumers have been connected to the extension. Recently the Western States sought to buy the line for $780 and the matter was brought to the attention of the commission by L. W. Evans of the Republic Steel Package company. Negotiations with the company resulted in its decision to reimburse the patrons in full.

Hay and Warehouse Worth $4000 Burn

BYRON, June 8.—Fire broke out in the hay barn of Joseph Texiera, local dairyman, destroying the structure and 100 tons of loose alfalfa hay. The total loss is approximately $4000. The barn was insured for $2500. Spontaneous combustion was the cause. First crop alfalfa hay is subject to heat conditions that do not obtain with later cuttings. This is presumed to be caused by the wild oats, foxtail and other foreign grasses. Texiera will rebuild.

DEMONSTRATIONS ADD TO INTEREST IN BETTER HOMES

Week Comes to Close Tomorrow, Message Having Been Put Across.

"America's greatness lies in the character of her homes, and the future history of America will be shaped largely by our virile family life, centering our love of home," said Mayor John L. Davie today, in commenting on Oakland's observance of Better Homes in America Week.

"It is good to know that the Better Homes in America movement has struck a responsive chord in the hearts of our Oakland citizens. Just as the love of home is maintained in America just so long will America continue to lead and influence the world."

Another demonstration home was added to the list today with the announcement that the Fred T. Wood Co. has opened its $20,000 home in Haddon road, near Hillcrest Circle South, to public inspection. Other demonstration homes to which the public is invited are: The Harry J. McKnight, four-family residence, at 726 Haddon road; the W. C. Boden & Co. residence, at 1065 Underhills road; the J. P. Peppin dwelling, at 1390 Barrows road, and an R. C. Hillen home, at 600 East Twenty-first street.

Mrs. Norman de Vaux of the slides and school sub-committee reports that Better Homes posters are located in every school, and that slides have been placed in all motion picture theaters, putting across the message of Better Homes. Mrs. Minna McGauley, chairman of Oakland's committee, will speak over The TRIBUNE radio tonight on Better Homes. The week comes to a close tomorrow.

E. S. BABUE IS RE-ELECTED AS C. OF C. HEAD

Selection Made at Meeting of Board Following the Banquet.

ALAMEDA, June 8.—Edward S. Babue was re-elected president of the Alameda chamber of commerce last night at a meeting of the board of directors. The election was held at the conclusion of a dinner at a Park street cafe.

John C. Stannard was chosen as vice-president and Carl Strom selected to serve as treasurer during the ensuing fiscal year.

After the selection of officers plans were formulated for the work of the organization during the new year. Among the projects considered was the advisability of holding a community chest drive in Alameda during the fall months. E. R. Neiss and Stannard were appointed to serve as a committee to confer with civic and charitable organizations in the city regarding the movement.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the formation of a unit of the reserve officers training corps in the Alameda High school. A communication to this effect was ordered sent to the Board of Education.

WHERE CITIES SQUABBLE.

"If the cities and people of this part of the State would work together as do those of the South nothing could stand in the way of our marvelous march of progress."

This assertion has been voiced by as many as five luncheon club speakers in the course of a single week. Isn't it about time it be revised or forgotten?

Northern California cities are working together right now. They have been united in purpose and endeavor for many months. Certain communities which, because of situation in a single valley, used to be rivals, have joined forces to further the interest of that valley, this part of the State and California. If the cities of the South are working together they are doing no more than the cities of the North—the good and sensible thing for themselves and the State.

The time has come when orators may look at home for examples. If there is to be a comparison the advantage is with the spirit which is actuating the northern counties.

"Of course Los Angeles double crossed us. But there is nothing surprising about that. What is surprising is that anybody hereabouts should be surprised when Los Angeles gives Long Beach the bad end of a deal." This, and more in the same strain, is from the Long Beach Telegram.

"If anything of a political nature has developed hereabouts in Southern California, where the metropolis did not look for the best of it, we have yet to learn of the fact. . . . Long Beach folks are rubbing the sleepers out of their optics and awakening to the verity that when any selfish political interest is to be subserved they cannot depend upon the help of Los Angeles." Thus the San Bernardino Sun makes caustic comment and adds to the chorus.

The truth is, and it is a regrettable one, the larger cities of the South are squabbling among themselves. Those of the North, small and large, are carrying out a program of advancement. It should be in order to interrupt the next speaker who reverses the facts.

DAIRYMEN INVITE WORLD.

Dairymen of California are alive to the possibilities of interesting the world in the advantages which this State offers to the industry. An evidence is the invitation sent to the delegates to the World's Dairy Congress to visit the Pacific Coast in late October and early November. The message, taken to Washington by Dr. C. W. Larson, Chief of the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture, has been acknowledged by President H. E. Van Norman of the World's Dairy Congress Association, who says that it has been broadcasted to all the civilized countries.

Prominent in the plans for entertaining the visitors is one for automobile tours of inspection through the dairy districts of California. Some of the best producing cows in the world, and manufacturing plants which are a model for equipment and methods, will be shown to men from many countries and it is significant that among the visitors will be a considerable number who will be here for the purpose of viewing this State as a possible future home for dairymen of their countries who wish to migrate to the new world. The service which will be performed by the local dairymen, then, is not inconsiderable.

At present the California dairymen are interested in plans for the State Council, to be held at Point Reyes July 18 and 19 and for the great California National Livestock Show, to be held next year when a new building will be erected in San Francisco. The Dairy Council has an ambitious program which is being forwarded vigorously and in a manner which cannot fail in bringing a large number of dairymen and others to the State.

Yosemite with its Bridal Veil Falls, El Capitan, Mirror Lake, Merced River and Inspiration Point; the Hetchy-Hetchy and the marvelous back country are being shown in motion pictures the country over and at no cost to California or Californians. The Bureau of Public Roads, under the Federal Department of Agriculture, has released the picture under the title "Roads to Wonderland." Co-operating with the Bureau are the Forest and National Park services.

WESTERN MINERS MEET.

Western mining interests hold membership in the American Mining Congress and send delegates to its conventions. For some time, however, they have felt that the preponderance of the coal and iron men in the organization has precluded the possibility for thorough discussion of the problems of import in this part of the country. The result has been the formation of the Western Division of the American Mining Congress, to embrace the thirteen mineral states west of the Mississippi river and to hold sessions for the consideration of purely western problems. Affiliation with the larger organization is retained and new opportunities for an exchange of pertinent ideas and experiences is made possible.

On Monday and Tuesday of next week this Western Division will meet in San Francisco and on Wednesday and Thursday in Sacramento. As the two-day meeting in San Francisco will be the formal and executive one Sacramento has the honor of furnishing the chance to the mining men to meet the members of the board and to participate in what will be the most enjoyable and illuminating of the meetings. Thursday is to be given over to a tour of the Mother Lode section. The thirteen men selected as a board of governors for the Western Division will be present, together with many distinguished men in the industry and nationally known authorities, when the joint conference of the board and the annual summer conference of the department of mines and mining of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce will be held.

Clarence E. Jarvis, conference chairman, has declared that the session will be of the utmost importance to the mining industry of the West and the responses received by the Sacramento chamber assure a large attendance. The coming of the board meeting to San Francisco is in itself a notable event. The opportunity given the board to meet western miners and to the miners to come into contact with the distinguished visitors is of more importance. For this latter feature the industry is indebted to the enterprise of the Sacramento chamber.

HONORING POCAHONTAS.

Efforts to find the resting place of Pocahontas in England, arguments over the propriety of disturbing the grave, and the sending of men and money across the seas would indicate a belief that no memorial to the Indian princess is possible without having in or under it her earthly remains.

Pocahontas played a romantic part in early American history. The story of how, as a girl of twelve, she saved the life of Captain John Smith, has never been substantiated. The textbooks picture her, at this time, as a beautiful woman rather than as a child and those who care little for fact when romance is concerned cling to the legend despite the evidence.

It is known, however, that Pocahontas loved Captain John Smith. For three years after his departure to England she refused to visit Jamestown. Then she was told he had died. Later, it is related, when she visited England and met Captain Smith at a reception, the shock was so great that it contributed to her death. That is the story; a good one even if the historians doubt it.

There is no doubt the 17 year-old Pocahontas was captured by the Jamestown settlers and held as hostage for the safety of white prisoners in possession of the Indians. It was then she was converted to Christianity. At 19 she married James Rolfe, planter, and two years later went with him to England. She was the daughter of Chief Powhattan, a circumstance which brought her unusual favors, caused her to be received as a princess and welcomed by royalty. At the age of 22, shortly after the end, near London.

The son returned to Virginia in early manhood and today many of the old families in Virginia claim to be descendents of the line. John Randolph, signer of the Declaration of Independence, was one of those to trace relationship to the Princess Pocahontas.

If the committee in search of the remains of the Indian girl is not successful plans for the erection of a monument in Arlington cemetery will have to be abandoned. That does not mean that a memorial of some kind cannot be raised.

Because some autoists are reckless doesn't absolve other people from circumspection. Parents who permit their small children to play in the public streets are not blameless when harm befalls them. A child's movements when it is absorbed in play cannot be counted on by passing motorists.

THE LEAVES OF LIFE.

(From the Omaha Daily News.)

A dreamer am I with a desperate desire,
And it's a burning desire like stars of fire.
I saw the leaves of life falling one by one.
It was night and dark and it worried me some.
Mid shadows I strode, my guide inspiration,
Inspired by the sky, it caught my imagination
Eagerly gazing, I thought my reasoning sound;
I ventured to seek there what no mortal has found.
Watching like a sentinel, I thought it my duty.
It exceeded my imagination, this endless beauty.
Stood I blind as a bat and knowing little more.
Yes, I too, must lead a blind and brutal war.
Lest in a vague, I thought of my poor choice.
Then from somewhere came a soft and delicate voice:
If purpose and meaning you crave to command
First learn life's lesson, and then you will understand
And it said, Make your desires unknown to rest,
And if you do your best reward will come at last.
Then spiritual satisfaction will fill thy thoughts,
For the many withens you will find some hopes
So now what nature has given me I put in rhyme,
And weave my fancies and lose no time.
And with all my might and flaming devotion
I bend my thought until exhaustion,
So history may relate on its pages of fame
Of one that has lived and lived not in vain.
And proud will be my children to see
That their good name can be found in me.
With this manly ambition until I croak,
And then, ah then, many hearts will be broke.

Eight abreast the Commuters go their way.

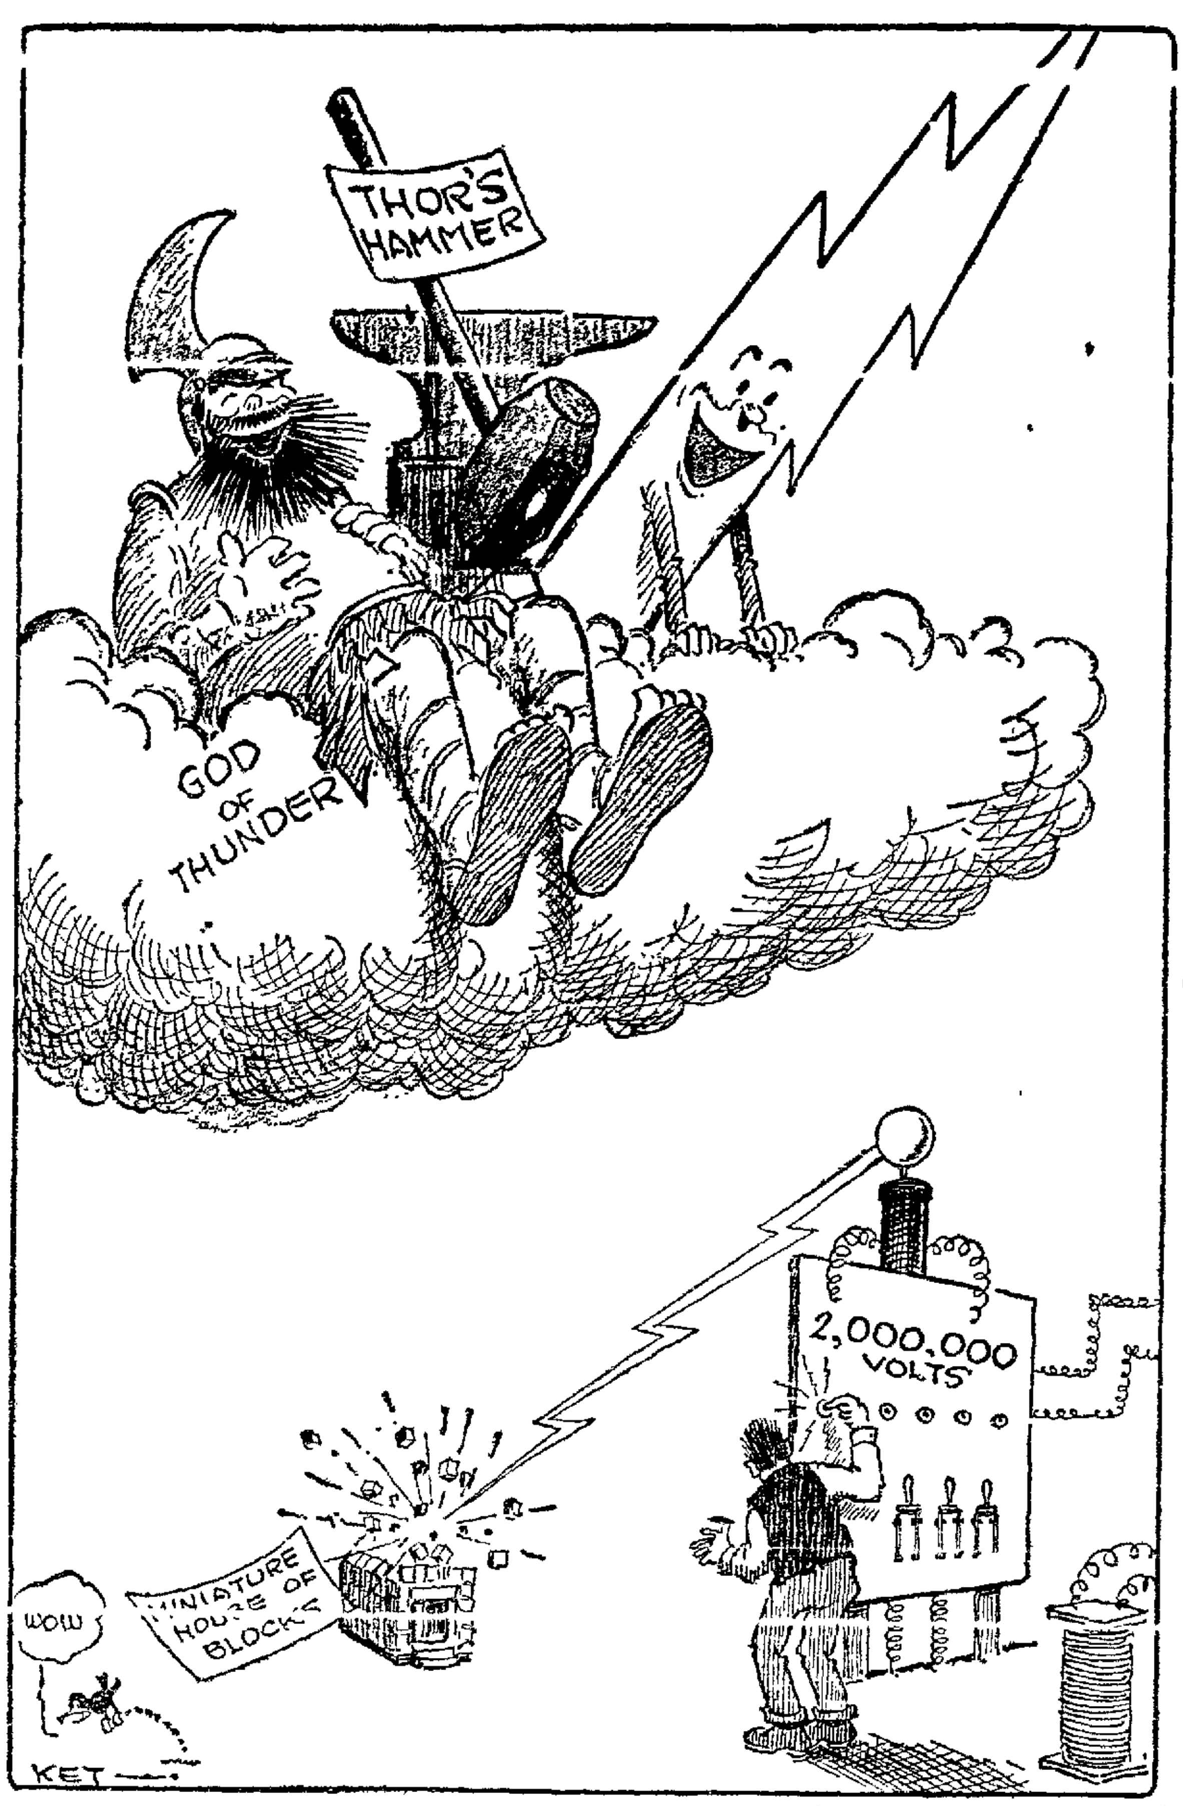
THAT MAN MADE THUNDERBOLT.



EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

Philadelphia Ledger: "Being agreeable associates itself with being cheerful, debonair and witty; with bringing to a party of some sort a countenance of brightness, a presence of animation and gaiety. The agreeable are supposed to be those who assent to what we say, admire us for what we are or think we are, and do not trouble us with serious reflection about the riddle of ourselves or the greater riddle of the universe. The agreeable are they who "travel along" and chime in with the rest. They are for any plan of amusement suggested, and they impart to it such life, such energy, such humor, as they have to give."

Seattle Times: "Advocates of municipal ownership and operation of public utilities are urging the people of Chicago to acquire that city's traction lines on the theory that once this has been accomplished all transportation troubles would end. Seattle will not be disposed to offer Chicago any gratuitous advice, but if a committee should find it convenient to join the stream of tourists coming this way the opportunity for learning something about municipal ownership will be presented."

Springfield Republican: "Pennsylvania's drastic anti-lynching act, which has just received Governor Pinchot's signature, evidently was modeled after the Dyer bill, which was introduced in Congress in 1921. Both measures provide for a fine of $10,000 to be imposed upon any county where a lynching takes place, for use of the family of the victim; both make officers of the law from whose hands a prisoner is taken and lynched guilty of a felony, punishable by five years' imprisonment or a fine of $5000."

New York Times: "When a buyer offers for anything three times what the seller is willing to take, suspicions arise that there is something queer about either him or his offer, but the up-State manufacturer, John W. Slack, who says he would and could give a billion and some odd millions for Uncle Sam's large and as yet highly unprofitable fleet of merchantmen, has been able to show, seemingly, that if his bid was peculiar, it was considerably less peculiar than Mr. Lasker's invitation for bids."

Seattle Times: "In the State of Washington the Legislature, when its business is finished or its time limit has been reached, merely adjourns, but in Massachusetts the Legislature is 'prorogued.' Apparently the Old Colony still loves the ceremonies which were in vogue in the days of kings and colonial parliaments."

Portland Oregonian: "The French propose to capitalize the Ruhr and to have the United States take part of the stock. That's very kind of them, but we think the American people will prefer to do their speculating in something relatively safe and conservative."

Latest reports from Petrolia indicate that encouraging signs of oil were being uncovered by the drill of the Humboldt Oil Company, which is operating near Petrolia. At the 2200 foot level, where the drill is now working, a good flow of gas was encountered and the drillers believe that as the depth is increased more favorable indications will be found. —Del Norte Triplicate.

Port Costa is gravely menaced by the probable loss of her great grain exporting business. The State Board of Harbor Commissioners, under plans and contracts consummated by former President John H. With over two-thirds of the available space of the coming Turlock Fair and Auto Show already contracted by local merchants and automobile dealers, space will soon be at a premium. The LaBreque Enterprises, conducting the show for the chamber of commerce, have made it an ironclad rule to give the local business men first choice—Turlock Tribune.

The average newcomer in California is hungry for facts about the state. If he has become interested in any particular section of California he is hungry for facts about it. It is all right to speak in glowing terms about our climate, our fruits, our schools, our opportunities for recreation and amusement, but that is all too general to satisfy the newcomer.—Watsonville Register.

Dr. Abrams says the time will come when there will be radio machines along the street and by dropping in a penny a person may learn whether there is anything the matter with his liver or lungs and whether he has cancer, gallstones or any of the other interior decorations. JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CROWD

I must follow the crowd each day,
Must do what the crowd is doing,
Must say what the crowd will say
And pursue what the crowd's pursuing;
I must read what the throng is reading
And feed what the crowd is feeding.

I must submerge my thought
In the blind mad will of the many,
Must buy what the crowd has bought,
Though it cost me a pretty penny;
I must care as the crowd is caring
And wear what the crowd is wearing.

With never a will of my own,
I must think what the crowd is thinking—
Man is jeered when he stands alone,
And a jeer sets my courage shrinking;
So I cheer when the crowd is cheering,
And I sneer when the crowd is sneering.

Yet I know when the crowd is wrong,
But nothing I do about it
Though sometimes the urge is strong
In me to stand up and shout it;
But wanting its fickle praises,
I join with the crowd and its crazes.

GREEN ENVELOPES BARRED

American business men frequently run up against some federal regulation or other which temporarily vexes them because they feel that it is a governmental infringement upon their way of doing business, even though the matter is generally trivial. They do not realize that oftentimes this regulation is for their own advantage or in the interests of public welfare.

A good illustration of this has just been found by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and the postoffice department.

This illustration was with regard to the use of green paper in "window envelopes," which are now extensively utilized by American business houses.

A circular issued last January by the office of the third assistant postmaster general, says that "the stationery used in window envelopes, or at least that portion upon which the address appears, must be white, or if colored, of a very light tint or shade. The use of a dark colored stationery is not permissible."

The rules and regulations division of the postoffice department states that "green is probably the most difficult color for the mail distributors to handle under the trying conditions under which they have to work.—Washington Star.

NOT ALL FRAUDS.

To the Editor of the Tribune:

Since A. Conan Doyle has come to the United States and is drawing such enormous audiences the magicians, Houdini, Rinn and Henderson, seem to have become greatly excited and worked up, as is shown by their coming out with their cartoons and using sarcastic words that Spiritualists never use; and denouncing all spiritual phenomena and all spiritual mediums frauds, and all Spiritualists as dupes. You will find among the spiritual ranks just as intelligent men and women as any of the above-named gentlemen.

Every spiritualist will tell you that a fraud practicing under the name of Spiritualism should be prosecuted as well as any other fraud. But it should be proven that they are frauds. The charge made by either of the above-named parties does not constitute nor prove fraud. I am not defending Conan Doyle; he is capable of defending himself.

But does not the practice of fraud prove that the actors are trying to imitate something that is genuine? Did you ever hear of anybody counterfeitng a thing that was worthless? I never did.

I have been investigating Spiritualism for about seventy years, and during that time I have come across lots of fraud and I have witnessed lots of genuine phenomena. I believe that I can detect fraud as quick as any of the above-named gentlemen. I have witnessed independent slate writing under conditions that no human being can duplicate by legerdemain or magic. The purpose of this article does not require, and space would not permit, to explain the conditions of those tests, but I assure you they were beyond the possibility of fraud.

My object in writing this letter is to find out what object or what those magicians expect to gain if they succeed in destroying a belief in Spiritualism? Do they not know that if they did succeed in destroying Spiritualism they would at the same time destroy all Christian religion? Do they not know they would destroy every religion in the world? Because every religion in the world is based on spiritual phenomena. Cut out all the spiritual phenomena that is recorded in the Bible and down goes every form of religion. Because spiritualism is the basic principle of every religion, though it be a heathen religion. There is a corresponding spirit manifestation recorded in the Bible for every phase of phenomena practiced by spiritual medium except photography, that was not known in Bible days or we would doubtless have had photographs of many of the ancients.

If people who lived two or three thousand years ago saw and conversed with spirits and saw spirit in action, all those manifestations occurred under the unchangeable law of God. Therefore, there is no reason why they should not occur as well now as in any other age, and the fact that they do occur is as well established and proven as any fact can be established by human testimony.

WAR NURSE RESTORED TO CITIZENSHIP

Marriage to British Subject in China Forces American Woman to Seek Court Aid in Regaining Lost Rights

Mrs. Amanda Thompson Robertson, 970 Tulare avenue, a nurse who served with distinction in the World war, was restored to American citizenship today in the superior court. This is the result of Mrs. Thompson's second attempt to secure citizenship, which she lost through her marriage in Shanghai, China, to Arthur Robertson, an English subject, who is now in Cuba.

When Mrs. Robertson appeared several months ago before Superior Judge L. S. Church, her attorney, Joseph L. Fainer, presented her case to the court, holding that she was entitled to admission as a citizen by virtue of her service with the American forces over seas.

FIRST PETITION DENIED.

Judge Church, after a thorough search of the law, decided that the bill which granted citizenship to persons serving with the military forces of the United States on foreign soil did not apply to women and denied her petition.

Mrs. Robertson immediately filed a petition under the Cable act which was recently passed by congress and by virtue of which women who have lost citizenship through their marriage to a man of foreign birth can be admitted as citizens. It was under that law that Mrs. Robertson was admitted today.

SERVED IN FRANCE.

Mrs. Robertson served for a year in France, being attached to Evacuation Hospital No. 6. She saw service at Coblenz and in the famous Chateau Thierry drive. For their work in that drive the members of the unit were cited for bravery.

$4,072,518 TO BE ASKED FOR SCHOOLS

Tentative Dept. Budget to Be Passed Upon by the Board of Education On Next Monday; Expenses Grow

A tentative budget of school department needs, to be passed upon by the board of education Monday night, will total $4,072,518, as against $3,756,505 in last year's budget, or an increase of $316,012. These figures, however, are the first rough draft of the proposed budget, according to Auditor John W. Edgemond, and are by no means final.

It is explained by educators that the constant annual growth of the school department demands a steady increase in the budget. There are 60 more teachers demanded in the coming year, it is asserted, while 11 more schools are opening, requiring more janitors, light, heat and water.

The offices ask $105,000 in the tentative budget, as a minimum resuest, as against $99,797 last year. Additional help in the attendance department is requesed.

Teachers' salaries for the coming year are estimated at $3,309,190, against $3,041,398 last year. This increase of $267,792 provides for 60 new teachers and for sick benefits and increases in salaries according to the regular rules governing tenure of office.

The operation of school plants demands $272,281 as against [illegible] last year. This includes the 11 new schools and 17 more janitors.

The maintenance of the plant, the actual physical repairs to buildings, comes to $107,000, or $2000 less than last year.

JAMES PILLING, veteran theatrical man, who is dead.

SHOW FOLK TO HONOR MEMORY OF J. PILLING

Theatrical folk from all parts of the bay region will gather tomorrow morning to pay their last respects to James Pilling, manager of the Century Theater and one of the best known and most popular showmen in the country, who died yesterday.

For more than twenty years Pilling had been a prominent figure in the show world and endeared himself to members of all branches of the profession through his gentleness, generosity and ability. He had been suffering from a cranial malady for months.

ONCE DROVE HACK.

A native of Manchester, England, Pilling went to Vancouver, B. C., in early life and drove a hack. He developed a tenor voice and at the suggestion of friends went to New York. Followed then several years of touring with operatic companies.

Later Pilling entered the managerial field and was eminently successful. Seventeen years ago Pilling came to Oakland and assumed direction of Idora Park. He was identified with the amusement park during the Hartman-Steindorff comic opera season.

IN LIGHT OPERA.

Following his engagement there he engaged in light opera at the old Columbia Theater here and at the Eucalyptus Grove in Piedmont Park and then returned to Vancouver as house manager for Alexander Pantages. In a short time he was made northwestern manager for the Pantages circuit.

After several years Pilling went to the Orpheum circuit and remained until his resignation a year ago because of ill health and his location here as representative of the Ackerman and Harris circuit at the Century.

SHIPYARDS AT ALAMEDA ARE SOLD

Syndicate Will Plot Ground for Site Sales to Industrial Concerns, Is Announcement Made by Purchasers

ALAMEDA, June 8.—The property of the Liberty shipyards on the Alameda side of the Oakland inner harbor, comprising 170 acres between the Alaska Packers' Association docks and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company's plant, has been purchased from the United States Shipping Board by a syndicate composed of a number of California business men, who propose to divide the yards into units and sell them for industrial purposes. Announcement of the purchase was made by David Blankenhorn of Los Angeles, a member of the syndicate.

The property was obtained by William F. Humpheys, president of the Old Mission Portland Cement company of San Francisco; Henry Rosenfield, executive of the Insurance Exchange and Firemen's Fund Insurance company of San Francisco; David Blankenhorn, president of David Blankenhorn, Inc., Investments Company, and James Tyson, president of the Consolidated Lumber company.

A number of large freight vessels were constructed at the yards during the war, when the shipbuilding plant was operated by the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The property is improved with a number of warehouses, dry docks, considerable trackage, and has a broad frontage on the inner harbor.

TWO ACCUSED OF BURGLARY.

John M. Jones and William A. Pratt were today arraigned before Police Judge Hennessey on a charge of burglary. The complaint was sworn to by Theodore Wasnauer, 495 Fifteenth street, who conducts a cigar store. The two men are accused of breaking into the cigar store. The preliminary examination was set for June 18.

Wife Claims Man Brags of Conquests

David R. Winterburg boasted of his "conquests," was seen last July hugging and kissing a woman he had taken for an automobile ride, and on February 23, last, confessed he was infatuated with another woman, declares Ruth E. Winterburg in a suit for divorce.

Winterburg told his wife, she says, that there were many women with whom he could go out any time he wished. He admitted his infatuation for another woman on February 23, after failing to return to his home at night, the wife says. They were married in Hanford, December 24, 1919, and separated February 26, the complaint states.

SUITS FILED TO PROTECT CLAIMS

Two more suits were filed today by building material dealers for money alleged due them from M. C. Vaughn, contractor who disappeared last December and left uncompleted a contract for $480,000 on the Highland Hospital. The plaintiffs are the Oakland Building Material Company which files a claim for $1570 and Rhodes-Jamieson Company makes a claim for $3297.

Alameda county officials, L. E. Fraser, named trustee of Vaughn's estate when Vaughn was declared a bankrupt, and the Globe Indemnity Company, his security bondsmen, are named defendants.

The Globe Indemnity Company is completing the contract abandoned by Vaughn, and the county is withholding $95,000 due on the contract until all claims have been filed. The suits are filed solely to protect the claims.

Contestants Lose Medau Will Case

Upholding the will of Peter H. Medeau, a jury in Judge E. C. Robinson's court returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Edith Blakeley and Herbert A. Steinbach, and against Amelia Cumimngs and William Medau, who sought to break the will. Those involved in the contest are nieces and nephews of the testator.

Under the terms of the will, which disposed of a $50,000 estate, William Medau and Mrs. Cummings were cut off with $1 each. Property at 1029 Chester street, Oakland and $10,000 cash was left to a sister, Wilhelmina Medau, in trust during her life time. At her death it is to go to Mrs. Blekeley. Property on Baker street, San Francisco, was left to Miss Medau and Mrs. Blakeley and upon Miss Medau's death Mrs. Blakeley becomes full owner.

The residue of the estate was divided into 100 parts. Of this amount Mrs. Blakeley was given 31 shares and Steinbach 18.

The contestants claimed that Mrs. Blakeley was employed by Medau as housekeeper and that in this capacity she exerted an undue influence over Medau.

Woman Files Suit To Get Insurance

That Tony S. Rose refused to deliver a $2000 life insurance policy upon Joe L. Rose, who died February 3, last, and now claims the insurance, although the insured signed a request the day before his death for a change of beneficiary to her, is the charge made by Mrs. Mary S. Rose, wife of F. S. Rose, in a cross-complaint filed in superior court today. The cross-complaint is filed to a suit instituted by the New York Life Insurance Company which asked the court to settle conflicting claims for the $1840.49 due on the policy.

U. S. WINS IN OIL FRAUD TRIAL

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 8.—The government won its second victory in the drive against alleged fraudulent oil promoters when J. W. (Hog Creek) Caruth and L. G. Reynolds Jr. unexpectedly pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of the Caruth Oil companies. The trial which started Wednesday was brought to an abrupt close when the two defendants announced through their attorneys that they wished to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and plead guilty to the charges in the indictment.

Benjamin Bledsoe, presiding judge, sentenced Caruth and Reynolds to a year and a day in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., and to pay a fine of $5000 each.

Boy Trades $141,000 For Night at Coney

NEW YORK, June 8.—James Foley, 18-year-old messanger for Charles B. Barney & Company, brokerage house, was arrested yesterday charged with stealing $141,000 in bonds which he reported Tuesday he had lost. He declared that a night at Coney Island was all he had received from the strangers in return for the bonds. Accompanied by police, he toured the city yesterday looking for the men.

Foley, police said, admitted that seven months ago, he "lost" $8000 in securities which he turned over to the two men. In payment he said, they gave him $40 and took him to Coney Island.

DANCE OF STATES ENDS BIG MEET

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Three Pullman car cities which housed thousands of the Shriners attending their annual convention here had dissolved into special trains today which began the homeward exodus in the early hours. The convention program was brought formally to a close with the pageant and dancing on Pennsylvania avenue last night, but the pageant was being repeated today for the benefit of Washington school children. There also were several entertainment features, include a marine corps infantry demonstration on the program for today.

Before the last float in the pageant of historic scenes had passed the President and Mrs. Harding in their stand in front of the White House last night thousands of spectators had swarmed into the street in the rear of the procession. Those who had viewed it from the capitol end of the avenue pressed up to when until at one time the density of the crowd in the viciniy of the treasury building gave the police an exciting time in attempting to control it.

The surrounding swarm of the crowd estimated at more than 150,000 persons, on the avenue, somewhat disarranged plans for spreading the two tons of corn meal thrown on the street in preparation for the "Dance of the States." The dance got under way, however, and continued for more than an hour on a stretch of eight or ten blocks.

Women Ask Milk Rate of 11 Cents

ALAMEDA, June 8.—That summer rates of 11 cents a quart should prevail for milk delivered at the door was the agreement reached by the Alameda Housewives' League at a meeting held in the Legion hall yesterday.

A communication to this effect was ordered sent to all milk producers and distributors, with an appeal to give the request earnest consideration, in view of the fact that the commodity is unusually plentiful at this season of the year.

A tightening of the boycott on sugar was advocated and the cutting down of a surplus use of the commodity was advised by Mrs. Mary Stroupe, chairman of the Fair Price committee.

Truck Driver Run Over and Crippled

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Wal-[illegible] 1252 Edd street, will not walk for one year as the result of a peculiar accident today. His auto truck stalled on Pier 54 and he got out and got under, leaving his feet projecting beyond the vehicle. Another truck driven by John Rodriguez, 917 Folsom street, was backing up and ran over his ankles, crushing the bones. He was taken to the Harbor hospital where surgeons said the mending process would take many months.

APPROVAL SOON OF BAY BRIDGE PLANS EXPECTED

But Three Objectors Appear at S. F. Meeting On Big Project.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Early approval by the War Department, of Colonel Frank Elbridge Webb's plans for the proposed San Francisco Bay Memorial bridge between San Mateo and Alameda counties, is expected as the result of a hearing held yesterday before Colonel Herbert Leakyne, of the army engineer corps, at the Custom House.

Only three objections to the bridge were voiced at the hearing, which was held to permit all those opposing the project to state their case before final approval should be given by the war deartment. The objectors were the Morgan Oyster company, A. L. Frank of Redwood City and the Redwood Harbor company.

Officials of the oyster company declared their concern is planning to erect a cement plant near the proposed bridge site, and that the bridge would interfere with the project. The two other opponents complained that the bridge would interfere with navigation.

Numerous residents of Alameda, San Francisco, and San Mateo counties spoke in favor of the bridge and its proposed location, and it is expected that their recommendation will offset the three objections that were raised.

Proponents of the bridge included: Mayor Fred J. Smith of San Mateo, John J. McGrath of the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce, D. C. Imbolden, the Rev. W. A. Brewer, mayor of Hillsborough; J. B. Leonard, consulting engineer; Ernest Clewe and A. C. Pistolesi of the One Hundred Per Cent Club of San Francisco; I. B. Parsons, president of the Bank of Hayward; Supervisor Charles Heyer of Alameda county; Mark Lee, secretary and manager of the Hayward Chamber of Commerce; E. A. Hay, W. H. Daniels, A. W. Bean, W. S. Freeman and A. A. Oliver.

June—the month dedicated to Brides by convention and to roses and the glory of all outdoors by Nature, brings a complete change in the life of every household—the family moves from indoor living to outdoor living.

There is also a decided change made in the dietary. Meats and heavy foods give way to vegetables, salads and ices. And this is just the time when there is great danger of running too low on energy foods—the daintiest and most "summery" of which is

Nucoa

The Energy Spread for Bread

Just "standing the hot weather" takes energy. Every heart beat uses up energy. And every outdoor sport calls for increased energy. The energy we use in work and play is now accurately measured in calories, and all the energy we expend must be replaced in food calories—energy food.

Food scientists have figured that a man at moderate work uses up about 2500 calories a day. A housekeeper in light work uses about 2000 calories. That the ever active boy of twelve or so uses 1500. And that a football player uses up about 500 calories to the hour.

Nucoa supplies about 4000 calories to the pound, so is about the most economical energy food you can buy, and is so readily digested it is ideal for hot weather.

Troops Complete Plans for Long Hike

SPOKANE, Wash., June 8.—Regardless of mules' illness, storms or high water, troops at Fort George Wright will move out early tomorrow morning on foot for Camp Lewis, Wash., 400 miles away. Orders for the hike, postponed from May 15 because of an epidemic that broke out among the barrack's mules, were received by Colonel Henry A. Ripley, commanding officer of the fort.

to take the place of the sick mules. Eleven officers and six companies of men will make the march. Twenty miles a day will be traveled, and, allowing time for stopovers, it is estimated the trip will take about 30 days. The troops will remain at Camp Lewis until the close of the civilians' military training camp which opens August 26 and runs a month. After that, they will march back.

Shanghai Grows But Building Slumps

SHANGHAI, June 8.—(By The Associated Press.)—That Shantung, despite hard times, continues to grow is to be gathered from the report that in 1922 new buildings to a value of 15,926,000 taels were erected. This marks a falling off, however, from the total of the preceding year of approximately five million taels. The report, issued by the commissioner of public works, says 5487 new structures were erected, of which 4267 were Chinese houses and 84 were buildings for foreigners.

CROKER JUNIOR TELLS ABOUT HIS FATHER'S WEALTH

Admits Warning Tammany Chief He Should Probe Bula's Past.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DUBLIN, June 8. — Richard Croker Jr., testifying today in the suit to break the will of the late Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany in New York, defended the manner in which he had handled his father's financial affairs in New York. When Richard resumed the stand to continue the testimony begun yesterday, he was asked about his father's properties. He said that the real estate at Glencairn and Palm Beach was valued at nearly $2,000,000 and that there were other valuable properties as well.

The witness denied the accusation of his stepmother, Mrs. Bula Croker, that the costs of a legal action at Palm Beach had not been paid. Richard produced receipts. Later he accounted for withdrawals made upon his father's New York bank account.

Earlier, Richard testified his father established a trust fund of $100,000 when he separated from his first wife and that he (the witness) was still manager of it. He said he personally had obtained about $175,000 from his father.

CHURCH STARTS MEDICAL CLINIC

SEATTLE, Wash., June 8.—A clinic in which the discoveries of modern and psychological science will be invoked to effect cures will be conducted by the Plymouth Congregational church of this city, Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins, pastor, announced today. Plymouth is one of the oledst and largest churches in Seattle.

"This is no fake faith cure proposition," said Dr. Hawkins. "Faith has its part in curing; we know that. But faith is not credulity or superstition. Faith must be based on reasonable and working knowledge."

Dr. Hawkins said that five or the best physicians in the city, including bacteriologists, diagnosticians and surgeons, and the psychological staff of the University of Washington had been associated with the clinic.

"When some definite and physical cause is at the base of a disease, medical and surgical science will be used," he explained. "But when the disease is of such a nature that it can best be reached by the psychologist, the patient will be placed under the care of these specialists."

CHAPTER 55

The Poker Game

(All rights reserved.)

Curtiss Dall sat in a chair, his head erect, facing the canvas upon which Eleanor was painting his portrait, while his hands were busy shuffling a deck of cards. The girl was putting the finishing touches upon the facial expression and she declared that he could move his hands as much as he pleased, as long as he faced her so that she could study his varying moods.

Sitting opposite Dall behind a little table were Chub Bobbit and Stutterin' Sam, while Ted Seaton stood nearby watching silently as the three men matched their wits and skill.

The yacht had passed through the Suez canal and into the Mediterranean and was approaching Smyrna. It was in Smyrna that John Finch, Inc., had secured the best grade of opium for import into the United States and for manufacture into morphine, heroin, codein and other preparations. The market for the Smyrna stuff always had been good.

Despite the loss of Ho Fat Sen, Dall's plans were moving along famously and he was correspondingly elated. When pleased he played poker recklessly far into the morning hours, much to the delight of Stutterin' Sam. Chub "sat in" occasionally on borrowed money but Ted steered clear of the game, being quite content to study the various plays and players.

It was Sam's deal. As Dall passed the cut cards to the gunman, Ted saw that the ace of spades was on the bottom of the deck.

The stutterer's long, deft fingers caressed the playing cards, which flew around the circle in a stream until each man had been dealt five. Sam's hands moved so rapidly it was impossible to follow them.

"Open for $50," said Dall, shoving a stack of blues into the pot.

"I pass," said the fat man.

"Raise the openers $100," droned Stutterin' Sam.

Each man drew two cards, and the betting became even more interesting. Ted approached the table. There was nearly $1500 in the pot. It was the biggest wager of the evening.

The youth glanced toward Eleanor. She was oblivious to the play. She stood back from the canvas and looked at it critically, a frown creasing her brows. Evidently she was dissatisfied with her work.

"I call you," said Dall, coldly, throwing his cards face down on the table. He had three kings.

Sam flipped his own hand on the green baize and raked in the money. There were three aces. And one of these was the ace of spades.

Stutterin' Sam was playing crooked. He had dealt himself the ace of spades from the bottom of the deck. He was fleecing Dall by the time-worn stunts he had learned in the Mexican gambling joint.

Dell apparently suspected no trickery. He took the loss lightly. A few hundred dollars was nothing to him. Ted turned on Chub. The fat man was looking at Sam intently. There was an inscrutable light in his baby blue eyes and he puffed out his cheeks and grimaced as if he were indulging in thoughts that pained him exceedingly.

"Sam," Ted called, sharply.

The stutterer did not look up. Ted had warned him on another occasion against cheating He had pointed out that Dall was a dangerous and relentless man to deal with and that he would fight if he found that he was being fleeced Sam had laughed and had referred to his own prowess with the six-shooter.

"What's the matter with you Seaton?" demanded Dall.

"Come on Sam, Let's go for a stroll on deck,' insisted Ted, paying no heed to his host's question. "Lay off the poker for the evening."

Chub Bobbit pushed his chips toward Dall, the banker of the game.

"I'll cash in," he proposed "You loaned me the money, Dall Keep the chips."

"What's the matter?" asked Dall "It's only 11 o'clock."

Bobbit yawned and rose ponderously.

"Tired," he said, shortly. "Goin' to hit the hay."

But he did not go to bed Instead he stood around, watching the two men try to bluff each other out on nothing at all.

Eleanor was entirely oblivious to the tenseness of the situation. Apparently she was absorbed in her work.

Ted walked across the salon to a point from which he could see the painting on the easel. There was a lull in the play. A two-handed game of poker is a difficult thing to negotiate. The action had become uninteresting

Seaton scrutinized the canvas It contained an excellent likeness of Curtiss Dall, showing him as a big, hearty, wholesouled American, a very handsome, strong featured fellow, a successful business man of the "hundred percenter" type.

A mirror in a door near the easel reflected the face of Eleanor and Ted fell to studying her profile. As he looked the figure of a Chinese coolie carrying a rifle was mirrored an instant and then disappeared. It was one of Dall's sailors. He had just passed the stateroom door.

But why should Dall arm his men with rifles? There were two possible answers. Either he knew of the plot against him or he was [illegible]

Ted glanced toward the card table to find Dall regarding him covertly. The Colonel had been facing the door when the rifleman passed. Undoubtedly he had seen the fellow and perhaps he suspected that Ted also had glimpsed him.

Young Seaton casually moved up, until he was standing almost immediately behind the girl, and pretended to be greatly absorbed in the portrait.

"It is a finished masterpiece," he remarked. "You need not do another stroke on that canvas. It is wonderful just as it is"

Eleanor wheeled on Ted, irritated. He had asked her not to speak to him. Now he himself was trespassing on this taboo

Dall slid from his chair and came toward them.

"That is just what I told her several days ago" he declared. "But she insists that it needs retouching."

The girl threw a drape ove. the canvas as the Colonel joined them.

"I told you, you could not see it again until it is completed," she declared, petulantly.

Dall chuckled good naturedly nudged Ted in the ribs with a warning against getting married and returned to the poker game

Ted also turned his attention to the contest. Dall's actions were most puzzling.

There had been a hidden meaning in his smile when he discovered his wife tearfully appealing to Seaton. His present attitude was friendly, disarming and yet disquieting at the same time.

Seaton noted with amazement that the millionaire had stacked the deck against his opponent. Probably he was prepared to give Sam a poor hand and force him to cheat again. Perhaps the Colonel was doing this merely to precipitate a conflict.

"I believe I omitted telling you that the body of Ho Fat Sen was found in Calcutta," Dall remarked, casually, as he pushed a pile of white and red chips into the pot.

Eleanor stopped her work and looked up.

"Why Curt!" she exclaimed. "When did you hear that?"

"Received a cablegram at Bushire," he answered.

"What happened? Did you learn details?"

"He was shot," declared the Colonel crisply. "Be careful there, Sam. You are spilling your chips on the floor"

Eleanor came over to the table and stood by Dall.

"Tell me about it, Curt," she persisted. "How did it occur?"

"Did you ever see a .45 calibre bullet, my dear?" asked the millionaire.

"Why no!" she replied surprised "What a strange question!"

"Well, they took a .45 calibre bullet out of Ho Fat's head—— after he was dead."

Dall leaned across the table and seemed to see Stutterin' Sam clearly for the first time. Ted noted a merciless light in the Colonel's eyes.

Sam's colorless orbs dropped before the black ones of the big man. His hands were trembling. Done had broken the nerve of this gun fighter.

Stutterin' Sam hunched his shoulders twisted his neck and permitted his eyes to roam around the room, until they rested appealingly on Ted Seaton There was fear in them. The killer's lips twitched

"I believe you tote a 45 gun," persisted the yacht owner. "Mrs Dall would like to see one of the slugs"

ENGLAND BEATS SPAIN'S GREAT FLEET.

You can be sure that the king of Spain did not like the idea of having the English steal his American treasure When he saw that Drake was not punished, but honored, he became more angry than ever Orders were given for a great Spanish war-fleet to be got ready

The new Spanish fleet came to be known as the "Invincible Armada," which meant "the armed ships which couldn't be beaten" Another name of this fleet was the Great Armada. We shall use it because it is more simple—and truthful

It took Spain six or eight years to get the Great Armada ready for war. During that time, Drake [illegible] also captured a large ship returning to Spain from India. It was loaded with spices and jewels. Even more important, it contained maps showing how to get to India by water. These maps helped the English to get started trading with India.

At last the Spaniards were ready with their giant fleet. It sailed to the British Channel, to punish the English for all the [illegible] by Hawkins, Drake and other British pirates.

On the first day of the battle, the Spanish fleet was much larger and stronger. It had 128 large ships against 54 smaller ones The English [illegible] enough not to risk too much fighting until help came Within a few days, the number of English ships had passed 150

Before the fighting began, the crew of each Spanish ship knelt down and prayed They "begged the Lord to give them victory." The English sailors also prayed that they might win

As time passed the fighting grew hotter and hotter Night came [illegible] after day, it went on cannon and muskets flamed, crashed and cracked. Now and then a ship went to the bottom, amid the groans and shrieks of its sailors. The decks of other ships were strewn with dead and dying. Blood flowed in such streams that it sometimes dripped over the sides of a ship, making crimson streaks.

Seven days passed, and then [illegible] victory for the English. The [illegible] fleet "which couldn't be beaten" was driven to flight. Only a small part of it ever got back to Spain.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE [illegible]

Uncle Wiggily was hopping down the front steps of his hollow stump bungalow one morning before school when he saw Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, with something black and shining Sammie pointed it straight at the bunny gentleman.

"Look out, Sammie! Be careful! [illegible] Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose very fast. "I know you don't intend to pop at me with that gun, but it might go off by accident Be careful!" he cried.

"This isn't a gun, Uncle Wiggily!" laughed the rabbit boy.

"What is it then?" asked Mr. Longears. "It looks like a black gun with a shiny place for the bullets to pop out."

"It's a machine for taking pictures," answered Sammie. "It is called a camera. I am going to take your picture and show it to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School."

Uncle Wiggily stood up on a flat stump, straightened his coat, rubbed his paws through his ears and smiled. Sammie pointed the black, shiny camera at his uncle, pressed a little jigger that made a click and then the bunny boy said:

"Now your picture is taken."

"May I see it?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh, not yet!" exclaimed Sammie. "I have to take the camera in a dark room with a red lamp and lots of things have to be done before you can make the picture come out. Anyhow, I have to go to school. But later on I'll show you the picture I took, Uncle Wiggily."

"Thank you," spoke the rabbit gentleman. "And I'll hop along to school with you, Sammie. For I want to see the Lady Mouse Teacher. I am going to ask her how many apples you can buy for ten cents when sugar is fifteen cents a pound."

"That's a hard example," said Sammie slowly. "But the Lady Mouse Teacher is very smart." Then he and Uncle Wiggily hopped on to the Hollow Stump School.

"Oh, it's Uncle Wiggily!" squeaked the Lady Mouse when she saw the bunny gentleman. "Won't you come in for a little while? I'll have the boys and girls sing for you."

"Thank you, I am very fond of music," answered Mr. Longears. So he took his place on the platform with Miss Mouse. The animal children were just singing the song about "Good morning! Good Morning! Good morning to you!" when, all of a sudden, the door of the school room opened, and in stalked the Bushy Bear.

"Shuffle! Uffle! Uff!" his broad heavy feet slid across the room, and the hungry eyes of the bear were fixed on Uncle Wiggily's ears. The red tongue of the bear stuck out over the edge of his sharp teeth and he growled:

"Now for some nibbles!"

"Oh, poor Uncle Wiggily!" whispered the Lady Mouse, for, being the teacher, she was allowed to whisper in school.

But, just as the Bear reached over to nibble the bunny gentleman's ears, Sammie Littletail, the brave rabbit boy stepped out in the middle of the aisle near his desk, [illegible]

"Stop!"

"Who wants me to stop?" snarled the Bear.

"I do! And if you don't stop I'll shoot you with my black gun!" cried Sammie. With that he pointed the picture camera at the Bear, and the Bear, knowing nothing of pictures, really thought it was a gun.

"Oh, you're going to shoot me, are you?" growled the shaggy creature.

"Yes, I am!" shouted Sammie. "Here I go. One! Two! Three!" With that he pressed the jigger which made a clicking sound. At the same time Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, threw a spelling book at the Bear. And as the spelling book had in it a lot of hard words they hit the Bear on the end of his soft and tender nose and hurt hi mvery much.

"Oh, wowzie! Zowzie! I'm shot! I'm shot!" howled the Bear. "If I had known you a had a black gun I'd never have come to school!" And then out he ran, not really shot at all, but very much frightened. And so he didn't nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears after all.

"But I took the Bear's picture and I'll give it to you if you want it, Uncle Wiggily," said Sammie.

"Thank you, I don't believe I care for the bad old chap!" laughed the bunny gentleman. Then the school children sang a song. And if the ice pick doesn't tickle the bottle of milk and make it turn a somesault in the refrigerator, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the pinching bug.

Today In California History

By Thomas S. Miller

An Unknown Singer.

JUNE 8.

THE dominant figures in California's history are discoverers, conquerors, governors, captains of industry, financiers, law-makers. It must be so with a new land. The arts follow on later Yet was it not wisely said long ago, "You make the laws of the people, if you will let me write their songs" He who moves the hearts of men moves the world. He is the real civilizer.

In the eighteen forties a strange troubadour wandered among the scattered settlements of Northern California. "Don Quixote," they call him, and no one is more welcome at the ranches and in the camps. He carries a key-bugle in a wildcat skin tanned with the hair on, and no Paganini ever treasured a Stradivarius more carefully. Approaching a long fort or farm the troubadour blows a simple, sweet melody, picked from the humming of some homesick woman from the East as she works about the home; a cradle lullaby or old-time folk song, to which the minstrel add variations of his own To the exiles the tune is a strengthening gladness. Don Quixote is invited in, to stay as long as he likes; called in and treated like an equal, for all that his skin is nearly as dark as an Indian's.

Who is this Don Quixote, of whom one who knew him and often delighted in his bugle tunes says, "His vanity is equally divided between his music and a long moustache of very thin hairs, curling upwards at the ends in sharp points He is tall, graceful, and with a commanding presence, and is very amiable. He wears a claw-hammer coat with double rows of brass buttons, whilst his silk handkerchief makes him quite a dandy amongst our buckskin crowd. His tribe is very proud of his music" His tribe! Yes, Don Quixote, welcomed everywhere into the family circle, is an Indian. The muse knows no class or cast. Don Quixote is a Wally Wally Indian, and the Walla Wallas are prouder of him than of their war chiefs or medicine men. Such is the power of music. But how came he by his bugle and gift? He happened to hear an old trapper blowing a melody on a bugle, and was so entranced, so fired in spirit, that he bought the instrument with a beaver skin, and with the trapper for teacher he soon mastered a repertoire of simple tunes. These he improvised on, and thus became California's first composer.

You Can Bear Up Under Anything If You Have the Backbone to Cultivate a Funnybone

PERHAPS the most important bit of philosophy that we ever acquire is when we learn not to take ourselves and other people too seriously.

IN PARTICULAR, when we have gotten to the place where we can see ourselves as a human joke, we can snap out fingers in the face of fate. We have achieved the great emancipation. We are encased in an armor against which the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune fall back blunted and broken. We are free.

WE do not have to be continually on our guard to maintain a dignified pose, because we have arrayed ourselves in the fool's motley by choice. We do not have to make martyrs of ourselves being consistent because we frankly admit that we change our minds as often as we do our clothes. We do not have to pose as something we are not, because we have never climbed up on a pedestal.

ALSO we deprive our family and friends of their favorite indoor amusement by confessing to our faults and acknowledging our peculiarities. For there is no pep in criticizing an individual who is amused at your stabs, instead of wincing and weeping under them. There is no fun in laughing at those who laugh at themselves.

NOTHING saves us from such aggravation of spirit as not to take ourselves too seriously. There are no people so miserable as those whose self-esteem is a passion that consumes them. Every moment of their lives is poisoned by the fear that they will not get all that is coming to them. Their presence at a dinner table, their being put on just the right committee, their being invited to a small party instead of a big one, the size type in which their names are printed in a newspaper are world-shaking incidents to them And if, by chance, we call such a one captain when he is a colonel, or mistake Mrs Smith for Mrs. Brown, or spell a name wrongly, or forget just what honorary letters of the alphabet go after it, we have made an enemy for life.

YOU can never explain to those who think they are the hub of the universe that the balance of the universe doesn't spend its time watching how they revolve.

The only way to save your vanity from being continually wounded in a world that is so busy getting there itself that it doesn't notice whose toes it treads upon is not to have any vanity. If you don't think that you call for any kowtowing from your fellow creatures, or expect them to get out the band and beat upon the cymbols at your approach, you will find that most of the people you meet are ready to fall on your neck in sheer gratitude. We all get so tired of the egotists whom we have to be always fanning with hot air.

WHEN we learn not to take ourselves too seriously we have found a panacea for trouble. We no longer say: "Why should my heart be torn with this grief and loss? Why should I be called upon to bear [illegible] I should be so afflicted? But we say: "Why should I, of all the myriads of men and women in the world, be immune from the common lot? Why should I be exempt from sorrow while my brothers and sisters weep? Why should not my back be bowed to the same load under which others must stagger? Why should I be blessed above all others on earth? And the realization that we are just one of the great suffering, sorrowing, struggling mass silences the whine on our lips and gives us courage to fight on, instead of running up the white flag of surrender.

THE greatest cross in life is having to live with uncongenial and disagreeable people. It takes less grit and fortitude to meet a great crashing sorrow than it does to bear with patience and courage the fretting and nagging and complaining of some member of our own household.

They are the little pin pricks that drive you to desperation, and the only remedy for the situation is not to take them seriously, and to try to get a humorous perspective on the situation.

AFTER all, a nagging wife who tells a man twenty times a day for forty years not to smoke in the sitting room because it scents up the carpet, and who admonishes him at every meal not to eat the things he likes because they are so bad for his stomach, is funny. So is the husband who goes poking around in the ice-box, and snooping in the garbage pail, and who never fails to ask why his wife is wasting the bread, and doesn't pare the potatoes thinner. Aunt Jane's fussy little ways and Uncle John's eccentricities about food are a scream. So is the way mother and father hand out advice to their middle-aged children about everything they do. It is having to endure wife's nagging and husband's fault-finding: it is having to put up with Aunt Jane's whims and cater to Uncle John's peculiarities and endure father's and mother's perpetual meddling, that takes all the happiness out of life for thousands of people and drives them to nervous prostration. Their only hope is just to laugh instead of gnashing their teeth, and to try to see their old men or women of the sea as figures of fun instead of torturers.

FOR, after all, there is lots of tragedy that we can turn into farce if only we have enough backbone and funnybone to do it.

BILLY BECKWITH

A Red Man With a White Soul

A True Story Early California

By Dorcas James Spencer

Billy's habitual care reminded him that these long summer days should be used for providing a shelter from the storms sure to come with the winter. He would have a house, not the "xonta" of his people, built over a deep, square excavation in the earth, where they might retreat from the heat of summer, or build their fires in the chill of winter, but warmed by a chimney, like a white man's home, with a real window, and a door on hinges, that a man might walk in and out, instead of the round hole through which they used to crawl in and out of the old Indian houses. It was the supreme test of skill in building to make the entrance to the dwelling as nearly a perfect circle as possible, like the entrance to the woodpecker's nest. Its scant circumference was sometimes inconvenient, for after a feast in the "xonta" it might be difficult for an overfed guest to pass out; provision for such contingencies was made by having two small upright stones firmly set in the little paved space before this opening, that the stout party could seize with his hands and help himself out.

This did not meet Billy's advanced ideas; his family should have a suitable home. He was a past master of the handicraft of Indians, and possessed some few of the tools of white men. Material was abundant and varied; a goodly straight cedar was already marked for the first victim of his ax. Chopped into convenient lengths, the primitive elkhorn wedge and stone hammer would serve to split it into slabs that would make a roof, while the slender young firs and spruce trees could be used as logs for the walls of the house, the hazel bushes were throwing up the long shoots the women used for their baby baskets, and these would be the green withes that would bind all the parts of the little structure together.

This ambitious scheme engaged his hands for many weeks but did not absorb his whole attention. The vague anxieties that prompted this migration, were dispelled by the eager acquiescence of his wife in his plans. It evidenced to him that he had no rival in her affection; he was pleased with her contentment; it assured him that she was safe from the influences he had dreaded.

Alice was diverted as a child would be, with Billy's pursuits and strolled about with the little girl toddling at her side, and the baby still carried in its basket, while she gathered berries or other edibles, idly wondering why Billy should always be so busy.

When the little house began to take shape it gave the couple a mutual interest. Alice helped to gather stones for its chimney, and brought mud in baskets to fill its interstices, as slowly it arose, absurdly disproportionate to the small building, of which it nearly filled an end.

Billy counted its width a convenience, for the Indian practice of making a small fire merely to superheat the stones, that, dropped into a basket of water boiled the "sanow" at a safe distance on the hearth, while the warmth and smoke of the chimney would dry the salmon or venison that he proposed to hang in its farther side.

The chimney was undeniably the climax of achievement, but Billy would have a window and a door to get these into place, nails and a saw were requisite, and to procure them, a visit to the Post Trader. Impatient to complete his task, he rode the friendly mule over the pathless hills to intercept the reservation trail, and following that, secured the desired necessities, and saw again the same conditions he had known before; the squalor of an indolent, aimless, and hopeless existence; idle soldiers sauntering about, and here and there among their lazy elders a young girl with a half breed baby.

GERALDINE FASHIONS THE HOME

A Surprising Reformation

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

WITH his face cut by a pane glass through which he had dived head foremost, hatless, and filled with fear, Cuthbert Cameron raced on the moonlit trail out of Minden and into the forest. Pausing only when exhaustion made progress impossible, he pushed on all through the night. In the morning he went swimming in a creek, sought out a secluded place for a nap, and vowed with worthy emphasis:

"Never again will I be a burglar."

* * *

The reformation of Cuthbert Cameron, it may be said in all fairness was the greatest triumph of Minden's Reform League and yet one which could not be called premeditated.

"A place can never be too small to be bad," he said, "and it is our duty to uncover the iniquity, silence the traducer, and overwhelm the unrighteous." The club nodded in assent and decided Ellery, with his side-whiskers and his gift of oratory, was one of the finest citizens of which the town could boast.

"The trouble is," Mandeville Flood complained, "Minden does not appreciate what she has in Ellery. It is time the League showed him some evidence of its esteem. Now, I am in favor of a testimonial."

"We might give him a watch," suggested the other but Mandeville, after dividing the price of a good watch by the numbers in the league, hesitated.

"I figgered," he said, "on a surprise party. The women could bring cake." Mandeville as a bachelor, was thus absolved from any share in the expenses.

The League descended upon Ellery's home one evening when they knew he was working late at the office.

"I just had to pursuade him to stay down town," the flustered wife explained, "and all the time I was afraid he would find out about this. Now we will all go into the parlor and sit there in a circle. When Ellery comes he will think I am in the kitchen. He'll come in and we will light the light and surprise him. I know it will be a wonderful success."

Solemnly the party waited.

"I have always felt some day I would be a burglar," he said. "The school teacher predicted it and everybody in my home town had the notion. Yet except for a few vegetbles out of gardens here and there, my record is clear. Tonight I burgle or starve and this is the most likely place."

Cuthbert stepped lightly on the Walker porch. He tried the door and felt it give. Then, on strocking feet, he moved noiselessly across the hall and into a room. It was pitch dark. Cuthbert listened; he would have to strike a match. He heard a rustle as if someone were changing his position. The burglar sensed the presence of someone else, of many people, and stood stock still, stricken with terror.

Somebody giggled and whispered: "He's here." A light went on to a chorus of delighted shouts from the surprise party—shouts which changed to squeals and gasps when the startled burglar was revealed.

Then it was Cuthbert Cameron dived out of the window and raced for the woods. The reformation had been complete.

The STORY of JACKIE COOGAN As Told By His Mother

To Zoe Beckley

ON GOING TO BED.

Jackie's worst naughtiness has always been trying to elude the sand-man. I suppose all children hate going to bed early, especially active imaginative children. We have always had to do battle with our small boy on this issue, and the first New York trip made him in this respect worse than ever.

When half-past seven came around, Jackie was too full of the day's doings to want bed. He would think up a thousand things to delay the awful moment and occasionally [illegible] win out.

"Daddy," he began one night at exactly 7:30, "why do I have to go to bed so early?"

"Because you are a small boy. Youngsters need sleep to grow on. You want to grow, don't you?"

"Of course. But I was talking to a boy today who acts in a show. He never goes to bed till past [illegible]—and he's all right—tall and healthy and everything."

"That," said Dad, "has nothing to do with your case."

"He sleeps," pursued Jackie, who had already gained four minutes' time, "in the day."

"You can't sleep in the day. But even if you could, it's the night sleep that makes kids grow and be strong and husky. Now run along to bed, Jack. Good-night."

A pause, then:

"Daddy."

"Yes, son, what now?"

"You always say there are exceptions to everything. Couldn't I—"

"Now stop arguing, Jack. You promised your mother and me you'd be good about going to bed before eight. On your honor."

"Far-ther."

"Now Jackie—"

"Far-ther, I want to make a suggestion. Me and Muddi were talking about promises once and Muddi said that if you have to break a promise you go to the person you made it with and explain about it and prob'ly you make a new kind of arrangement. He gives in a little and you give in a little, or he does something you want him to and you do something he wants you to, and you make a new arrangement and it's—"

Father now becomes quite stern. He rises, without smiling. Jackie knows this means the termination of the argument. He makes, however, one last attack.

"Daddy—you and Muddie always say listen to both sides—I want to tell you something—I want to tell you something you don't know, Daddy—something you want me to do! Please will you listen just a second, Daddy?"

When Jackie takes this earnest tone and looks at us with solemn eyes, following our own line of argument and actually imitating our mannerisms, it is sometimes more than human nature—parent human nature anyhow—can bear. Mr. Coogan kept his face straight and politely, as man to man, agreed to listen "for just one second" to his son's proposal.

"Fire away," said he, "and be mighty quick about it."

"If you'll let me sit up exactly half an hour, Daddy," proposed our young hopeful with superb gravity, "I will take that dose of castor oil without making any fuss about it."

The two stood there a moment facing each other. Then abruptly Papa Coogan thrust out his hand. Jackie, in his best red-blooded he-man hero manner, grasped and shook it.

Without another word, the bargain was sealed.

Friendly Things

As slowly—
I go down the road—
To where there is a cushioned seat—
Within Life's shade—
Where for an hour I may enjoy—
Fond memories that never fade—
Before the end—
I find that old familiar haunts—
A surcease brings—
I love the soft appealing touch—
Of friendly things—
A blazing fire place to a youth—
Means just a fire—
And with its bright and soothing charm—
He soon will tire—
But in its depths one growing old—
Sees soft eyes glow—
And faces that peer out at him—
The faces that he used to know—
Hold him within a trance—
He could not nor he would not break—
While shadows dance—
The rocking chair that has withstood—
Time testing years—
Holds in its soft enfolding arms—
A rest that cheers—
There may be chairs of luring grace—
But still no chair can take its place—
And satisfy—
When one is growing old—
Inventive minds have paved the way—
That makes of household work but play—
Just touch a match and lo a flame—
A fire's a fire by any name—
But still old folks ne'er seem to tire—
Of sitting by the kitchen fire—
Where they can hear the crackling wood—
For somehow it feels—as it should—
A friendly thing—
And doctor's ways have changed apace—
They lead the startled old folks now—
A pretty race—
With high blood pressure—tonsil talk—
And germs of every kind that walk—
Right through one's system without leave—
And there abiding makes one grieve—
A doctor now comes on the scene—
Surrounded by a limousine—
And shoots much virus in our veins—
To kill the germs and quiet the pains—
He says the germs he shoots in our veins—
Will bite the other germs in two—
And leaving says—"Just have this filled—
Your run-down system it will build—
Sig—MZX—qui—nux—gig—lux—RXY—ten bux
But somehow old folks who have ills—
Just stick to their old-fashioned pills—

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

An Old Friend Comes Back to Us

The reader with a good memory may recall that some months ago I offered in this symposium a little anecdote of the young lady at the summer resort who, on a glorious summer evening after giving the beauties of the firmament her cordial endorsement, turned to her male companion and said:

"Science is so wonderful, don't you think? I just dote on science; I never get tired of hearing about it. Just think how much time and how many brains it took for the astronomers to figure out exactly how far it is from here to Mars, and how many miles away the sun is, and what the size of the moon is, and all that. But to me the most wonderful thing—the thing I never could understand—is how they ever found out the right names of all the other planets."

The same young lady has been talking again. Just here the other day, I heard of a remark delivered by her across the luncheon table.

"Oh, I'm so glad that I don't like beets!" she exclaimed. "You don't know, really you don't, how glad I am that I don't like 'em. Because if I liked beets I'd eat 'em—and I hate 'em!"

Listen, World!

HOW GENEROUS WILL SHE DARE TO BE?

YES, the following is a true letter. It came this morning with the name and address given. As you read it you're going to recognize some of your own thoughts with a start of surprise. For this letter holds ideas which have come to all of us yet which few of us have dared express.

It is a brave analysis of modern marriage by a married woman. It is an answer to those idealists who refuse to see anything save love in marriage and who feel that the present form of marriage gives a woman her greatest freedom and protection. Yet—how free is a woman to answer the dictates of her own heart when another pays her bills? How generous dare she let herself be if her generosity leave her penniless? How unsullied is her love by commercialism when love means bread and butter to her?

Such searching questions does this letter answer. Humanity has pondered over these questions for a very long time. At last a generation has arisen which is asking them audibly—noisily—and will not be put off. Can you answer them? I can't. But we at least can be honest and brave enough to consider them:

Dear Madame:

"You speak so often of 'generosity in marriage'—of a wife proving the greatness of her sacrifice. But how can wives afford to be generous under the economic conditions of our present form of marriage?

"It is not always a matter of love being 'a greater adventure' and of the noble wife or husband being willing to let a discontented mate embark on that greater adventure. The marriage pact is nearly always practically a business partnership.

"[illegible] years of endeavor, men or women see another trying to creep into the home or business—another who never could or would have the ability, perseverance or grit to acquire success or create a real home—another who plainly would reap what another has sown.

"I have heard of certain wealthy people who decide that both husband and wife shall keep their own home. I believe they come a great step nearer to uplifting the marriage state, if it were only economically possible to follow their lead.

"I can imagine a woman in her own home [illegible] which ensures her independence becoming aware that another woman is making advances to her husband which he reciprocates. In deciding what step to take, this wife's mind would not be blurred by thoughts of the instability of her economic position. She could use clear judgment about fighting to retain the love or companionship of her mate.

"How many women would let the loved one go, proudly hiding the ache in their generous hearts if they and their children would not starve by so doing? How many would stand on one side with scorn, contempt or real pity in their hearts for a weak and changeable nature—if they dared?

"The marriage state has yet to be evolved. We know the legal bonds of marriage are still necessary to protect the weak against those who take base advantage of their strength and for economic reasons, but we know even those whose religious principles keep their lips sealed [illegible] no religious ceremony ever did or will make a marriage holy.

"When men and women learn to govern their own selves and so become strong enough to eliminate the bonds as unnecessary—either legal or holy—they can use the power lying in each one's own soul to make marriage the ideal state we now dimly realize it could be.

"MRS. I. G. S."

(Copyright, 1923)

'Cynic' is with us again with some opinions on chivalry and foreigners and things in general. They're good opinions, too, although [illegible] is working that vampire complex of hers overtime as regards R. V. L. Cynic has had a pretty hard time of it in life (she was a waitress) but it has broadened her viewpoint wonderfully save in one respect. She still persists in seeing woman as the Pitiful Victim and man as the Black Hearted Scoundrel. Don't you think that one who has fed 'em both cornbeef hash would [illegible] that they're pretty much of a [illegible]. However she can keep right on having all the Scoundrels she wants if she'll continue to give us such fine letters as this.

Dear Jerry:

Will you let me correct your impression of my last letter? What I meant in regard to sewing machines was in Continental Europe. All I know about it is what women from there have told me. They were women of the peasant class. I got my ideas of English husbands from what English girls have told me. It is a fact that a woman can't divorce her husband except for infidelity and cruelty. That is, he can beat her up, or chase after other women, but unless he combines the two, she has no redress [illegible] will compel her to live with him, or go to prison. I said 'Western States' when I referred to our laws.

I'll now give you the low down on this chivalry stuff. In 1923, as in every other age, there has been two kinds of chivalry. 'Wanderer,' 'G. G. Parker' and 'American Man' are exponents of one kind [illegible] that a Southern Woman told me 'enabled her dad to stand for half an hour with the rain beating down his old bald dome, while he chewed the rag with some woman' yet when a woman left a brute of a husband let the husband keep the children and let him (hubby) swear out a warrant for the arrest of anyone who helped the wife even to the extent of giving her a job to earn her food.' That is the [illegible] where a man can divorce a woman like 'Ruth' if he learns of her mistake previous to her marriage, also that brand of 'chivalry' permits a man, who can bow a paw and scrape to a woman 'of his class' and then insult a girl who is now [illegible] for her living, but lets him 'respect' a parasite.

'Californian' your letter is great. A. B. C. expresses the attitude of this 'chivalry.' His chivalry is the sort that passed a law that a husband should receive the property of his wife when he married 'because the possession of property tends to destroy her helplessness, which is her chief charm.' Kentucky and I believe that Delaware used to have such a law. I'd see a man in H—— before I'd marry him in one of those states. This chivalry is responsible for the Louisiana law permitting the relatives of a dead man to take the children from the mother if she remarries.

'California' says men like 'G. G. Parker' are over sexed. Those men can't think of a woman, except as a female animal, and have nothing except an animal attitude towards her. That's what ails R. V. L. and when his wife got tired of his selfish beastiality he ran after a worm, and of his own type. These men are not so numerous [illegible] Jerry. We waitresses are the 'Soldiers of Fortune' of the world, and see all types of men, and only a small minority have that attitude. Most of them are strong for the second kind of chivalry. The second kind passed the eight hour law for women, gave the ballot to us, passed decent labor laws protecting children, in installing public clinics and passed a fair community property law in California, just a few weeks ago. This second chivalry considers a woman a human being. Only a humble bank clerk, Sweet Kelly, [illegible] classes. Of the large number of men I know only one belongs to the [illegible] and the other men make fun of him. His kind weep for the priceless old fashioned woman. Sure she was a priceless jewel, so was a house negro previous to the Civil War, only instead of selling their children men like R. V. L. desert them if they have the courage. He didn't because he is too big a coward to face the men of the second kind of chivalry, so he whines instead. A. B. C. says that women take after anything with money. It would take a whole lot of money to attract any woman except a fool to you, old dear. Your stuff about a woman's purpose is to allure is one reason we prefer good jobs to marrying trash of your kind. It gives me a pain to hear a thing of A. B. C.'s sort [illegible] about 'virtue' in women. Who [illegible] on women's immorality? [illegible] such a scum as he. Just as long as [illegible] degenerates of his type put a financial value on that sort of thing we will be unfortunate women who will sell out when they are starved to it.

If a man was hungry and could sell his body for a meal he wouldn't [illegible].

The reason Christ came on earth [illegible] because his Father knew better than to trust the body of a woman with just such scum as A. B. C. [illegible] and a few other shining lights, as this column possesses, for the laws of those days gave women's bodies absolutely no protection.

As far as heroic war veterans are concerned I'll bet Edith Cavell [illegible].

An 'American Man' we women did not associate with foreigners much during the war because said aliens were mostly in the army. If you only took the trouble to look up the draft board lists. My then hubby went, and all his in-laws of service age went, and the [illegible] old boy of our family tried to get in on the 18 to 45. Of the men I know who have medals, one is Italian, one Greek and one Irish. I know one fine Armenian lad who is in the army now. I've lived among Armenians, and if they got a square deal they'd do better. After you've been mawed around by the Turks for a few centuries it's hard to collect a better viewpoint. As for aliens being scurvy, I'll bet a whole lot of Americans couldn't get by the physical exam. at Ellis Island. They are mighty particular.

'Vive la Paghetti,' says I, Jerry. I've dealt with lots of aliens, particularly 'Wops'—how I hate that word. Even the humble fisher folk are a kindly, courteous lot. They compare very favorably to our own citizens. I knew some American boys of Portuguese parentage who are the salt of the earth, and some Italians and Greeks who are the finest ever. Race, color, creed makes no difference. I got my lesson on religious toleration years ago. A Buddhist H. S. teacher of mine had occasion to attend our church with his little boy. I was ushering, and as they came in he whispered to his child 'Take off your cap and move [illegible] this is a place where many good people come to worship the God they believe in.' Why can't we be as tolerant as that? I guess, Jerry, this is too long to print.

I think a 'Mere Man's' letter was fine, only maybe you misimaged that part about women grabbing 'soft jobs.' I think he may have worked with office parasites that expect someone else to do all the unpleasant work. I've worked with that kind. Girls who feel abused if they have to take their turn sweeping out or cleaning silver.

CYNIC.

You're mistaken about the home conditions in England and on the continent, Cynic. The women who gave you such information must have been of the very poorest peasant classes. Also the divorce laws in England have been greatly changed since the war. They are much better now than the laws in one of our own states—South Carolina for instance where divorce cannot be obtained even though the wife has proof that the husband is living with a mistress and the fact is generally known.

The Adventures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy

RAGGEDY ANN had made a very good Magician out of old Mister Hokus for, when he magicked the roller coaster and the merry-go-round and the sliding board and all the other swings and things for the kind little men, everyone, not only the Raggedys and [illegible]

Raggedy Ann had made a very good Magician out of old Mister Hokus for when he magicked the roller coaster and the merry-go-round and the sliding board and all the other swings and things for the kind little men, everyone, not only the Raggedys and Granny Bun and the Snoopwiggy and the Waggy [illegible] but all the little woodland creatures as well played upon the magic things and had a very happy time.

In the evening [illegible] made a whole lot of magic pop corn balls, pink ones and white ones and many [illegible]

And while the Raggedys and the Magician and all the kind little men and the little woodland creatures were playing upon the merry-go-round and other things and were laughing and shouting and having a lot of fun, Raggedy Ann looked over towards some bushes and saw the old Witch standing there watching them. [illegible] Witch is trying to make the Magician's magic quit working! [illegible] these nice things will disappear and the little man and the little woodland creatures will not have a thing to play upon!'

So Raggedy Ann hopped from the merry-go-round and ran over to where the old Witch stood. 'Please, Missus Witch,' Raggedy Ann said, 'Do not unmagic the Magician's magic, for if you do, you will spoil everybody's fun!'

[illegible] Her eyes were filled with tears and there was a lump in her throat.

Raggedy Ann took her nice clean hanky and wiped the old Witch's eyes. 'Now I'll bet you feel better! Don't you?' she asked as she put her rag arm around the old Witch's shoulder.

"I heard all the laughing and fun going on so I came to see what it was!" the old Witch said, "And it made me feel very, very sad when I saw what nice things the Magician had made for all the woodland creatures and to think how hard I had tried to keep the Magician from working his magic. So I just stood here and cried and cried!"

"Well! Don't you cry any more!" Raggedy Ann laughed. "Just you come along and hop on the merry-go-round and see how much fun it is!"

At first, the old Witch didn't want to do this, but Raggedy Ann took her arm and pulled her right over to the merry-go-round and found her a seat upon a shiny white wooden horse.

"Whee!" the old Witch cried, when the music started and the merry-go-round went around and around. "No wonder everyone enjoyed it so much! This is the most fun I've ever had!" And she laughed and yelled just as happily as anyone else.

Then, Raggedy Ann took her to all the other things and she enjoyed them as much as she had the merry-go-round. "Do you know what," she said to Raggedy Ann, "After this, I shall never use any kind of magic except to bring pleasure to someone else, cause just look at the nice Magician, and you can see that he is getting as much fun out of these nice things as anyone else!"

"Indeed, Missus Witch, that is quite true," Raggedy Ann replied, "If you just try it, you will soon find out, that whenever you do something kindly for another you plant a seed inside your heart which grows into a happiness blossom, and for every speck of fun you give another, you receive an echo of that fun yourself!"

"I'm going over by that big tree and try to think of something nice to magic for everyone else!" The Witch laughed, "Just you wait, Raggedy Ann."

My Marriage Problems

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of Revelations of a Wife

I stayed in my own room all day winnowing over the things Dr. Pettit had hinted although I despised myself for the petty suspicions I could not control. Katie, still hoarse and palpably nervous, brought up my meals. Junior and Marion ran in and out at will; my father left Tom Chester's bedside long enough to sit with me a bit and assure me that the boy who [illegible] so much was practically out of danger, and Lillian kept a close but unobtrusive watch on my welfare.

My mother-in-law I did not see, and had not seen since her outrageous outburst of the night before concerning our giving shelter to Tom Chester. That Lillian eventually would placate her I was sure, but every fibre of independence in me rebelled at the idea that it was necessary to mollify her. I was glad, indeed, that she did not come near me, for my nerves were still raw and quivering from the harrowing experience of the night before, and I knew I would need all my composure for the coming interview with [illegible] with the possibility of [illegible] Katherine.

To say goodbye to my little [illegible] beside her would be an experience which I knew would tax me greatly. To face my mother-in-law's temper beforehand would be unendurable.

It was after eight in the evening when Lillian came for me.

WHAT MADGE FEARED.

I obeyed her and found that she [illegible] the warm house and took Dicky's car from the big barn. To my relief the garage man had found it but slightly damaged by my wild ride from the hospital, and the arrangement of its curtains made a much better screen for the tonneau than I was able to effect upon my own [illegible].

"Which way [illegible]?" I asked, as we climbed into the car, she to the tonneau and I to the driver's seat.

"South on the [illegible] road until you are within a few rods of the turn to the Head-of-the-Pond road leading down into Watermill," she directed. "Dr. Pettit, who knows every inch of all the territory, selected the spot. You remember it, don't you?"

"Perfectly," I rejoined, for I had driven several times over the lonely but charming road in the daytime. [illegible] anything but charming when I had turned into it however, for one of the damp, heavy fogs, almost a London "Particular"—which characterize the east end of the island began rolling in from the hollows before we had gone a mile from home.

"This is simply peaches and cream for our stunt," Lillian said [illegible] her voice abruptly changing, a worried intonation. "Will you be able to see the road?"

LILLIAN DIRECTS DR. PETTIT.

"I have to," I returned shortly, for I had driven in fogs before, though never at night, and I realized that I was in for a bad time. "[illegible] your coat more tightly around your throat and get into the front seat with me. I'll have to put up the windshield, and you'll have to watch the right side of the road while I watch the left, so that we don't stray into the ditch. It's abominably easy to get off the road when these come [illegible]."

She did as I asked her promptly and without comment as is always her wont, and for the next half hour we fairly crawled along the [illegible] at times completely shutting off any sight of the road.

"We won't be there at the hour you named," I said once worriedly.

"Don't let that worry you," Lillian returned. "Dear little Herbie is an anointed idiot about some things, I grant you, but he is a [illegible] to emergencies. He knew the minute we expected to meet him. Depend upon it he will discount this fog and time himself accordingly."

That she had judged the physician correctly I realized when, as we neared the appointed place, the headlights of another car turned into our road and in another minute halted as we did with just enough room between us to open [illegible]

And then Katherine, shrouded in mourning garments, leaped from the other car into ours, and Lillian said authoritatively:

"No use driving further in this, Dr. Pettit. Just find a place where you can get so far to the side of [illegible] car will ram you, and then turn off your lights. We have a good spot right beside us here, and Madge can do the same thing. And if a car does pass by and spots us, ten to one we'll be taken for a petting party or a hooch distribution."

BERKELEY PREPARING FOR TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Berkeley Club To Show New Tennis Style

Speed Boy Racquets Was Originated by Some California Men

By MYRON TOWNSEND.

Tennis, new style, is an American invention. Hard-hitting Yankees with the punch in their service have revolutionized the sport.

It is well to review the historical background of the game. It is divulging no secret to say that it had its beginnings in England years ago. Conservative Britishers originated the first rules just fifty years ago. They prescribed the size of the courts and drafted the first regulations for the conduct of the game. They also became clever exponents of the old style game. Too clever in fact for Yankees of former days.

BRITISHERS ON TOP.

For fully fifty years the British were the reigning monarchs of the clay and grass courts. Americans couldn't quite approach them in all around proficiency. The tradition that the British were on top the heap in tennis and golf came to be widely accepted because it was so. Most American players accepted the general dictum that they were inferiors.

The American game wasn't quite up to British standards. But this wasn't always to be. Adventuresome Yankees were analyzing the old style game and discovering its inherent weakness. After thorough investigation and frequent beatings, they came to the conclusion that the British game was too slow! They concluded that their only chance was to speed it up!

Phlegmatic Englishmen, who don't take sport too seriously, manifestly weren't the ones to revolutionize tennis. This left the task to the American radicals. Sportsmen on this side of the water have been the great experimenters in sport. Ever and always they are seeking to improve a game. This criticism holds good about baseball, football, tennis, golf, boxing.

NO CHANGING GOLF.

The ancient Scotish game of golf couldn't be tampered with. The rules of St. Andrews still hold. After many experiments the Yankees were forced to accept the rules as they are. They simply practiced and concentrated. They devoted hours and hours to mastering the fine points of putting and other departments of the game. They couldn't change its essentials or fundamentals.

Not so with tennis! Realizing that the game was too slow, the Americans introduced the element which has revolutionized the sport. That element is speed! After Richard Sears, a five-time champion, had originated volleying, that is returning the ball before it bounds, Maurice McLoughlin of California made another important contribution, cannon-ball service.

At first Britishers, unconsciously regarding tennis as a leisurely sport, objected to vollying on the ground that it wasn't gentleman like to flurry one's opponent. Likewise, McLoughlin's crashing, smashing attack discommoded and confounded desciples of the more leisurely game.

TWO WHIRLING DERVISHES.

William T. Tilden and "Little Bill" Johnston, whirling dervishes of the modern game, and knockout artists with the racquet, jumping about the courts like Jacks-in-the-box have added still other strategic moves which have accelerated action. It is the same old power, momentum, punch, coupled with quick-thinking, which has made America first in pugilism.

As General Forrest said, the winner in sport is the man who "gets thar fustest with the mostest men." Men here may be interpreted to mean punch or power. In tennis, Americans have the rare combination of speed, punch and power, and they strive to "get there with it fust."

EDWARDS MEETS THYE.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Billy Edwards, claimant of the hight heavyweight wrestling championship of the middle west, will meet Ted Thye of Portland here tonight.

"Are there any records of a baseball player changing from a right-handed to a left-handed thrower?" G. F.

There is no record of such a thing in the past, but Riggs Stephenson, Cleveland infielder, is trying to do it at the present time. He is a fine fielder and a great hitter, but an injury to his shoulder sustained in playing football handicapped his throwing so much that he is learning to throw with his left arm.

Marathon Golf Record Is Set By Houston Men

HOUSTON, Tex., June 8.—Dan Kenney, formerly professional at the Tyler Country club, and William Lundberg, professional at the Glenbrooke Country club, set a new world's record for marathon golf here yesterday when they completed 216 holes. The match started at 4:20 a. m. yesterday, headlights from automobiles being used to light the first fairway and tee. At 8 p. m. the last hole was completed, it being necessary to use flashlights to locate the cup which the golfers were putting.

Kenney played the 216 holes in 957 strokes, while Lundberg had a total of 1008 strokes. On the first nine holes of the seventh round Kenney turned in a par 35. On the first nine of the last round he turned in a 36, the same score made by both golfers for the first nine holes. Kenney's average for the day was 39.8 for nine holes while Lundberg's was 41.7. Kenney had an average of 4.4 strokes per hole for the day.

At the close of the play both golfers stated that they could continue for at least two more hours. Aside from blistered feet no ill effects were felt.

Sammy Compagno and Mickey O'Donnell will box the main event at San Mateo next Thursday night.

Frankie Farren and Willie Hunefield have been signed to box at San Jose next Tuesday evening.

MARYSVILLE, June 8. — The Neustro Gnats bit the pie out of the Hammonton Nuggets in a fast ball game at Hammonton. Wilie Balks Over Sale to Little Rock

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Denny Wilie, Oakland outfielder who was yesterday sold to the Little Rock Club, is not anxious to leave the Coast League and has protested about his sale. Wilie has been in the P. C. L. circuit for a number of years, and in that time made many friends. Denny believes that he is still good enough to be of value to one of the seven other clubs besides the Oaks.

Denny has been slow in rounding into form this season, but maybe if he did get on with another club, he would hit his stride. Denny always gives the club owners the best he has in him, and fans of Oakland regret to see him go, but at the same time they expected something of this sort to happen.

SEALS SIGN YOUNGSTER.

The San Francisco Seals announce the signing of another young ball player whom they hope will be a big star some day. He is Eddie Montague, a 16-year-old lad, a product of Golden Gate Park. He is a third sacker and a student of Polytechnic High school.. Kamm recommended the kid to the Seals last winter. George Alfie Putnam secured the youngster's signature to a contract.

Justin Fitzgerald, Frank Schulte and Harry Wolter, three veteran Coast and major league players, were talking the other evening at Fresno while waiting for a train to bring them home from a San Joaquin Valley League game. They hit on the subject of heavy hitting in the Coast and major leagues. They have come to the conclusion that the Coast League must have better hitters in it these days. Their reasons are that all the pitchers say that the ball now being used is not built to stand the wallops of the old balls of a few years ago, and that the pitchers are about the equal of those of five years ago. Wolters and Fitzgerald spoke more on the Coast League hitting because they were in the league much longer han Schulte.

ALL THREE SATISFIED.

All three of the veterans are satisfied to be out of professional ball. Schulte is holding down a good job at the Standard Oil Company in Richmond, playing in the Twilight league. He also plays in the Valley league on Sundays. Fitzgerald has given up the carpenter trade and is now a prominent real estate man at San Mateo and playing Sunday ball in the valley, while Wolters still has his laundry business and also plays in the valley.

Big 'O' Awarded at Oregon Athletes

EUGENA, Ore., June 8.—Baseball and track men at the University yesterday were awarded their official "O" for their work this season. Baseball men honored are Baldwin Shields, Brooks, Latham, Svarverud, Ross Zimmerman, Roycroft, Sorsby, Cook and Collins. Track men receiving their letters are: Larson, Oberteuffer, Spearow, Boyles, Risley, Peltier, Lucas, Hardenberg, Kamma, Hunt and Palmer, manager.

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL.

A putting and approaching contest was held at Berkeley yesterday by the women members, in which 18 entries were received. The first green was selected as a suitable test for mashie approaching, and also a severe test for the average putter to negotiate. Mrs. C. B. Joeckel, with a score of nine, secured first honors, playing the regulation three approaches she was on the green each time and putted out in par figures. Mrs. H. A. Hodges was second with one stroke more than the winner.

Tournaments at Claremont, Berkeley, Sequoyah and Diablo are still on. Semi-finals of seven flights will be played at Claremont tomorrow, when the winners will be sure of securing one of the many beautiful trophies presented by the club for winners and runners up.

At Sequoyah on Saturday and Sunday, the Directors Cup contest will be played at handicap, and a good entry is sure to be received. The course is in splendid condition at present and low scoring is always possible if the player avoids the rough. Steve deserves great credit for the present condition of the greens and fairways.

The Diablo golfers have reached the final stage of their club championship, during which many interesting contests have taken place. Roy L. Pratt and W. D. Gould are the finalists for the championship, and a thrilling finish over the 36-hole route is looked for. Henry K. Jackson and W. L. Dinwiddie are the finalists in the second flight, both players have shown great improvement over their regular game in the previous rounds, and a close finish is expected. The third flight final was concluded last week-end. Work on the new 18-hole course is progressing in a satisfactory manner. William Watson is determined to make the new Diablo championship course one of the best in the state, and he is receiving the cooperation of the club officials in carrying out the scheme successfully.

Major Leagues

The noble Giants dropped their first series of the campaign when they lost to Hack Miller, Charley Hollocher and the Cubs, in toto, 9 to 7. Miller's homer in the seventh tied the score and his double in the eighth won the game, while Hollocher obliged with five hits. Meusel smote two home runs in a lost cause.

Smith's single and Blade's triple produced the only run of a ten-inning pitching duel, involving Jeff Pfeffer and Jimmy Ring, the Cardinals nosing in, 1 to 0.

The Indians made six hits and as many errors and assisted by the pitching of Edmonds and the fielding of Fewster and Collins found no trouble in losing to the Red Sox, 7 to 1.

Reno Racing Stakes Are Announced

Beginning Saturday, June 9, the Silver State Jockey club will hold its annual spring and summer horse racing meet in Reno as scheduled. The meet will conclude on July 7.

General Manager William P. Kyne announces that there will be five stakes races. At the present time there are some 400 thoroughbreds on the track, including many of the best sprinters and distance horses in the country. The season's purses will total at least $80,000.

The stake races will be as follows:

Inaugural Stakes-claiming, June 9, value $1000, for 3-year-olds and upwards, mile and 70 yards.

The Sierra Nevada stake-claiming, June 30, value $1500, for 3-year-olds and older, mile and one-sixteenth.

The Independence Handicap, July 4, value $1500, for 3-year-olds and older, six furlongs.

The Au Revoir Handicap, July 7, value $1200, for 3-year-olds and older, five furlongs.

There will be eight races daily during the meet. The smallest will be $556.

Do You Know?

"What is the personnel of the National Advisory Board and how does it function?" F. B.

Commissioner Landis, John Heydler, president of the National League and Ban Johnson, president of the American League, make up the National Advisory Board. Its function is to advise Landis whenever Landis wants to be advised.

* * *

"Was it right for the New York Boxing Commission to force Eugene Criqui to post a forfeit that he would fight Johnny Dundee if he beats Kilbane?" D. F.

It was not right and was another instance of the commission exceeding its authority. The commission has no such jurisdiction over Criqui when he is the featherweight champion of Europe and the order perhaps would not hold if Criqui wanted to do anything about it. But he is a good sportsman and is saying nothing.

Boston Women Lose First Golf Matches

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—New York's contingent of women golf players today captured ten of the fifteen matches from Boston's representatives, thereby gaining a big advantage in the inter-city competition for the Griscom cup.

The outstanding performance was the contest which Miss Glenna Collett, national champion, representing Boston, won from Miss Alexa Stirling, former national champion, New York. Miss Collett was victorious one up in spite of Miss Stirling's consistent playing.

Fortune Is Won On English Derby

LONDON, June 9.—The first prize in the Calcutta derby sweepstakes, amounting to 74,000 pounds, was drawn by a resident of Zanzibar named Poole, who sold half his chance before the race, according to a Calcutta dispatch to The Morning Post.

Landis Declares 'Chicken' Hawks Is a Free Agent

ST. PAUL, June 8. — Nelson (Chicken) Hawks, first baseman with the St. Paul American association club, has been declared a free agent and ineligible to play with St. Paul, the New York Yankee and the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league during the rest of the 1923 season, it is announced. This information was received here today from K. M. Landis, basball commissioner, by John W. Norton, president of the Saints.

Hawks, with Vernon last year, was playing there "under cover" on a gentlemen's agreement between that team and Yankees. He was the property of the Yankees. The Saints bought him from New York, but the papers had to go through Vernon which involved technical difficulties which caused Commissioner Landis' ruling.

French and Doyle, two other Vernon players sent to the coast by the Yankees, also were said to be involved in the case.

Some things you should know about your heart

THE first thing a physician examines, when summoned, is the heart pulse. A normal heart will beat one hundred and three thousand times each day. You depend on it to beat every second of your life. You realize the heart should not have to overwork constantly to throw off blood impurities. It is impurities which increase the heart beat. More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. They mean more power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. This means freedom from pimples, from blackheads, from boils, eczema and skin eruptions; from rheumatic impurities, from that tired, exhausted, rundown feeling. Red-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you! S. S. S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced.

America Faces Defeat in Next Olympic Meet

NEW YORK, June 8. — Three years in succession the University of California has sent a small band of athletes eastward from the Pacific Coast to win the intercollegiate track and field championship.

That, in itself, is not an extraordinary feat, because two years before the Californians came east to start their run of three straight victories, Cornell had completed a high run of five championships in a row.

In winning the last three championships, California, however, should have given those who look forward to another easy victory for the American team in the Paris Olympics next year something to ponder over.

America, in the last Olympics, came out first principally because of her speed on the track and because a few veteran field performers were better than some of the Europeans who were just beginning to learn.

The California team this year won only three points in the track events and it follows without stretching a point that the Finns or the Swedes might do no better on the track and yet make superiority in the field bring about the same successful results at Paris that California was able to secure.

FINNS TO REPEAT.

Considering that the Finns are almost sure to repeat what they did in Antwerp in the javelin throw, the shot-put, the pentathlon and decathon and the distance events and that the Swedes are liable to do better in the sprints, the hurdles and the jumps, it follows that the United States cannot win the championship again on a few good sprinters, a hurdler and a pole vaulter.

In addition the California team has demonstrated three times in a row that might and power do not rest in numbers.

There were more coaches and officials with the 1920 American Olympic team than there were athletes on the Finland team and the Finns won as many first places as the Americans did.

Up to the present time it seems that the United States might be depending upon a few sprinters, a couple of pole vaulters, several hammer throwers, a shot-putter or two and some jumpers to win the next Olympic games.

FOUR YEARS OLD.

Pat Ryan, Pat McDonald, Matt McGrath, Dan Ahearn, Frankie Foss and some more of those valiant veterans who held their own in the field events at Antwerp the last time, perhaps will make the journey to Paris next year, is logical to figure that they are four years older, that they have competed very little since the last games and that they will be no better than they were the last time.

And it is the surest thing in the world that the young European athletes will be better! Sweden, Finland, Denmark, France, Italy and England have been working to develop since 1920, while the United States has gone along with that old American attitude—"we are good"—and has done nothing.

If the American Olympic committee proceeds upon the line that it is more imperative to assert its authority by fighting sprinters and swimmers who wanted to compete in Europe this summer than to get busy and work up some real American spirit Uncle Sam's team will come home defeated from Paris next year and the esteemed committee will [illegible]

* * *

California, as has been pointed out, demonstrated that brawn can triumph over speed, and Europe is full of brawn, while America still clings to speed

There aren't quarter-milers, half-milers or milers in the United States that have an even chance to beat what the European nations produced in the Antwerp [illegible] distance events, it isn't an even bet that America has a runner who can finish for a point.

If the American team can do better than hold its own on the track, the burden of proof will rest upon the field performers, and there is no preponderance of strength in the field in this country.

* * *

As was pointed out before the American Olympic team was organized before by a virtual blowing of the bugle, which assembled [illegible] notorious Princess Matoika sailed for Antwerp.

It will take more than a few political blasts in the bugle to get a victorious team to 'fall in' before the ship sails for Paris next summer

Willing to Go to Jail To Test Boxing Law

CHICAGO, June 8—Contending that the Illinois anti-prize fight law penalizes promoters and witnesses of boxing matches but not the fighters, James Mullen, promoter of the recent Bennie Leonard-Pinkie Mitchell contest which Leonard won on a technical knockout which was followed by a riotous demonstration by adherents of the fighters, declares that he is willing to pay a fine and go to a cell to prove that the law was unconstitutional.

Municipal Judge Barasa said he agreed with Mullen and continued the case until June 12, when he indicated he would find Mullen and John Callaghan, a spectator at the fight who also was arrested as a part of the test case, guilty after which the defendants could take appeal to the state supreme court for a ruling on the constitutionality of the law.

Sheriff Stops Bout For Being "Brutal"

HANFORD, Cal., June 8.—Joe Pruitt (Frank Ruffles) 187 pounds, Hanford boxer and George Gibbons [illegible] pounds, of San Francisco fought a four-round draw here last night as one of the events on the monthly boxing program of the Kings County Athletic Club.

One of the bouts was stopped by Sheriff W. J. Hume in the second round because he thought it was brutal. Battling McCumsey had been saved by the bell at the close of the first round and the sheriff, but he had not heard the gong so stopped the fight when the men stood up to fight for the second round. McCumsey's opponent was George Scobart, LeMoore.

Sheriff Shuts The Gambling Halls Up Tight

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

SHELBY, Mont., June 8.—When No. 1, the big train from the east, pulled in at sundown last evening and dumped a shipment of tenderfeet on the platform of the new yellow pine railroad station, the bad news was ready

SHELBY TAKES COUNT.

The news of the day was true; Shelby, a few days ago the widest open town of the great northwest, has taken the count from the law. If the long faces of the station loungers were not sufficient proof, the strains of a hymn floating up from a dirty, narrow street, where a group of camp singers gathered, was sufficient to show that someone had taken the wild and wooly out of the neighborhood. From the third story of a brand new building a few rods down the main street came the moan of a saxophone a little later in the evening, and the pan-pan of a piano and the ping-ping of a guitar floated from the King Tut dance hall, the only one doing business. A few dusty punchers with alkali caked boots did their idea of a toddle [illegible] looking dance hall girls, but that was all, and everything closed up at 9 o'clock'

A week ago, they didn't get going good until after 9 o'clock. The law, it seems, stepped in and stopped the excitement just as it was getting under way.

NO "WHEEL" TURNS.

"Them rounders did it," a native bartender, dispensing near beer in a mirrored cafe, moaned "A lot of squatters came in and started the wheel going and the cards shuffling and they didn't want to let the boys go to bed. Now we all got to go to bed"

But if it lacks the liquid veneer and high polish of frontier days, Shelby is a revelation of something of the days when we were beginning to think there isn't any such thing

On both sides of the main street of the town extend buildings that have been erected in as brief a time as ten days. Concessions, boarding houses, "rooms to rent" in endless succession, are packed in every available inch of Shelby until it has all the appearances of a Coney Island without the ocean On a corner is the new three-story brick hotel open only six days. Several others are ready to receive the fight fans as fast as they come.

HOUSES ON WHEELS.

Traffic during most of the day is halted or moves in slow jerks as a constant stream of houses are brought in on wheels from the surrounding country and set up in the first convenient vacant spot High values prevail. One house was offered for rent for $200 for the week of the fight

The arena where Dempsey and Gibbons will meet on July 4 is more than half completed and has been approved by the state fire marshal Tickets are going rapidly.

Gibbons sentiment runs high out here Tommy and his family (Mrs Gibbons and three small boys), established themselves in one of the best houses in the town The challenger's training camp is pitched within walking distance Tommy is doing nothing but road work at present; on his first day here he went 16 miles on the road and after dinner Mrs. Gibbons and her husband hit up a fast pace for three more miles across country.

Trade Hank Gowdy For Pitcher Barnes

NEW YORK, June 8.—The trade of Jess Barnes pitcher and Earl Smith, catcher for catcher Hank Gowdy and pitcher John Watson of the Boston club has stirred New York National fans

Smith has been in the bad graces of McGraw for some time He was recently fined $200. Watson is a fairly dependable boxman

Jess Barnes has 'gone back' [illegible] series in 1914 He was one of the first ball players to volunteer for the World War.

SACRAMENTO, June 8.—Charley Pick's Senators of this city city scored ten runs in the second inning of yesterday's ball game, and then they were lucky to get by without a beating at the hands of the Los Angeles club, as the ten were all the runs the locals made while the Angeles battled hard and scored eight. Both sides made fourteen hits The score:

Jimmy Murphy to Build Racing Car

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Jimmy Murphy, champion automobile racer of 1922, is in Los Angeles to supervise the building of a new car which he plans to drive in the race at Kansas City, July 4, and which he later plans to enter in the Grand Prix race at Paris September 9. He also is considering racing in England and at Barcelona Spain, after the Paris affair.

Murphy said he is especially anxious to win the Kansas City race so that he will have cinched the speedway championship of the Automobile Association for 1923. He is now leading his nearest competitor by approximately 200 points and he says he has his heart set on winning the 500 points awarded the winner of the Kansas City classic

Grist from the Sport Mill

BY BOB SHAND

FRENCHIE COALMAN has changed his mind about boxing again and now announces himself ready to meet all comers, Truck Hannah preferred Down in front of the West Oakland coal yard yesterday morning Frenchie told an admiring throng all about his battle of the previous evening and stated very emphatically that it was a series of lucky punches that put him down and that, if given another chance he will knock Hannah for a row of coal-yards.

The Coalman claims he had a truck out on the ropes and was ready to hang the finisher when Referee Billy Brackett in separating them grabbed Coalman's right arm. As a matter of fact Brackett showed excellent judgment and did not get within ten feet of the fighters, but as long as the Coalman has an alibi it is entitled to an airing.

Coalman Will Meet A Jitney Bus Driver

Chances are the Coalman will be sent against Nick Alexson, the demon jitney driver, at the next show while Hannah will be turned loose against George Gibbons. Promoter Simpson won't need much more than this to pack the Auditorium again. The Coalman got a wonderful hand for his gameness the other night and he promises to be just as good for at least a couple of fights unless he gets drowned. If [illegible] feller socks him on that wide open chin of his he's liable to drop kerplunk right into the middle of the lake However the Coleman declares Dempsey lost a few fights before he became the champion and he is willing to take a few beatings himself just to get the experience and prove to an anxious world that he can take 'em.

Tim Kelly is Being Sent Home to Folks

Tim Kelly the game Irish middleweight who got his start here is being sent home to his folks in the east after suffering the loss of his eyesight. Tim made many a good fight at the Auditorium and even though he lost most of his starts he always gave the fans a run for their money Tim's debut was spectacular. Frank Luscher and Jack Davis promoted a show at San Leandro and didn't draw enough to pay for the rent and [illegible] Davis had to box in the special event while Luscher went on in the main bout to save expenses His opponent was an unknown "some cherry picker from Hayward" The cherry picker proved to be Middleweight Tim Kelly while Luscher was but a lightweight Frank was game and took a chance. He was knocked down three times in the first minute of the bout and then knocked through the ropes for the finisher Later Frank Tabor took Kelly to New York and sold his contract to Leo P. Flynn. The latter soon turned the boy loose. Tim made his last appearance in the ring at a Hollywood show.

Battling Ortega Has Gone Very Far Back

Battling Ortega appears to be through when a busher like Cyclone Gavvy can knock him out inside of two rounds. A few years ago all the Gavvys in the world couldn't even worry Ortega but "them days are gone forever." The Battler has shot his bolt and is no longer to be feared. The old boy has had his claws pulled for like the others he still believes he can fight as good as he used to. And the Bat isn't alone in thinking he is still there. They're dusting off Ad Wolgast to box Battling Nelson in Los Angeles, and little Lee Johnson did a sensational come-back at Modesto the other night when he held the highly touted Freddie Bonillas even in four rounds Dan Beebe and other Modesto boosters of Bonillas want to start Freddie here, but he will have to do better than break even with a veteran like Lee Johnson, to get on the top of a local card

Few People From Here Are Going to Shelby

Most of the press matter coming out of Shelby these days should be taken with sacks of salt. For instance the yarn about an unknown middleweight smacking the champ at will and cutting him up is one of the prize jokes of the season and the attempt to make the rivals appear equally matched is on a par with the rest of the publicity. They simply must do something to make Gibbons appear to have a [illegible] Incidentally when they talk about fifty thousand people attending the fight they are using up a lot of useful cyphers. Where can they accommodate 50,000 people in a town with 200 buildings? Most of the patronage is expected to come from the Pacific Coast, and a careful canvas of sporting circles in San Francisco and Oakland reveals the fact that not more than twenty people will go from this section.

Brownhylda Is Winner of Oaks' Stakes

EPSOM, Eng., June 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Brownhylda by Steadfast out of Valkyrie, owned by Vicomte de Fontaria, won the Oakes stakes, the classic event for 3-year-old fillies run here today.

Sir Edward Hulton's Shrove was second and H. H. Aga Kahn's Teresina was third. Twelve horses ran The betting on the winner was 10 to 1 against, on Shrove, 100 to 7, and Teresina, 8 to 1 against. Brownhylda won by a neck and Teresina was only a head behind Shrove

F. Straker's Shri, ridden by the American jockey Archibald, and Lady Torrington's Polydara, with Steve Donoughue, the winning Derby jockey up, were unplaced.

This was the forty-first renewal of the Oaks stakes on 2100 pounds with extras, run over a course of about one mile and a half.

Rev. Ralph Spearow Elected Track Head

EUGENE, Oregon, June 8.—Ralph Spearow, a minister of the gospel, as well as Pacific coast's champion pole vaulter and high jumper, will captain Oregon's track team in 1924.

LIVELY BALL AND 'RARIFIED ATMOSPHERE' HELP BATTING AVERAGES AT SALT LAKE PARK

LAFAYETTE DRIVES IN EIGHT OF RUNS AND SCORES TWO HIMSELF

Nine Runs for Bees in Third Inning Fails to Discourage Locals and They Pound Five Hurlers for a Great 17 to 13 Victory.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 8.—Base hits continued to rain in all sections of the local ball park yesterday afternoon when the Oaks and Bees went out for their second game of the series, but this time it was the visitors who reaped the harvest and incidentally scored a 17 to 13 victory, evening up for the defeat of the day before. Manager Duffy Lewis of the Bees started out with Singleton on the mound, but before the smoke of battle had cleared, McCabe, Coumbe, Kallio and Myers all fired the horsehide at the Oaks, but without much success, as the visitors pumped out twenty-two base hits.

Ray Kremer stayed on the hill for the Oaks in spite of a shower of seventeen hits, of which seven were made in the third inning when the Bees scored nine runs to take an 11 to 6 lead. Manager Howard of the Oaks must have figured it was just as well to leave one of his "aces" out there to stand under the shower of hits as it was to use someone else, and by that way he would have all fresh hurlers to work today.

Oaks Fight Hard and Overcome Big Lead.

The Bees had a fighting chance until the ninth inning, when the Oaks were leading 14 to 12, only to have George LaFayette come to the plate with a full house confronting him, and crack out a triple that put the contest on ice. It was the fourth hit of the game for the big Frenchman. Chester Thomas continued his heavy sticking of the [illegible] and Cooper also has done his stuff in great style, getting three safe [illegible]. Ten Cather's homer over the fence with Cooper on the paths put the Oaks back into the fight when it looked like they were hopelessly out of it.

The Oaks opened the game with two in the first, LaFayette's double driving both runs over. The Bees came back with two in their half, and a blank was hung up for both sides in the second. Singles by Knight, Thomas and Brubaker, coupled with Arlett's double, Cather's sacrifice fly, and LaFayette's first of a pair of triples, gave the Oaks four in the third, and then came the Bees with their seven base hits that netted them nine runs.

Kremer's Hit Evens Score in the Seventh.

[illegible] with a single, and Cather then busted a homer over the left field wall. The Oaks were still trailing by three runs and the Bees added one more in the sixth when Wilhoit homed. Two more hits in the inning made it look bad for Kremer, but the Oak heaver [illegible] Coumbe.

Next came the old lucky seventh [illegible] four runs. Cather doubled [illegible] when LaFayette singled. Thomas' double [illegible] LaFayette, and after Brubaker went out, Maderas doubled to score Thomas. Ray Kremer was allowed his turn at bat, and drove a single over second to score Maderas with the tying run.

Kremer allowed one hit and nothing else to the Bees in their half, and his team mates came back in the eighth to break the tie by scoring a pair of runs. A walk to Whiteman, Cooper's double and Cather's sacrifice fly scored one and then Myers went in to pitch. LaFayette connected for a long fly that scored Cooper.

LaFayette Helps Locals To Score Ten of Runs.

In the ninth, Kremer started with a single. Knight fanned, and Whiteman singled. Cooper also singled to fill the bags and then LaFayette cleaned up the full house with his triple. In the ninth for the Bees Fredericks batting for Myers was safe on Kremer's muff of a throw from LaFayette, and Vitt scored him with a double. Then Lewis fanned to end the game.

LaFayette's two triples, a double, single and a sacrifice resulted in eight of the Oak runs besides the two that he escaped himself. The score:

Western Clubs Still Winning In the Majors

Cubs Take Two Out of Three From Champion New York Giants.

CHICAGO, June 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The temperature of the warm receptions they have been extending their eastern visitors was maintained yesterday by the western clubs of the National League.

The Cubs of Chicago made it two straight out of three from the New York Giants, 9 to 7, and sent the world's champions on to Pittsburgh. The Pirates were kept from roughing the Brooklyn Robins again by rain.

St. Louis and Cincinnati also won, the former again from Philadelphia 1 to 0, and the latter made it a clean sweep with Boston, 3 to 1.

If the Cubs can hold up they will add a lot of interest to the National League race. They should prosper at the expense of Boston, which starts a series here today, after its disastrous Cincinnati attempt.

Just now the National League is quite interesting. The Cubs have demonstrated that New York can be beaten. Five clubs—New York, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Cincinnati—have played better than 50-50 ball since the season started, all having won more than half their games. Chicago has lost only two less than it has won. Boston and Philadelphia are the easy marks of the circuit.

The Chicago White Sox were unable to continue their rampage against the New York Yankees because it rained in the fourth inning when the score was nothing to nothing. Philadelphia gained half a game on the Yanks by again trouncing St. Louis 8 to 5, and Cleveland pulled in its bid for second place by losing to Boston 7 to 1. Washington made it two straight from Detroit, 16 to 4.

"Irish" Meusel, of the Giants, by cracking out a brace of successive homers off Grover Alexander, accomplished a feat which no other player has ever been able to do during Alex's long career in the National League.

Sensational fielding by John Collins and Chick [illegible] and Ehmke's brilliant pitching was largely responsible for the Red Sox victory over the Indians.

The home run that Hack Miller, stout Cub batsman, [illegible] game against the Giants sent the ball into the hands of a 14-year-old school boy fan.

Depositions will be taken on June 14 and the case will come up on June 25.

Giants, Yanks Disgust Other Club Owners

New York Clubs Running Away With Pennants in Both Leagues.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Something is going to be done about the New York monopolization of world [illegible] in restraint of trade.

A tornado conjured up by mid-westerners is again forming as the Yanks lead their nearest opponents by 1.4 points and the Giants have a lead of 155 points in the pennant race.

These runaway races following two consecutive world series between the New York club are not helping pocketbooks of the other magnates as the figures plainly show. Nor are they increasing interest in baseball throughout the country.

The insurgent owners have tried matching New York at its own game of pouring money into a baseball machine but that hasn't helped any. Comiskey ground up thousands of greenbacks in a meat chopper. He figured to turn out a money-making ball club but he got only—hash.

Willie Kamm would have been worth $100,000 to anyone else but he hasn't cashed a cent for the White Sox, who still are languishing in the cellar with prospects that they will remain there. There is even talk now that Comiskey is sick of the job and is willing to sell his [illegible].

Meanwhile the Yanks and Giants continue to run away with the pennant and the money. Both apparently are in a class by themselves and seem destined to stage a third consecutive [illegible] world [illegible] New York unless [illegible] something is done.

It took the International League club owners several years to break up the Baltimore team which had run away with things in that circuit and hurt business in other towns. The movement against New York has been under way for some time, but the rumble is becoming a roar and the roar threatens to be in eruption.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Cy Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals, this season's home run king, who retired in the fourth inning of yesterday's game with St. Louis after complaining [illegible] As[illegible] Press last night he probably would be out of the game several days.

Wrigley Must Bare Seattle Club Secrets

Federal Court Orders Him to Testify Under Oath About Ownership.

Answer under oath questions concerning your alleged ownership of the Seattle club is the order of the United States district court of Los Angeles to William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Chicago Nationals and the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League club; Charles K. Lockard, former business manager of the Los Angeles club and now president of the Seattle club; Wade Killefer, former manager of the Angels, now secretary of the Seattle club; John J. Sullivan, attorney and stockholder of the Seattle club, and J. H. Patrick, president of the Los Angeles club.

Heretofore the foregoing baseball men have refused to answer questions about the ownership of the Seattle club. Now they will have to or be in contempt of federal court.

WRIGLEY MUST TESTIFY.

Harry I. Stafford, President William H. McCarthy's attorney, secured a subpoena duces tecum in United States court directing the persons cited to appear in Los Angeles next Thursday. If Wrigley denies jurisdiction, his deposition must be taken in Chicago or wherever he is.

Furthermore Stafford secured an order from the court directing the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies to deliver all telegrams bearing on the sale of the club to the court.

Los Angeles and Seattle banks are also ordered to produce their books, papers and correspondence relating to the purchase, sale and transfer of the stock of the Seattle club. Stafford demands access to all these papers so that the real ownership of the Seattle club can be determined.

MAY BARE SECRETS.

Uncle Sam's drastic order to Wrigley and his associates may bare Pacific coast league secrets and show whether or not the publicly made charge of "syndicate ball" is true or false.

A similar federal court order will be issued in Seattle to bring the Seattle crowd into court. The original order was made in Los Angeles because it is the home of Patrick, Killefer and Lockhart.

Having ignored President McCarthy's request to answer questions, Wrigley and his associates will now have to tell what they know under oath to the federal court. The present owners of the Seattle club will simply have to show where they got the money. If it is Wrigley's money the charge of syndicate ball will be proved.

Low Priced Rails Seem to Be in Favor With Buyers

ENGLAND BUYING GREAT STORES OF CALIFORNIA OIL

Low Prices Affording Opportunity to Conserve Supplies for Later Times.

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS
Special to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Fear for the life of the goose that lays the golden egg, is having a marked effect at last in cutting down the tremendous oil production of the California fields. Only sixteen new wells have been started in that section in the last week, the lowest number begun in any similar period since January 1.

In the meantime, Great Britain, taking advantage of the slash in prices which has already taken place, is buiying immense quantities of California gasoline and light crude oils and storing for future use, at the same time conserving her own supplies in expectation of a future shortage in world supplies, which oil men here declared today was sure to come. This fact was established by reports both here and abroad today.

MORE CUTS SEEN.

Conservative bankers and oil producers in Califorina stated today that a further cut in crude oil prices was bound to come and predicted a price as low as 25 cents a barrel unless those producers who have not heeded the warning, curtail operations until the huge surplus of California oil is reduced.

The larger California companies are pinching in most of their wells in an effort to help the situation and rushing work on new storage facilities to the utmost.

Strong pressure on the producers is being exerted by business men and bankers in that state who point out that cupidity might bring disaster to an industry which yields the state over $265,000,000 annually, employs 75,000 workers in the southern fields alone and involves an annual payroll of $95,000,000.

Drilling in the Pennsylvania and mid-continent fields has been checked to some extent, but not to as great a degree as expected.

In the meantime, gasoline consumption is increasing and automobile manufacturers are determined that it shall not diminish if production of new cars and selling efforts can keep it up.

AUTOMOBILE SALES.

Manufacturers are watching closely the results of the plan for selling Studebaker cars on a $10 weekly payment plan put into effect by the Newark, N. J., agency of that company. The plan in general resembles the Ford $5 a week bank deposit plan, which gives purchasers possession of the cars while paying for them. It is expected that if the Newark experiment proves successful, the Studebaker company and others will adopt it to a widespread degree.

Immediate slackening of activity is not expected, according to many large makers. E. S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company of Cleveland, said today that from present indications the demand would be maintained at least through June and July with a possible lull from late in July to September.

"Manufacturers generally centered their programs of production with July 1 in mind," he said. "They are now making their plans for the second half year and because of labor conditions operations are expected to be continued on a moderate scale during the summer with an increased production after September 1. Demand for closed cars is now close to 75 per cent of production throughout the industry. The supply of bodies is still short. Warmer weather has stimulated buying of open cars and we look for good business in June and July."

BUSINESS REPORTS.

George W. Booker, president of the F. B. Stearns Motor Company, when asked about material prices, said: "I do not know that we will realize much of a reduction in materials but we find that they are easier to get than they were. Our May [illegible] than that of April, but we ran to capacity both months."

In the opinion of Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car Company, the present year will be a record breaker in every line of industry. He has just completed a survey, directed by means of a questionnaire to leading business men in every section of the country, which showed, he declared, that [illegible] never faced a more [illegible] for business. The answers indicated that demand for automobiles would keep up without abatement.

W. P. to Inaugurate New Freight Service

The Western Pacific Railroad, in connection with the Missouri Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroads, will operate a through transcontinental freight train from St. Louis and Kansas City to California and Nevada, beginning Monday next. This train will leave St. Louis at 8 p. m. and freight will be ready for delivery at San Francisco bay points the ninth morning.

Heretofore, the railroads involved have handled local and transcontinental freight on this train, but the increase in tonnage makes necessary the establishment of a through fast freight service.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

By H. S. SCOTT.

Having given little expression of opinion regarding the new German reparations note in the previous session, stocks on the New York Stock Exchange today were equally noncommital in the early dealings regarding the likelihood that France would reject Berlin's latest offer.

Wall street felt that the terms suggested at least opened the way for renewed discussion, and the active issues showed a disposition to await further developments in the direction before passing judgment.

Some recessions took place among the industrial leaders because of the falling off in the reserve ratio of the federal banking system, but prices in the market as a whole showed no important changes from the previous close.

There was a resumption of yesterday's selling in the oils and motors. Studebaker dropped a point but low priced rails were in fair demand at advancing prices. Coca Cola duplicated its previous high on a gain of one point.

New high records for the year were made by Pere Marquette and Schulte Stores. Steel and Tube preferred jumped nerly si points and Adams Express moved up 2½ in reflection of the increased dividend. Equipments turned heavy. Pierce-Arrow issues yielded materially to selling pressure. Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower.

Buying of non-dividend paying railroad shares to the virtual exclusion of almost everything else and selling of the recognized industrial leaders were the dominant features of the morning dealings. Gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by thirteen low priced carriers. Investment rails were more quiet. Woolworth jumped five points and Schulte 4. The selling was most effective in the higher priced oils, food and motor shares.

American Express broke six points, Atlantic 5, Union Bag and Paper 5 and California Petroleum 2⅜. New lows for the year were established by International Harvester common and preferred, American Express, Wells Fargo Express, Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred and Wilson Packing. Call money opened at 4¾.

Dealing in the low priced rail shares and buying of some of the public utility and merchandise issues served to impart a steadier tone to the early afternoon dealings. Recoveries, however, in California Petroleum and some of the earlier weak features were slight. Underwood Typewriter advanced 4½, City Rapid Transit, Public Service of New Jersey 2¾, Colorado Fuel 2⅝, and Associated Dry Goods 3¼.

Announcement of the suspension and receivership of L. L. Winkelman & Co. was followed by considerable offerings of many stocks on the New York Curb with numerous transactions made to close out contracts under the rule. These operations had an influence in unsettling the trading situation, but losses in most cases were confined to small fractions. After midday a better feeling prevailed in a number of issues and trading increased in volume. Armour & Co. preferred held firm.

Western Feed, a new comer on the curb, was in supply at a decline.

Standard Oil issues were generally lower, Anglo-American selling down to 15¼ and losing all the gain made recently when there was heavy buying for foreign account. Prairie Oil was one of the weakest in this group, selling down to its previous low.

Standard Oil of Indiana was traded in on a large scale and showed a loss. A fractional loss was sustained in Standard Oil of New York while Vacuum Oil also sustained a decline. Maracaibo was one of the weakest features in the independent group, falling over 1 point under large sales.

Heaviness of French municipal bonds on cable reports indicating rejection of the ltest German reparations offer was the feature of today's early bond dealings. Losses of a point or more were registered by Lyons 6s, Marseilles 6s and Framerican 6½s. Serbian 8s continued their rise to higher ground, establishing a new top at 78, up 1⅛.

U. S. government bonds showed moderate improvement. The general list was unsettled, but there was good buying of some of the speculative railroad mortgages, particularly Frisco adjustment 6s and income 6s and New Haven 7s, each up about a point. Changes in the industrial group were fractional.

[illegible] STILL CAUSES SKEPTICISM.

The position of agriculture in the readjustment of price levels has been the one thing to foster a skeptical view of the prosperity movement and to retard full belief in its genuineness. The farmers' bloc was the first to crystallize in congress and out of this has grown the radical tendencies which seem to threaten in legislative matters, such as the endeavor to terminate the life of the Transportation Act, to cut down valuation of railroads radically, etc. Aside from these artificial threats, the question of over-production presents itself on the economic side.

Manufacturing capacity during the war was so heavily increased in some lines that it was supposed consumption would never be sufficient to absorb the output at the full. This absorption, however, has taken place pretty generally, but how long our internal demand can take care of the enormous production without a heavy expanse in foreign demand for our goods, is a question. It certainly cannot continue to do so indefinitely, especially if mounting costs, mainly through wage increases, continue. Still, if the country could be run at only 75 per cent or 80 per cent of its capacity, (which would be more than 100 per cent on a pre-war basis) and if the price of farm products could be advanced to place them on a level with the prices of other products, with all costs stabilized, especially those of labor, we would have the basis of a prosperity which would last many years. The "ifs", however, must be faced, and considerable readjustment will have to be effected before any such condition can prevail.

Nevertheless, the halt which caution has produced in the uprush of prices will have the tendency to prolong the present business cycle, but much will depend upon the crop results this year in bringing about such a prolongation, and from now on, the weather—that evasive and undependable factor—will have a great deal to do with the future of quoted values.

FUTURE OF PETROLEUM INDUSTRY IS ASSURED.

In view of the trend toward reconstruction and stability throughout the world, slow as the progress may appear at times, there is no industry that is likely to feel the stimulating effect of improvement so much as that associated with the production and distribution of petroleum and its products. The world needs steel, copper and other basic materials, but there is none which apparently has such possibilities for expansion as oil. In the present industrial age, liquid fuel will continue to assume a position more and more commanding. The conversion of the merchant marine of the world to the burning of oil instead of coal, the increasing demand for lubricants, and finally the use of gasoline to provide power for the growing millions of automobiles, point to requirements becoming continually more insistent.

The demand situation in petroleum has been considered chiefly from the standpoint of the consumptive requirements of the United States. This probably is no more than natural, as we are the largest users of petroleum products. The time is coming, and the date is not far distant, when we must take into calculation the increasing needs of the rest of the world. The situation, therefore, should be considered in this respect also.

LABOR RAPIDLY BECOMING FACTOR IN BANKING CIRCLES.

One of the constructive movements undertaken by labor is the establishment of a number of what are called "labor banks" banks in which the capital is furnished nearly altogether by labor associations. The movement started in 1920, when the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Co-operative National Bank was established in Cleveland. This was organized by the Locomotive Brotherhood, as indicated in the name, has $1,000,000 capital stock, and, according to the Department of Labor, which has compiled statistics of these banks, has a reserve of $15,547,402. This bank is reported to have been quite successful. It paid one per cent extra interest on deposits last year.

The International Association of Machinists, in the same year, 1920, established the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, Washington, D. C., with a capital of $160,000. This bank has a reserve of $2,689,182. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has been the most active in this movement to organize labor banks. In 1921 they established the People's Co-operative State Bank, with $50,000 capital and $250,000 reserve. The Brotherhood has bought an interest, said to be a controlling one, in the Empire Trust Co. of this city, which has a capital and surplus of $4,584,000, and deposits of $47,049,000.

In 1922 seven labor banks were organized in the following places respectively: Chicago, Philadelphia, San Bernardino, Calif., Tucson, Ariz., Birmingham, Ala., Three Forks, Mont., and Spokane, Wash. Twelve labor banks have been projected this year and some of them are already in operation. The aggregate of capital, so far as stated, amounts to over $4,000,000. The Index, (published monthly by the New York Trust Company, says of this movement:

"The professed motive back of the formation of these banks is 'to give labor control of its own funds.' Among bankers, the disposition is to approve these experiments on the ground that the greater responsibilities labor assumes and the more experience it gains, the greater will be its understanding of business and banking problems. As to the success of labor banks, this obviously will be determined by the kind of management applied to them; they will succeed or fail for the same reasons that produce success or failure among all financial institutions."

7000 Lose All They Invest in Shasta Co. Mine

REDDING, Cal., June 8. — The property of the Afterthought Copper company of Ingot, near here, went on the block for sale at the courthouse as a result of what was described as a friendly suit decided in superior court yesterday within [illegible] heard, in which judgment for $672,481 was given against the company in favor of Forest P. Tralles to whom had been assigned the interests of the estate of the late John T. Milliken, wealthy mine owner and oil man of St. Louis, Mo.

Milliken, according to the testimony, advanced $1,191,459 to the Afterthought company, $994,158 being under the head of operations. It was his money that built the big oil flotation plant and electrolytic smelter at Ingot.

It is stated here that as a result of the legal processes in which the company has been involved, 7000 stockholders will lose all the money they invested in the property.

NATIVE FACTORIES OF BRAZIL DOING GOOD BUSINESS

Livestock Industry Improving; Argentine Trade Reported Depressed.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Native Brazilian factories are doing good business, says the Department of Commerce. The livestock industry is improving, except in Rio Grande do Sol, and increased exports of meat are promised in August.

There is great activity in the babassu market in the northern states of Maranhao and Plauhy. Exports of babassu nuts from Maranhao during the first four months of 1923 amounted to 8,500 tons, as compared with 2,000 tons during the corresponding period of 1922. Considerable quantities of bananas are being shipped to the Argentine. Oranges are also being exported to the River Platte countries in good quantities. An American firm is being formed to export Brazilian fruit to the United States and to import American fruit to Brazil.

IMPORT MARKETS.

The import market suffers more and more from the further decline in exchange and there is small prospect of any early improvement.

The automobile market, however, continues active, mainly for medium-priced cars. The price of one American car in this class has been cut to 12,000 milreis, while the price of two others has been advanced to 13,500 milreis. Imports at Rio de Janeiro and Santos during the period from May 1 to May 24 amounted to 88 American cars and eight from other countries. The market for American tires has suffered from the reduction in price of a French make.

There is little activity in building and construction except in Sao Paulo, where offices, warehouses and factory buildings are being put up in considerable quantities. Work on two of the five irrigation dams being built by an American company in north-eastern Brazil, has been suspended.

The government meteorological bureau reports most of the new crops to be in excellent condition. This applies especially to cotton, rice, cocoa, and coffee. The survey of the Brazilian minister of agriculture, industry and commerce estimates the 1923-24 sugar crop at 10,673,500 bags. Santos' share of the 1923-24 coffee crop is variously estimated at from 12,000,000 to 18,000,000 bags.

Depression in Argentine import and retail trade continues. Stocks though not large are generally well proportioned to the demand. Importers report active demand for agricultural implements, owing to the generally favorable outlook for agriculture. The weather has been good and it is unofficially estimated that wheat and linseed acreage for the next crop will exceed this year's area by 10 per cent. Other active import lines are American automobiles and small tractors, and drugs, chiefly from Germany and France, due to low prices. Germany has also been placing a quantity of cheap hardware in the market. There is little movement in the market for industrial chemicals which continues stocked, and the cotton yarn market generally is quiet with little change except for a drop in American prices. European prices for paper are ruling 25 per cent below those of American figures. The executive has submitted to Congress a proposal for an increase of 50 per cent in present import tariff valuations and recommends exemption from import duties for lumber and certain other construction materials and industrial machinery. General building and construction is about normal. Immigration is increasing.

WIRE SUMMARY

The Electric Auto-Lite Company of Toledo reports net profits for the month of April, of $312,184, after interest and taxes, and for the four months ended April 30 net profits after interest and taxes of $1,122,625.48, which is an increase of 30 per cent over the same period of 1922. Gimbel Bros., Inc., has purchased the entire made-up wholesale stock of Columbia Grafonolas in the United States from Columbia Graphophone Company, of New York, in a transaction said to involve about 55,000 instruments, the present retail value of which is estimated about $7,500,000. The instruments purchased by Gimbel's are for their New York, Philadelphia and Milwaukee stores.

The New Haven system reports the May average daily interchange of freight cars was 5870 cars, the highest sustained average in the company's history.

Foundation Company Doing Big Business

NEW YORK, June 8.—The Foundation Company signed new business totaling $12,500,000, representing gross profits of approximately $1,014,000, in the first quarter of this year. The total amount of business actually on the books of the company at the present time is $28,500,000. The company expects to complete well over $15,000,000 of business in the last nine months of this year, ad according to estimates will earn over 20 per cent on the common stock after payments of preferred stick dividends.

The company has just closed large contracts for the construction of power houses in different parts of the country, one of which was for the Illinois Central Light & Power Company at Peoria, Illinois, and another for the Kentucky Utilities Company, at Pineville, Kentucky.

[illegible] has closed more contracts for new construction work than in any similar period for many months. The cessation of building activities has not effected the company in any way as it has been limited to speculative building, such as apartment houses [illegible] ways are going ahead with their plans and it is this class of work that constitutes the greater portion of the Foundation Company's business.

Lumber Industry Is Booming Again

SEATTLE, Wash., June 8.—Lumber production in Western Washington and Oregon, now one of the chief sawmill centers of the country, has come back with a rush after the recent temporary slump. Reports today from mill accounting for more than 75 per cent of the output, are above 19 per cent of normal capacity and new business is only four per cent below production.

As lumber is a basic industry in this section, activity in the sawmills and logging camps is stimulating trade in retail stores and wholesale houses in this state.

Mexican Output Of Oil Declines

TAMPICO, June 8.—Oil production in Mexico for the week ended June 2 was 2,053,000 barrels, against 3,015,000 in the preceding week. In southern light oil fields 1,171,000 barrels were produced, 32,000 less, while Panuco district yielded 1,792,000 barrels against 1,812,000 in the week ended May 26. Toteco production totaled 262,000, against 243,000.

CONTROL BOARD WILL TAKE HAND IN CAR HANDLING

Additional Efforts Planned to Provide Facilities to Move State Crops.

In an effort to prevent a repetition this year of the disastrous car shortage which held up the shipment of fruit last summer, Director G. H. Hecke of the State Department of Agriculture has asked the cooperation of the State Board of Control in securing new shipping facilities for the coming season.

Hecke and Gilbert B. Daniels, chairman of the control board, will attempt to secure the prompt return of California cars for the Pacific coast service.

California crops for this season, according to Hecks, will greatly exceed the production of 1922, when shipments of fruit and vegetables totaled 178,299 carloads. This will put an added burden on the carriers and increase the demand for cars during the rush months of August, September and October.

Cantaloupe shipments from Southern California, which last year totaled 15,472 cars, are now in progress and the railroads are being taxed to handle the greatly increased crop.

The apricot yield this year will be unusually heavy, Hecke said, and the plum crop will also run far ahead of last year's production.

Sugar Rise Due To Manipulation Say U. S. Agents

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Sugar's rapid jump in price, which in a few months has cost the American people millions of dollars, was economically, unjustified and artificially promoted, according to the interpretation of figures contained in the "survey of current business" compiled by Department of Commerce and Bureau of Census.

During the month of March, when sugar climbed one and three-tnths cents a pound, refiners apparently were stocking up, stocks on hand having increased over 160,000 long tons that month. The survey disclosed that refiners had stocks of 124,164 long tons February 28, and 284,800 long tons March 31, compared to 273,811 long tons March 31, 1922.

The official figure shows the wholesale price of refined sugar on the New York market to have been $0.073 February 28, and $0.086 March 31, compared to $0.052 March 31, 1922. Prices remained low in 1922, although in no month did the stocks of refined sugar in refiners' hands exceed the March 31 reserve of this year. In July, 1922, refined stocks were given as 95,719 long tons. The maximum supply was reacherd in September with 226,668 long tons, the reserve having fallen by December 31 to 177,470 long tons.

The accumulation of sugar stocks in March, during the price rise, is believed to be highly significant and probably has a bearing on future advances.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Berkeley bank clearings for the week ending June 7, 1923, were $4,160,448, an increase of $1,341,384 over last week. The total for the corresponding week a year ago was $4,428,454, showing a decrease of $268,006 or .06 per cent.

The C. L. Best Tractor Company of San Leandro, through Cyrus Peirce & Co., made public its report for the first four months of 1923. It shows profits of [illegible], after interest and before federal taxes, which is almost as great as that of the company for the entire year 1922.

The Central Power & Light Co.'s report for the twelve months ended March 31 shows a net revenue of $935,146, compared with $941,523 for the previous year; gross earnings, $3,095,150, compared with $3,238,434; and operating expenses [illegible]

Blair & Co., Inc., offered today a new issue of $3,000,000 Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Co. 3-year 6 per cent convertible gold notes. The proceeds will be used for the acquisition of additional right of way, the construction of additional transmission lines and for other additions and improvements to the properties, which, when completed, will give the company and its subsidiaries transmission and distribution capacity of fully 225,000 horsepower.

Hogs Drop to Price Level of January, 1916

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 8.—(International News Service.)—Hogs dropped to a new low level for more low levels here today when hogs were quoted at $7.15, reaching the low price of January 2, 1916, and 10 cents lower than the bottom in 1919.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 8.—Hog prices dropped to the lowest [illegible] market today. The decrease was attributed to heavy receipts and a liberal hang-over. Traders paid ten to fifteen cents lower than yesterday's prices, offering up to $6.60.

Packers were bidding fifteen to twenty cents lower, their top being $6.55. The receipts today were 5000.

Forty Whales Are Sighted Off Cape Blanco

ONE of the largest schools of whales sighted within recent years in Pacific Coast waters, was reported yesterday by the steamer H. F. Alexander of the Admiral Line, on its arrival from Seattle. Captain George Zeh, master of the H. F. Alexander, states that the school consisted of about forty [illegible] whales playing on the surface, and spouting columns of water. The whales were sighted off Cape Blanco, the Captain said. One of the officers of the steamer took a shot at the largest whale with a high-power rifle but if the huge animal was at all hit, it took little notice, and continued its spouting merrily.

ADMIRAL LINER ALEXANDER HAS GREAT RECORD

Now Sails Regularly From San Francisco Bay to Coast Ports.

The steamer H. F. Alexander of the Admiral Line, which left San Francisco bay yesterday for Los Angeles, and which maintains a regular schedule from Pacific coast ports, still has several records to her name. During war time the vessel, which was formerly the Great Northern, established the world's record round trip to Europe without refueling in France, beat the mighty Leviathan by three hours in a 3200 mile race from Brest to Ambrose Channel, and while in transport service landed more troops per day per 1000 tons than any other troop ship. In the period from March 12 to November 18, 1918, she landed approximately thirty thousand troops in France. Although she made twenty trips through the war zone, completing 72,000 miles.

The H. F. Alexander now maintains a fast service between Seattle, San Francisco bay and Los Angeles. She also conducts a winter service between San Francisco bay and Hawaii.

Pacific Bids On U. S. Ships Are Too Low

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Indication was given at the shipping board today that the bids received for the West Coast-Orient route might all be dropped because of the failure of the negotiators to meet minimum requirements set up by Chairman Lasker.

Conferences were still open, however, between representatives of the Dollar and Pacific Mail lines and officials of the board, and hope was expressed that supplementary bids might be made which would effect and agreement.

Chairman Lasker has set a basic price as necessary before he will even present a bid for the Pacific routes to the board for consideration. This figure, it was said today, has not been approached by any bidder.

In case the West Coast routes are not disposed of to the bidders now in the field, they will be included in those for which separate operating corporations will be found under the supervision of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

It has been said officially that President Harding would be disposed to extend the coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines as a means of assisting these and other lines fro mthe Pacific Coast if they are retained by the government, since the administration then would be in a position to prevent any of the conditions which thus far have influenced his refusal to authorize the extension.

ARM SUDDENLY PARALYZED

Oakland, April 28, 1923.

One day, as I was walking across the floor carrying a bucket of water, I had a paralytic stroke, and my right arm was paralyzed in a second. I was unable to even raise my hand, and my fingers were stiff and [illegible] about nine months, during which time I consulted several physicians, but none of them could do anything for me.

My husband and I determined at last to consult the FONG WAN HERBALIST, and as a result I began to drink the herb tea. During the first few weeks there were signs of improvement and I could move my fingers; now after ten weeks, I am entirely recovered. I can even sweep and scrub floors. No one can guess how happy I am. My address may be had at Fong Wan Office.

Want Ad Section INDEX

Want Ad Classifications appear in numerical order, and all related classes are grouped together. For example: All advertising of Rooms To Let is numbered 20 to 29. The numbers appear on the headings, so if you seek room and board look through the "20s"; "Board" is No. 25, and always follows "Housekeeping Rooms (24). Note—Every "For Sale" or "To Let" heading has a "Wanted" classification with the same number, but followed by the letter "A."

$2,373,020 IN BUILDING PERMIT ISSUED IN MAY

Some idea of Oakland's rapid growth in building can be ascertained from an announcement made today from the office of Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Frank Colbourn, giving the number and classes of building permits issued for the month of May.

During this month, according to the statement, building permits applied for and issued by the council totaled $2,373,020. Of this amount $891,201 was for one-story dwellings, for which 335 permits were requested. Two hundred and five thousand and seven hundred and seventy-eight dollars of the total amount stipulated for the permits were asked for construction of 17 two-story flat buildings.

The total number of buildings for which permits were applied for, according to Commissioner Colbourn's report, was 935. The permits also included one six-story store building, which will be constructed at a cost of $275,000.

Building permits applied for one week alone, that ending June 6, totaled $387,669, according to Colbourn. This amount provided for the construction of 209 buildings, 69 of which were one-story dwellings.

Quigg Will Contest Suit Is Set June 25

When the contest over the estate of the late Mary B. Quigg is called for trial in Superior Judge W. C. Robinson's court, June 25, interest will center in the testimony of Mrs. Susie Harrell contained in a deposition on file in the Superior court today.

The contest is one of peculiar interest, in that the Trinity Methodist church of Berkeley is contesting against Rev. Alvah G. Briggs and Arthur H. Briggs, both of whom have been prominent figures in the Anti-Saloon League for years past. Mrs. Herbert Briggs, Sarah Briggs and Jennie Briggs are also named in the church's suit. Miss Quigg left two wills. In the first she gave her $60,000 estate to the Trinity church. In the second she left it to the Briggs family, chiefly to Rev. Alvah Briggs.

INFLUENCE CHARGED.

In her deposition Mrs. Harrell states that on the day when the will was made in favor of the church, "Miss Quigg was not competent to transact any business," and that Attorney George Clark and Rev. Joseph Wythe were told this by Mrs. Harrell.

These two were at the El Reposo Sanitarium to see Miss Quigg on that day, the witness testified. Both talked to the patient, and in the course of their conversation Rev. Wythe told Miss Quigg that "his wife had died and gone to heaven, and if she left her money to the church she would get there, too," Mrs. Harell declares in her deposition.

The various members of the Briggs family called at the sanitarium very often for the purpose of seeing Miss Quigg, both before and after the first will was made, the witness said. They brought candy and flowers and clothing, the testimony relates. These visits were greatly enjoyed by Miss Quigg, who "lived on those days when her friends could come to see her," the nurse declared. Mrs. Harrell said she never saw Rev. Arthur H. Briggs at the sanitarium at all, but that Arthur H. Briggs came often, and that Miss Quigg was "very fond of him."

HAD HALLUCINATIONS.

Miss Quigg entertained a hallucination that she had very little money and that she kept this in a "little purse under the bed," the witness declared. There was no such purse under the bed, according to the nurse. Miss Quigg often expressed a desire to "return to my little house," and seemed fearful that her money would give out in payment of hospital bills.

On the day the second will was made Mrs. Alvah Briggs and Mrs. Sarah Briggs were at the sanitarium. Miss Quigg was very weak and had to be propped up in bed to sign the will, the testimony reads. However, she was able to hold the pen and to sign her name without difficulty, Mrs. Harrell declares.

JURY'S PROBE OF CAPITAL SCHOOL CHARGE DROPPED

Pastor Admits Accusations of Immorality Based On Rumor, Hearsay.

SACRAMENTO, June 8.—The grand jury has dropped the investigation into alleged immoral conditions in the local high schools, following the admission of Rev. O. P. Harnish, pastor of the United Bretheren church, that his statements upon which the investigation was opened, were based on rumor and hearsay.

When summoned before the jury Rev. Harnish admitted he had scored dances in the high schools and had heard talk of immorality in the schools, but he was unable to cite a single instance to substantiate his accusations.

NO SPECIFIC CASE.

He declared that there were certain religious influences encouraging dancing in the schools in order to taint the morality of the students and bring discredit upon the public school system. When the jury asked him if he had any proof of any demoralizing affect that the school dancing has had upon the students, Rev. Harnish said he could quote no specific cases. He said he had heard the downfall of many girls had been attributed to the dances.

Before Rev. Harnish had been called before the grand jury his statements had been denounced as false and proof of his charges had been demanded by members of the school board, school officials, heads of the Parent-Teacher Associations, and parents of high school students.

INTENSE FEELING AROUSED.

Intense feeling was roused in the city following the speech of Rev. Harnish before an audience of men in his church last Sunday, when he declared that the people of the city would be astounded if they knew of the immoral conditions among the pupils of the high schools.

High school students resented the statements most of all, and it is believed that they were responsible for the attempt to bomb the church Wednesday evening while Rev. Harnish was addressing an audience. The bomb was a rude affair, constructed of cardboard, and served only to frighten the inmates of the church when it exploded.

Parents and school officials denounced Rev. Harnish for his charges, with the exception of Mrs. Albert Greilich, president of the Stanford Parent-Teacher Association.

Alameda Students Plan to Hold Ball

ALAMEDA, June 8. — Surprise features arranged by students will be presented between dances at the senior ball of the Alameda High school to be held in the auditorium of the Porter school next Friday night, as announced by Julian Dickie, manager of the event.

More than two hundred invitations have been issued, it is said, and the affair is scheduled to be one of the most elaborate ever given under the auspices of the students. Will Low, assistant manager, is arranging unique decoration schemes to feature the class colors.

The event will bring to a close the activities in the high school for the spring term.

2,000,000 GERMAN MARKS TO BE GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC

Saturday, June 9, 1923, 2,000,000 German marks will be given to the public. Before the world war these marks were worth $480,000. On account of the instability of the German government, they have depreciated in value. Some day they may be worth their normal value again.

One thousand German marks, the equivalent of $240 before the world war, will be given free with every one dollar purchase or over at Osgood Bros.' drug stores, 7th and Broadway, 12th and Washington, June 9, 1923.—Advertisement.

INNER HARBOR MEN FOR SHORT BRIDGE DELAY

Association Members Would Limit Life of Structure to Six Months.

In a letter filed with Col. Herbert Deakyne of the U. S. Army engineers having jurisdiction over the harbors and rivers in this region, the members of the Oakland-Alameda Inner Harbor association protest against any protracted delay in the removal of the Harrison-street bridge, on the ground that all Congressional appropriations for the dredging of the harbor will be held up until the obstruction is removed.

The association members say that since a readjustment of the traffic over this bridge must be made, they believe it may as well be done now as at some date in the future. Consequently they petition that the time which the bridge is allowed to remain be extended no longer than six months. With the removal of the Harrison-street bridge, the association asserts, half of the interference of bridges in the estuary will be gone, and with the assurance of the contsruction of a tube to replace the Webster-street bridge, the next Congress will be disposed to allow the appropriation to carry out the improvements planned for the inner harbor.

At the last meeting of the association A. K. Tichenor was again elected president, and Lochiel M. King, secretary. The following were elected to the board of directors:

Noble Steed Drops Dead; Empty Surrey Abandoned

Considerable excitement was created in our town yesterday when a dead horse was found in front of the house of Nick Ball, our former well known fire chief, at 914 Long Ridge avenue. It is alleged on competent authority that the horse died of heart trouble caused by fright from sight of a steam-roller. The horse, not being used to this here new-fangled contrivance, pitched over dead.

Today an abandoned surrey was found on Twentieth avenue. Some of our well-known and justly popular policemen, headed by Captain Dick McSorley, investigated to find who abandoned the surrey and why, but no clew had been found up to the time our paper goes to press, though Mr. McSorley and the other, well-known boys on our popular police department wish us to say they are still working on the case.

There were no marks of violence on th esurrey. It was just merely abandoned. Mr. McSorley admits it was not as abandoned as some [illegible] of the auto-drivers who go zipping around our streets after curfew-time, but still the surrey was pretty well abandoned, there being nobody near it when it was found.

Howard C. oss, secretary to our prominent and popular commissioner of public safety, ordered the remains of the dead horse to be taken away by some of our efficient fire laddies, but the fire laddies compromised by letting a truck do it.

Our justly popular police boys are now trying to find out who let the horse and the surrey loose on our costly and well-kept highways.

WHY POSLAM HEALS SKINS SO QUICKLY

When your BODY is sick, the first thing your doctor orders is REST. And when your SKIN is sick it too must rest before it can heal.

That is the way Poslam works. A very little spread over the irritated skin stops the itching, burning and smarting right away. Then the gentle, wonderfully healing medication in Poslam begin to work. With the irritation gone, the skin at rest, it is easy for Poslam to check the inflammation and clear away the eruption. Often eczema, rashes or other skin troubles disappear in a few days!

Poslam costs 50c at any drug store. Poslam soap, medicated with Poslam, keeps skins healthy. For trial sample, send 10c to POSLAM, 243 W. 47th St., New York.—Advertisement.

OLD FIREHOUSE SOLD FOR $30

BERKELEY, June 8.—The city's first firehouse built more than forty years ago at Fifth street and University avenue, passed into private hands today. The change of ownership was made at a public sale conducted by Commissioner Charles D. Heywood, the old fire house going for $30. It was purchased by Lieutenant Grover Rosentreter of the fire department, who will wreck the building for the old lumber contained in it.

The firehouse, which was known as Beacon Enginehouse No. 1, has a sixty-foot hose-drying tower which is so weak from age that it is regarded as a menace to the neighborhood.
